G. O. P. PUTS ON ARMOR TO MEET RADICAL ATTACK

Norris Group Fires on Hoover Today.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 10.—[Special.]—On the eve of the conference tomorrow of [illegible] Republicans and Democrats, which is expected to [illegible] Hoover administration [illegible] and aft, the Republicans a National committee today [illegible] galvanized into a [illegible] of unwonted activity.

SEN. SIMEON D. FESS.
[Fotogram.]

The general objective of the committee was to forestall criticism of the administration with a defense. Senator Simeon D. Fess [Rep., O.], chairman of the committee, was closeted with the President for some time and was emerging said:

"The time has come when we must let the country know fully about the wise, steady, constructive work that has gone on here under the leadership of President Hoover. In other words, we are going to get into high gear."

Off to Florida for Rest.

Mr. Fess said that he was going to Florida in a few days for a little rest and that when he returns he will have the "high gear" program all mapped out and ready for submission to Mr. Hoover.

For more than a year the White House has been chafing at the assaults on the President by Democratic National Chairman John J. Raskob's high salaried publicity staff. The Democratic sleuths that sought out every flaw in the Hoover armor, were taken into custody at the White House and nowhere else. Plans were formulated repeatedly to organize a counter offensive, but nothing came of them. Now Mr. Fess is going to try his hand at it.

The Republican chairman's brief tribute to the President was followed by a long extended laudation of Mr. Hoover by James Francis Burke, general counsel of the Republican national committee. Mr. Burke put in the mouth of the administration's every conceivable charge that will be heard from the conference of Republican spokesmen and Thursday.

Burke Defends President.

When he got on to the subject of Mr. Hoover's efforts to diagnose and prescribe the cure for world-wide industrial depression Mr. Burke banged his desk with such violence that his eyeglasses jumped the length of their black ribbon.

"President Hoover has devoted himself to this task with an intelligence and an industry unsurpassed, if not equaled, by any other individual in any other government on earth," Mr. Burke declaimed. "Never in the history of the White House has there been such intelligent devotion to duty, such put aside every selfish political motive and invoked the cooperation of all minds in every department of life.

"No breach of capital or labor, no organization, no political party, no business or city, has been overlooked. We have all been called to the presidential council table and every emergency has been promptly discussed and dealt with in accordance with the combined wisdom.

"The President still is at work fifteen hours a day. He never seems to flag in the face of the big job ahead of him. But it is our job as well as his and we should help him through it now, when cooperation is so essential to our national welfare.

Back to Napoleon's Times.

"The President has made all sections of the country and all classes of people his partners in the solution of the nation's problems. He has had interpart exchanges of views. He has fashioned sane conclusions. That is why I believe Hoover common sense that people expected.

"Since the Napoleonic wars the world has suffered from economic and political disorders such as the one we have recently faced.

"As a result of meeting the emergency the President's leadership has progress towards recovery and has held relief against all the countries of the world. Our people are being cared for everywhere. The splendid spirit of cooperation and [illegible]

1,465,392 NOW ON POLL BOOKS FOR MAYORALTY

Democrats View Day as Aid to Cermak.

BY PARKE BROWN.

All predictions concerning yesterday's registration for the mayoralty election were smashed when the figures came in last night. There were 126,065 new names placed on the poll lists, making a total registration of 1,465,392 for the city.

The most sanguine forecast came from the Democratic managers on Monday. They said that 100,000 persons would register and they based that estimate on their belief that many thousands failed to register for the primary because they were not interested in the Republican nominating contest and because there was no battle for the Democratic nomination.

Called Cermak Registration.

A registration of 100,000, they said, would show a big increase in strength for A. J. Cermak, Democratic nominee for the mayoralty. When even their estimate, far above the official guess, was beaten, they were more certain than ever that yesterday's was a "Cermak registration." Following is yesterday's registration by wards:

50	43,542	3,767	47,309

The total of 1,465,392 will not stand until the election of April 7, since the revision by the judges and clerks next Saturday night will lower that figure by possibly as much as 40,000.

Sets Record for City.

The 1,465,392 is a record for unrevised registration in Chicago, surpassing the 1,389,742 unrevised figure before the 1928 presidential election. Unless something like 80,000 names are erased by revision and other methods the present total will exceed the revised registration figure of 1,385,631 in 1928.

The number of new names now on the books was taken as evidence that the vote four weeks from yesterday will pass the 1,000,000 mark and approach the records established heretofore in presidential years.

Examination of the ward figures demonstrated that, while there were the usual large registrations in the near south side wards and in the river wards where Thompson was strong in the primary, the surprising turnouts came in the wards that went against Thompson in the primary.

The lake front wards south of the colored district, the 6th, 7th, and 8th, in particular, went for Judge Lyle on Feb. 24 and yesterday they almost offset the 2d, 3d and 4th wards in the increase in their vote.

In the primary the big Republican wards of the northwest side, the 37th, 39th, 40th, and 41st, showed themselves to be anti-Thompson. Yesterday their registration was far above the average.

FIRST OF TAX BILLS WILL BE READY FOR MAILING MARCH 18

The first of Cook county's 1929 tax bills will be out by March 18. All bills will be in the hands of the taxpayers by April 20. This was announced yesterday by County Treasurer McDonough after County Clerk Sweitzer reported that work on the tax rates will be completed within a week.

At the same time it was announced that Attorney Thomas D. Nash, representing the county treasurer, will leave for Springfield today to ask the legislature for an extension in the tax delinquency date from April 1 to at least May 1. The attorney will urge the legislators to grant the county treasurer the power to fix the penalty date at thirty days after the last tax bills are out.

The extension of the delinquency date will cost the county's local governments approximately $500,000 in interest on tax anticipation warrants. This estimate was made by Michael J. O'Connor, assistant county controller.

The first bills to be mailed out will be those of the country townships. These taxes are collected by township collectors, who have three weeks to complete their work. After the delinquency date a penalty of one per cent per month will be assessed on all unpaid bills.

23,000 to See Golden Gloves Finals Tonight

Twenty-three thousand, all that Chicago Stadium will hold, tonight will watch the fourth annual battle for Golden Gloves.

Other thousands will hear the bouts over the radio. Not since Gene Tunney whipped Jack Dempsey at Soldiers' field three and a half years ago has Chicago shown such interest in a boxing show.

The world's attendance record for indoor boxing is 22,600, established in the intercity Golden Gloves match between Chicago and New York a year ago. Extra seats in the ringside section enable that figure to be exceeded tonight.

Twenty-one thousand tickets had been sold last night.

2,000 General Admissions.

Those who want to see the bouts and haven't got a ticket still have a chance. At 7:45 tonight, fifteen minutes after the show starts, 2,000 general admission tickets will be placed on sale at the Stadium box offices. They will cost one dollar each.

Nobody connected with the promotion of the Golden Gloves tournament makes a cent of profit. Contestants receive no money. The officials work for nothing. The net proceeds are donated to charity.

Thirty-two boys, the survivors of the wear and tear of a tournament that attracted 2,000 entries, provide the evening's entertainment. They come from Chicago and 12 of the 15 out of town centers which ran off preliminary meets. They represent the best amateur boxing talent between the banks of the Mississippi and the shores of Lake Erie.

Battles Until Midnight.

The first pair of flyweights will step into the ring at 7:30. Two minutes before that the Stadium will be darkened while spotlights are centered on the ring. Three world war veterans from the Medill post of the American Legion will raise the Stars and Stripes while the Stadium's mammoth organ peals forth "The Star Spangled Banner."

From then until midnight there will be no letup in action. Twenty-four bouts will be required to pick the team which Chicago will send against New York at Madison Square Garden on March 20. It is possible, even probable, that the winners of tonight's bouts will gain international fame. If they succeed in whipping their New York rivals they will earn a place on America's Golden Glove team for the international match with the champions of France at Chicago Stadium May 12.

As evidence of the increasing popularity of the Golden Gloves, consider that the 1930 finals drew 8,500 as compared tonight's throng of 23,000 There would be at least 30,000 in the Stadium tonight if there were seats to accommodate that number.

As for the boys—

The suspense is about over. Tonight the bell rings and the final round of fighting begins. This is a battle in which only the bravest survive.

Tonight will prove once and for all who can take it and who can give it. The courage of the contestants is not on trial. No boy without a heart of oak would have reached this stage of the stiffest competition amateur boxing has known.

NEVADA HOUSE VOTES TO LICENSE GAMBLING FOR STATE REVENUE

Carson City, Nev., March 10.—(AP)—A bill to license gambling in Nevada bore the approval of the house today and was sent to the senate for action.

After long debate the measure was passed by the house yesterday by a vote of 24 to 11.

The bill would permit gambling under a license for each game and machine, the amount varying according to population of localities. Of the fees collected, 25 per cent would go to the state, 25 per cent to the county, and 50 per cent to the cities and towns.

Those supporting the bill argued that it would place the gambling business under state control and would prevent corruption of local officials where it was contended, gambling now flourishes despite the fact that it is against the law.

Another argument presented in favor of licensed gambling was that it would serve as a source of revenue.

E. C. Mulcahy, Democratic floor leader, led the opposition to the bill. He declared that it would be a "poor form" of revenue legislation and charged that it deprived city and county governments of all authority to regulate gambling. He also attacked the bill on moral grounds.

CARDS IN VEST POCKET STOP BANDIT BULLET

Samuel Kastel, druggist at 2832 Devon avenue, started to obey orders last night when an armed robber told him to go into the rear part of his store. On the way, however, he drew the pistol he was carrying in his pocket, whirled about, and fired at the bandit. The man fired back. The bullet was directed straight at Kastel's heart, but a packet of business cards he carried in his upper vest pocket stopped the leaden pellet so effectively that his wound was only skin deep. The robber, believed to have been wounded, escaped.

Seek Arrest of Pantages as Girl Buyer

San Diego, Cal., March 10.—[Special.]—Jesse Shreve, wealthy San Diego real estate man, was arrested today on charges of statutory offenses against young girls. Alexander Pantages, Los Angeles theater millionaire, was being sought on similar charges. Pantages is in Agua Caliente, Mexico, 19 miles south of here.

The charges, which also include John P. Mills, broker, arrested and released on bonds in Los Angeles, grew out of disclosures in the records of the Hollywood high school girl love syndicate, which authorities charge was operated by Olive Clark Day and William Jobelmann. The specific charges are that Alice Blake, 16 year old Hollywood girl, and Helen Livingston, 19, of Long Beach, Cal., were brought here for immoral purposes and became the companions at a hotel here of Pantages and Shreve.

Pantages to Surrender.

Shreve furnished $25,000 bonds. William I. Gilbert, Los Angeles attorney representing Pantages, was on his way here tonight with $50,000 in securities to place as bonds for the theater man. Pantages has arranged by telephone to surrender in San Diego when his attorney reaches here.

District Attorney Thomas Whelan of San Diego county spent the earlier part of the week conferring in Los Angeles with District Attorney Buron Fitts of Los Angeles, and stated that the two prosecutors had supplemented each other's information as to the "selling" and delivering of Hollywood school girls, as week-end hotel companions of wealthy men in San Diego.

Miss Blake is said to have recognized a picture of the theater magnate as that of a man who was introduced to her in San Diego under an assumed name after she had been conducted there by Olive Clark Day.

Fees Reported as $200 Each.

Fees of $200 each were paid to Olive Day by the men, for the overnight companionship of the high school children, according to reports. Of this sum, the two girls were given less than $25 each, the report has it.

Miss Blake and Miss Livingston were held in Los Angeles today under technical custody of the district attorney's office.

Besides the Blake and Livingston girls, Clarice Tauber, 16, and Helen Scott, 15, are similarly held in technical custody, with girls known as Patsy Fox, and others, under investigation or sought.

Pantages when reached by reporters at Agua Caliente stated that he did not know the Blake girl. He said that he had not attended any such parties as those reported by District Attorney Whelan.

"It is only a frameup to hurt me when the appeal of my previous case goes to the California Supreme court for decision," he said.

Pantages referred to his conviction, by a Los Angeles jury in 1929, on charges of rape preferred by Eunice Pringle, then 17 years old. Pantages was sentenced for a one to fifty year term in San Quentin, but appealed and secured an appellate court order for a new trial. The Los Angeles authorities then appealed for a rehearing of Pantages' conviction, and this awaits Supreme court action.

Wife Supports Pantages.

Pantages' vehement denials were echoed today by those of his wife, Mrs. Lois Pantages, who is with him at Agua Caliente.

A conference between Pantages, Archie Shreve, brother of Jesse Shreve, and Mills took place in Agua Caliente within the last two days, it was learned.

Shreve made the comment in San Diego that he had attended parties at which Mills was host, and which Pantages also attended, but Shreve stated that the parties were attended by several men and women, all of high standing, and nothing out of the way occurred.

FARMER JURY VOTES VERDICT IN THREE HOURS

Youth Pales as He Learns His Fate.

BY WALTER FITZMAURICE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Valparaiso, Ind., March 10.—[Special.]—Virgil Kirkland was found guilty of the murder of his Gary high school sweetheart, Arlene Draves, by a jury in Porter county court here tonight. The jurors fixed the penalty at life imprisonment.

Standing eleven to one for conviction on the first ballot, the jury, composed of nine elderly farmers and three rural tradesmen, deliberated for two hours on whether to deal the death sentence to the 20 year old defendant.

The third and fourth counts in his indictment charged murder and attempted murder by rape, an offense carrying a mandatory death penalty under Indiana law. Prosecutor Robert G. Underwood of Porter county, in his final argument, had reviewed the evidence that Arlene died of injuries suffered in a gang rape incited by Kirkland during a Gary liquor revel last Nov. 29, and closed with a plea that he be sent to the electric chair.

Youth Saves Him from Chair.

In inflicting the lesser penalty the jurors said they were influenced by the defendant's youth. At times during the debate eleven of the twelve stood solidly for death, but their foreman, A. E. Upp, 53 year old Valparaiso grocer, held out for less than a capital sentence.

The count on which they agreed was murder in the first degree, an offense carrying automatic life penalty. Only by pardon or parole of the governor can Kirkland escape spending the rest of his life behind the gray prison walls at Michigan City.

The defendant's face was pale and haggard as Judge Grant Crumpacker, in an even voice, read the verdict handed him by the jury foreman. He had been jaunty at the close of court this afternoon, even smiling at Prosecutor Estill and congratulating him on his eloquence in the address demanding the electric chair.

Forewarned of His Fate.

Forewarned of his impending fate as he sat in his cell in the county jail at the corner of the courthouse square, his face was drawn and set as Sheriff Burney Maxwell and five deputies marched him in the courtroom.

His mother, Mrs. Myrtle Kirkland, also aware of the probable outcome, tried to steel her emotions, but burst into heavy sobbing as the verdict was read. Brushing off the restraining arm of her husband, Elmer Kirkland, Virgil's stepfather, she rushed through the crowd to the boy, sitting manacled to the sheriff, and clasped him in her arms. "God bless you, my darling child," she murmured over and over as the tearless Kirkland nestled close and looked into her face.

Mother and son stood clasped thus for three minutes, apparently oblivious of the staring throng around them as the encircling row of photographers began shooting flashlights. Finally Sheriff Maxwell tugged at the manacles and Kirkland spoke.

Asks Mother to See Him in Jail.

"You go now, Ma," he said. "You can see me later at the jail."

The defendant, collegiate appearing with his bare head and camel's hair coat, was led away to be returned to court a few minutes later, when Judge Crumpacker fixed the date of sentence. By agreement of counsel the sentence will be read next Monday at 9:30 a. m.

Robert G. Estill of Indiana Harbor, Lake county prosecutor, and his associate, Special Prosecutor John Underwood, said they were satisfied with the verdict. Attorneys Barratt O'Hara and John Crumpacker of Kirkland's counsel said they would demand a new trial and, if denied it, would appeal to the Supreme court.

With fifty instructions from Judge Crumpacker and 22 possible verdicts ranging from assault and battery to murder by rape, the jury retired to deliberate at 5:15. On the first ballot, fifteen minutes later, reporters could hear Foreman Upp counting the votes.

Reporters Crouch by Door.

Through the stout oak door of the adjoining courtroom came his voice counting one, two, three and up to seven for guilty, then one acquittal vote and the others guilty. Reporters, crouching by the door, were discovered by the bailiff, John McVay.

"Get out of here," he yelled, loud enough for the jurors to hear. "Get out or I'll have you all clapped in jail."

The dim lit courtroom was filling up with spectators, having been cleared when the jury retired. Mrs. Kirkland, occasionally tearful, sat discussing the evidence with her husband. Across the floor sat Arlene's father, Charles Draves, with his sons, Elmer, Kenneth, and Carl.

For the first time since the trial began 15 days ago, the elder Draves wore a smile when the verdict came in.

"I knew these men would do the decent thing" he observed. "For the first time since Arlene died I feel at peace. I have no malice towards Kirkland, but he got what he deserved."

John Cuson, youngest of the jury, said his judgment was influenced mainly by the straightforward attitude of the state witnesses, policemen, medical experts, and Kirkland's former friends, who testified against him at the trial.

Leon Stanford, one of Kirkland's four fellow defendants awaiting trial, joined the convicted youth in the Porter county jail here. Stanford's attorney, Robert F. Moore, as in the case of Kirkland, had obtained a change of venue from Gary, Lake county, to Valparaiso, Porter county. Moore announced he would demand an early trial.

No plans are fixed for the other three, David Thompson, Henry Shirk, and Paul Barton, Mr. Moore said. In view of the failure of Kirkland's lawyers to pin the guilt for Arlene's death on his clients, Mr. Moore said, he anticipated an acquittal of the four.

The Lake county prosecutor, Estill, closed for the state at 4:15 p. m. with an eloquent plea to send Kirkland to the electric chair for the protection of girlhood and as an object lesson to all rapists.

Blames It on Gin Jazz Age.

Closing for the defense, Attorney Barratt O'Hara of Chicago had pictured Kirkland as a victim of what he termed the gin jazz age, undergoing the ordeal of trial with his life at stake because of the preposterous charge that he killed the girl he loved and intended to marry.

During the whole day's argument the young defendant heard himself variously referred to as a "beast" and an "unhappy boy" and sat unmoved. Tears were shed a-plenty by his own relatives and the family of the dead girl.

When, with the vehement denunciation of Kirkland, Mr. Estill concluded his address, Judge Grant Crumpacker made an announcement. His instructions to the jury would require fifty minutes, the judge said, adding that all who wished to leave should go immediately.

Only a few of the 600 spectators jamming the courtroom pushed their way through the exits. The judge, exceeding by only a few minutes his estimate of the time required for the instructions, read them through in an even voice.

Various Forms of Verdict.

Then he directed his bailiff, John McNay, to lead the jury to their chamber and leave with them the various forms of verdict. The forms covered every offense from assault and battery to murder by rape.

"The indictment against this defendant contains four counts," Judge Crumpacker had explained to the jurors. "The first charges attempted murder with a blunt weapon and you may, under it, find the defendant guilty of the lesser offense of assault and battery, carrying a penalty of one to ten years."

The judge read through the second count, charging murder with a blunt instrument. Under this count, he explained that the jury might convict Kirkland to life imprisonment. He came to the third and fourth counts.

"Now, gentlemen, I want you to fully understand that if you find this defendant guilty of murder or attempted murder by rape," he admonished them, "I will be compelled by the law to sentence him to death."

Sober faced the jurymen retired. Kirkland, looking a little forlorn, watched them go. Within ten minutes the jurymen were taking their first ballot.

Through the south oak door of the courtroom adjoining their chamber came the sound of their voices. The foreman, as yet unidentified, was distributing ballots to be cast into a hat. There was a silence and then the voice began to count. One, two, three and up to six for guilty of murder, with the seventh juryman voting not guilty. "Come on, now, aren't you an American citizen?" the foreman's voice objected. "Let's have another ballot." They balloted again with the same result. The argument grew more heated, but the lone juror remained obdurate.

Estill Closes for State.

Closing for the state, Prosecuter Estill declared the defense lawyers, particularly O'Hara, had tried to hypnotise the jury with high flown oratory. He assured the twelve men before him of his confidence that they would, after brief deliberation, return a verdict of murder by rape, leaving it for Judge Crumpacker to sentence Kirkland to the chair, as the law provides.

"We have heard marvelous discourses on every subject but the issue in this case," the prosecutor began. "I wonder that, in view of most of you men being farmers, O'Hara overlooked a discussion of farm relief. There has been shouting on the question of reasonable doubt and presumption of innocence. I ask you jurymen, can there be any doubt of Kirkland's guilt, reasonable or unreasonable?

"Mr. O'Hara spoke interminably in his argument of 'going back to the crossroads.' It wasn't until he got near the end of his speech that I discovered he was talking about the crossroads of prohibition."

DECAPITATED BODY OF MISSING GIRL, 10, IS FOUND IN A SACK

San Diego, Cal., March 10.—[Special.]—The body of Virginia Brooks, 10 year old schoolgirl, missing from her home since Feb. 11, was located on the Camp Kearney mesa this morning by a collie dog which brought its master, George H. Moses, a sheep herder.

VIRGINIA BROOKS.

The body was decapitated and otherwise mutilated. The only clew to the slayer was two automobile tracks leading to the spot. Coroner's deputies said the girl had been dead for weeks, possibly since the day she disappeared, although hundreds of searchers had been scouring California from San Diego to the Mexican border, and as far east as Tucson, Ariz., for her.

The girl's body was in a burlap sack and nearby in another sack were her library and school books. The automobile tire tracks enter the mesa from the Escondido highway, and indicate where the machine with its ghastly burden sped over the low brush and through soggy places on the ground to a point nearly a mile from the pavement.

Police believe that Virginia's killer is hiding somewhere in San Diego as the sack containing the mutilated body had been lying on the mesa not more than 24 hours.

The little girl's body told a ghastly story, similar to that of 11 year old Marion Parker, victim of the notorious Eddie Hickman, who was executed for the murder in 1927.

Lists Eleven Facts for Jurors.

The prosecutor declared he had not come before the jury to make a speech for or against prohibition. There were, he said, eleven outstanding and undisputed facts in the evidence, and, as he counted them off on his fingers, he begged the jurors to carry them in their minds when they retired to deliberate. The facts as enumerated by the prosecutor were:

1. That Arlene Draves died.
2. That her death resulted from violent injuries.
3. That her body bore 27 bruises when examined at an autopsy.
4. That Virgil Kirkland was her escort and constant companion on the night of her death.
5. That he admitted having relations with her that night.
6. That Virgil Kirkland was one of three youths who left her body lifeless on a sofa in a doctor's home early the next morning.
7. That he fled from the physician's home without giving his name or hers.

Quotes Virgil as Saying "I'm Sunk."

8. That when he learned that the police were coming to arrest him he said, "I'm sunk."
9. That he knew he was taking Arlene to a liquor party.
10. That, shortly before her death, Arlene had begged him to take her home.
11. That every detail of evidence in the case proved her a normal, virtuous girl.

"You men of the jury heard O'Hara blame the gin jazz age for this tragedy," the prosecutor cried. "Kirkland's lawyer would have you picture this case as the tragedy of a boy and a girl in an accident. I'm astonished that he didn't advocate free love."

During O'Hara's address, the defendant's mother, Mrs. Myrtle Kirkland, wept profusely. As the prosecutor swept into his final plea, the dead Arlene's father, Charles Draves, began to cry.

"Yes, the eloquent O'Hara pictured to you the grimness of the electric chair," Mr. Estill recalled. "Will you jurymen allow one's mother's grief to deter you from your duty when hundreds of thousands of other mothers throughout this land are listening for your verdict, to learn whether you men of Indiana propose to place a license on depraved youths such as this boy to go out and do as he did?"

Follows Estill's Every Move.

The prosecutor turned dramatically to point at the frail Charles Draves, sitting with bowed head at the prosecution table. Kirkland's face betrayed no expression, but his eyes followed Mr. Estill's every move.

"Let me paint you a picture in contrast with O'Hara's scene of the execution chamber," the prosecutor resumed in a softer voice. "There sits an old man, burdened with years, listening with us of the prosecution counsel day after day as the doctors for state and defense unfolded the story of the terrible injuries inflicted on his poor daughter's body before this defendant left her dead."

As Mr. Estill pointed, the father of Arlene bowed his gray head and wept. His eyes still were rimmed with red when the jury retired.

"O'Hara took you back into the childhood of the defendant whom he called 'this pureminded, wholesome boy,'" Estill said, his tone sharpening with sarcasm. "Let me paint you a picture of Arlene, an auburn haired child twelve years ago on her father's farm, the baby of the family, playing innocently around the homestead at Reynolds, Ind., and now because, of the brutal expression of the passion of this beast here on trial," he shouted, "that girl's body lies under the sod of a rural cemetery, in peace at last, I hope. Are you jurymen going to permit such a crime to happen, turn this beast loose and in effect tell others of his kind to go forth and do likewise?

Prosecutor Congratulated.

"Now, gentlemen of the jury," Estill concluded, "I am confident you will retire to the jury room, spend a little time in deliberating, and return here with a verdict convicting this defendant of the atrocious crime we have proven. Let the judge inflict the sentence in accordance with the law."

The speech of the prosecutor, a former clergyman of the Christian church, almost lifted the spectators from their chairs. When he had finished, Arlene's father, her brothers and sisters, newspaper men, and even opposing counsel crowded around to shake his hand.

Attorney O'Hara, fresh from the barber's chair, opened the afternoon session with the final plea in Kirkland's behalf. Pointing to the boy, he declared the jury was not trying him, but the whole social system. "And why do I say this?" he demanded. "Because, gentlemen of the jury, the attention of the whole nation today is focused on this stately courthouse, awaiting your verdict.

"Opposing counsel said something early in this trial about my coming from Chicago," Mr. O'Hara said. "Lord bless you, gentlemen of the jury, don't think I am trying to apologize for coming here from Chicago and from Illinois.

"Mr. Underwood of opposing counsel slurred my coming from Chicago," O'Hara repeated. "When I read a famous author, I don't ask whether he comes from Chicago, from Florida, or Indiana. I say thank God that gifted poetic soul is an American.

Calls It an American Case.

"And thus it is with this case," he pressed on. "It's an American case, not an Indiana case alone, and the American public looks to you for a decision that will awaken a response in all their hearts."

Here Mrs. Kirkland began to weep. Her husband, Elmer Kirkland, the stepfather of the defendant, stroked her shoulder as she sobbed in her handkerchief.

"Which of you jurymen of Indiana," Mr. O'Hara demanded, "would be willing that this boy's body be bound in the electric chair and burned, burned, burned until he is dead? You can do it. But it will be your responsibility alone. I came into this case, seeing an opportunity to do a service for the land I love in defending this boy," the Chicago lawyer declared. "Put him in the chair if you will, or behind prison walls to ruin his life. But remember that the fifth commandment says, 'Thou shalt not kill.'"

Speaks Directly at Juror.

O'Hara's face was streaming perspiration and his uncropped gray hair was touseled like a wheat shock on his head. He leaned upon the brass rail before the jury box and spoke directly at Juror James Riggs, who was leaning back in the swivel chair, his eyes half closed. "Put him in the chair," O'Hara shouted. "He won't care after that—he'll be dead. But his mother, that noble woman sobbing there on the front bench—the mother who took in washings to bring that boy up—she will cry bitterer tears."

Suddenly the lawyer turned from the jury box, faced Kirkland, and pointed a dramatic finger. The defendant's brow lifted, reflecting a little surprise.

"Virgil Kirkland," O'Hara thundered, "you are accused of taking the life of a beautiful young girl. Virgil Kirkland, you loved that girl. Virgil Kirkland, I know you did not take her life."

Stepping slowly backwards, O'Hara leaned his elbow on the brass rail, ranging himself as if he were among the jury. "Let's be fair with ourselves," he addressed the courtroom generally. "Virgil Kirkland, we of the older generation are responsible for your presence at the gin orgy that night. We are responsible for the tragic death of your sweetheart. We are responsible for the ordeal you are under here.

"But," O'Hara concluded in a ringing voice, "we are going to understand your generation, take your hand and lead you back to the crossroads, where we'll work out this whole problem together. All America is going to return to the simple faith of a simple people in simple things."

O'Hara pictured a boy and a girl of an earlier generation, sliding on their sled down a snowclad hillside; they indulged in an intimacy and the sled crashed into a tree, killing the girl.

"It might have happened to any one—to your own sons, juryman of Indiana," O'Hara averred. "But in Kirkland's case we have instead of the snowy hill a speakeasy, a lewd movie and sexy novels. We have wild parties. Fundamentally, the situation is the same—just a boy, a girl, and an accident."

Arlene's Sister Hysterical.

Opening the state's argument this forenoon, Assistant Prosecutor Edmond Freund of Valparaiso waved before the jurymen photographs of Arlene's bust, taken at the morgue. He scored the defense for insisting on a second post mortem and was plunging into a description of the scene of the autopsy in the village hall at Reynolds, Ind., when Arlene's sister, Carolyn, became hysterical. Half rising in her chair, the girl began to swoon. Her brothers knelt before her, giving her support, and when she sank into a coma, picked her up and carried her towards the nearest door, their leaving being impeded by the crowd.

As the three brothers neared the door with their limp burden, Carolyn regained consciousness and began a violent sobbing. Her father, seated at the prosecution table, began to weep. Kirkland did not take his eyes from the jurymen, who saw and heard it all.

Mr. Freund seized the photographs of Arlene. "Look at that face," he demanded. "See those knuckle marks on the jaw? Look at that defendant, all dressed up like a sheik there in his chair. He was a high school athlete, gentlemen of the jury, and he has a punch. It didn't take much of a punch to knock out that 18 year old 110 pound girl."

Pays Tribute to Oldham.

Discussing the medical evidence, Mr. Freund paid tribute to the skill of Attorney Ronald Oldham of Chicago, one of defense counsel, for his searching cross-examination of the state's medical experts.

"You've heard a lot of medical testimony in this case," Mr. Freund told the jury. "And remember that, under Indiana law, the prosecutor must do all his investigating through the cumbrous form of grand jury procedure. The state didn't have the money to hire the array of medical experts the defense produced. But those we did bring here—men of Indiana whom you know—stood up rigidly under the cross-examination of Mr. Oldham and, in all my years of practice, I never saw a more searching cross-examination than he conducted."

Mr. Oldham, resplendent in a frock coat and striped gray trousers, with a heavy watch chain across his white piped vest, followed Mr. Freund. Oldham, a former Kentucky judge, ripped into Prosecutor Underwood for what he termed the prosecutor's unfair tactics, analyzed the evidence and summed up with the conclusion that Kirkland could not possibly be considered guilty of murder.

"If you expect oratory from me, you'll be disappointed," the defense lawyer began. "I'm just a country lawyer from a Kentucky town and I don't spout oratory, but I do know the evidence in this case—know it by heart. There were fifty witnesses, and I can tell you every word each one said.

"Now let's get into the evidence in this case," he resumed in a brisker tone. "What happened that night? Richard Sturtridge, the only sober witness at that party, told you that Kirkland, Arlene and another couple at the party consumed three-quarters of a pint of grain alcohol before the main refreshments—a gallon of alcohol and a gallon of wine—arrived.

"You men know what a knockout there is in raw alcohol," he continued. "You and I couldn't drink one glass without being knocked out. The testimony is that Arlene drank a glass of it, mixed with water, and she drank the wine.

"Now, jurymen of Indiana, use your plain common sense," the lawyer urged. "Arlene went out on the porch with Kirkland for the first time, not when Sturtridge saw them as the state contends, but an hour before. It was then that the intimacy occurred. She didn't cry out—she didn't complain. Afterwards, she was dancing happily in the living room, and then she and Kirkland went out again.

Tells of Fall on Porch.

"There was a fall. The prosecution has made much of the fact that Kirkland let Sturtridge pick her up. Remember, though, that he had been drinking alcohol. He said he was stunned—and who wouldn't be?

"Underwood would have you believe Arlene's last words were: 'Please take me home.' That's Underwood's bunk, or, to use a political phrase, it's plain baloney. What she did say was: 'I want to go home.' And why shouldn't she want to go home? She had been drinking alcohol and was sick."

STANDS IN THEATER TICKET LINE TO HOLD UP CASHIER

A nonchalant Negro robber, who stood in line with six patrons of the Piccadilly theater at Hyde Park boulevard and Blackstone avenue, thrust a pistol before the cashier, Miss Alice Lewis, when it came his turn to buy a ticket last evening and forced her to surrender $60. Then carefully placing his pistol back in his pocket, he sauntered with unhurried steps around the corner.

ALICE LEWIS. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

In front of the robber in the ticket line were two children. Behind him were four adults. Although he was within easy reach of all of them, no attempt was made to stop him. The robbery was the fourth at this theater within a year and the third since Jan. 15.

WITNESS NAMES WHITE AS DRIVER OF BANDIT AUTO

State Scores a Point in Murder Trial.

CRIMINAL COURT.

Joseph Rodriguez, rape, sentenced to 18 months in the penitentiary; Leonard Spehelma, larceny, sentenced to 1 year in the Bridewell by Judge Philip Finnegan.

Martin Mandoza, assault to rob, sentenced to 1 to 14 years in the penitentiary by Judge Rose C. Hall.

William J. [Three Fingered Jack] White, public enemy, who is being tried in Judge Joseph Sabath's Criminal court for the murder of Policeman Edward Pflaume of Forest Park, was positively identified in court yesterday afternoon as the driver of the automobile containing the bandits who fled from the scene of the West McHenry bank robbery on Oct. 24, 1925.

WILLIAM J. WHITE.

This is considered the most important testimony in the trial because, according to Assistant State's Attorneys Harry Ditchburne and James Brown, such an identification established that the police had a right to arrest White.

White was tried five years ago for the murder of Policeman Pflaume and sentenced to life imprisonment. The supreme court, however, reversed the conviction, holding that the prosecution did not prove that the policeman had any legal right to attempt to arrest White at the time Policeman Pflaume was shot to death on Dec. 13, 1925, in front of the Mannheim inn, at Mannheim road and 22d street.

Clash with Defense.

The prosecutors during the afternoon had frequent clashes with Attorneys W. W. O'Brien, Everett Jennings and W. W. Smith for the defense, before they were able to identify White as an occupant of the bandit car. Nine witnesses were necessary before the prosecution, under the constant objections of the defense attorneys, was able to get in the vital evidence. The car had to be traced step by step from the time of the bank robbery until it was ultimately seen four miles away by a farm hand who recognized the occupants of the car.

Prosecuters Ditchburne and Brown objected frequently to the "wisecracks" of the defense lawyers, which brought laughs from the spectators. Judge Sabath told the attorneys that they must cease or he would take summary action.

Hilding Hanson, a farm hand on the Pearson farm at Beatville, near West McHenry, was the witness who identified White and three other occupants of the robbers' car.

Carl Stenger, who was president of the West McHenry bank, first told of the $18,000 robbery. He recognized Jimmy Johnston as one of the robbers. Johnston was killed at the same time as Policeman Pflaume. The movements of the bandit car were then traced mile by mile through various McHenry county residents until it reached the Pearson farm, where Hanson was at work.

"Do you see the driver of the car in this courtroom?" Prosecutor Brown asked Hanson.

"Yes, that is the man over there," the witness replied, pointing at White. Hanson said that he had previously known White, Johnston, Edward Cosgrove, and Thomas Shupe because they made their headquarters before the robbery at a hot dog stand near Bearville. The witness asserted that he had seen them a dozen times.

Attorney Attacks Testimony.

Attorney O'Brien attacked Hanson's testimony in his cross-examination, trying to show that it was impossible to identify four passengers in an automobile going 40 or 45 miles an hour.

White seemed nervous over the testimony of Hanson. He frequently talked with Attorney O'Brien, his chief counsel, while Hanson was on the stand.

Hanson identified a photograph of the car used by White at the time of the Pflaume murder as the same one used at the time of the bank robbery.

Fred Vanicek, owner of the Mannheim inn, appeared reluctant to testify and was called as a court's witness. He could not say, he said, who fired the fatal shots. He made a point for the defense when he said that he heard shooting outside of the roadhouse. The defense contends that Pflaume was killed by one of his associates. The state charges that the policeman was shot inside of the roadhouse by White.

Income Tax Collections Show Drop of $765,649

Income taxes collected for the first Illinois district from Jan. 1 to yesterday totaled $7,109,762, according to figures released by Acting Collector Robert E. Neely. This was a decrease of $765,649 compared with the total collected during the same period last year. A total of 43,700 persons had filed yesterday, compared with 58,200 for the same period last year, showing an increase of $27 in the average tax paid. The deadline for the filing of returns is midnight Monday.

CIVILIAN POLICE CHIEF IS ASKED BY COMMITTEE

A movement to place a civilian at the head of the Chicago police department as the first step in reorganizing the police force was started yesterday by the citizens' police committee.

John A. Carroll, south side banker, made the suggestion for a civilian commissioner at a meeting of the citizens' advisory board, appointed by the police committee, at which the report of the long survey of police problems made by the police committee was submitted for approval. The report has just been published in book form by the University of Chicago Press.

In accordance with the suggestion, a subcommittee of three—Mr. Carroll, Col. A. A. Sprague, and Col. Henry Barrett Chamberlin—was appointed to wait upon the mayoralty candidates in an effort to obtain a promise that whichever is elected as mayor in April will select some one outside of the police ranks as commissioner.

OFFICIALS OF U. S. DENY POLITICS IN MURRAY'S PAROLE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 10.—[Special.]—Investigation of the granting of a federal parole to James Murray, Chicago ward politician who was imprisoned for his part in the Rondout mail robbery of 1924, disclosed today that the government in the rôle of a robbery victim behaves in much the same manner as the average citizen who is a victim of holdup men. In both cases the chief concern apparently is the return of the stolen property rather than adequate punishment for the criminal.

Government officials emphatically denied that inside political pressure had had anything to do with the parole of Murray before he had served a quarter of his original 25 year sentence. They said that valuable information given by Murray to postal inspectors had played a major rôle in his release.

Turns Up $345,500 of Loot.

According to officials of the department of justice, Murray's information enabled the postal authorities to recover $345,500 of the $2,000,000 loot seized by a gang of six men in the Rondout robbery. It was also hinted that other information supplied by Murray had been of value to the department.

In 1929 Murray told Grant Miller, chief postal inspector at Washington, where the money could be found. Immediately after his conference with Miller, who now is dead, Murray filed a petition for executive clemency. Miller then recommended that Murray's sentence be commuted to 12 years. He also visited James A. Finch, attorney in charge of pardons, and urged that favorable action be taken on the petition.

The Murray petition, accompanied by a favorable report by Finch and recommendations for clemency by Miller and District Attorney Johnson of Chicago, went to the White House. President Hoover on May 12, 1930, commuted Murray's sentence to 12 years.

Then Parole Is Granted.

The commutation alone would have released Murray on Dec. 26, 1932, officials said. Murray, however, applied for a parole. A hearing was held before Arthur D. Wood, head of the pardon board. According to board members, great weight was given to the recommendations of Miller and Johnson. It was indicated also that since Murray had aided the government the board thought the government should play the game with Murray.

The parole was granted and Murray will be released from Atlanta penitentiary on May 26. When he departs from the prison only two of the 8 men sentenced in connection with the Rondout robbery will be left there. They are William J. Fahy, former Chicago postal inspector, who was sentenced to a 25 year term, and Willie Newton, who is serving a 12 year term. Newton was refused a parole because he is wanted in another state.

Herbert S. Holliday, who was sentenced to 25 years in prison, received a commutation of sentence when he turned back $101,000 in liberty bonds and subsequently was released on parole.

Political Pressure Denied.

Department of justice and White House officials denied that any political pressure had been exerted either for commutation of Murray's sentence or for his parole. Department of justice officials admitted the government had favored clemency in Murray's case because Murray had aided the government.

Postoffice department officials denied that they bargained with criminals, but it was admitted that postal inspectors are inclined to deal more leniently with imprisoned crooks who give them valuable information. Thomas M. Milligan is now chief postal inspector.

In his report on the Murray case, Attorney General Mitchell pointed out that Murray "had returned to the postoffice department $345,000 and rendered valuable service to the government."

JOHNSON COMMENTS ON CASE.

United States Attorney Johnson said last night that he had informed Washington authorities he knew nothing about the return of the stolen bonds on Murray's part, or about any promises of leniency that may have been made to Murray, the case having been prosecuted before his term of office.

"I did, however, recommend that if Murray was promised any consideration, or that if there was a tacit understanding that he would receive clemency, the government should keep its faith," Mr. Johnson said. "I was emphatic about this, for the government cannot expect to obtain valuable information from gangsters unless it does keep faith with them."

CERMAK GAINS AS SOUTH SIDE POLL CONTINUES

Pre-Campaign Poll

	Previous vote.	Yesterday's vote.	Totals.	Per cent.
Cermak [D]	2,065	716	2,721	55.27
Thomp'n [R]	1,572	465	2,337	45.76
Stout [A]	40	10	50	.98

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

Anton J. Cermak, the Democratic candidate for mayor, climbed farther into the lead yesterday in the straw voting. The poll was taken in the 11th, 12th, 13th, 14th, 15th and 16th wards, all on the south side.

In these wards each time Mayor Thompson was given two straws, Mr. Cermak was given three by his supporters. That was the ratio in the 1,191 straws gathered.

The exact division of the straws, together with the percentages for each candidate, is shown in the following table:

Candidate—	Party.	Straws.	Per cent.
Cermak	Dem.	716	60.11
Thompson	Rep.	465	39.04
Ernest Stout	Am. Nat'l	10	.85
Totals		1,191	100.

In these same wards four years ago the street poll gave William E. Dever 53.14 per cent of the straws, Thompson 43.15 per cent, and Dr. John Dill Robertson 3.71 per cent. If yesterday's poll represents the attitude of the voters in these six wards, Thompson is now more than 4,000 voters weaker than he was in 1927, and Cermak is 6,000 votes stronger than was Dever.

The 1927 street corner poll of these six wards forecast Thompson's strength with reasonable accuracy. The poll showed that he would get 43.15 per cent of the votes, while in the election he obtained 44.89 per cent. The street corner poll indicated on the percentage basis that he would get 47,612 votes, while he actually received 48,908.

Before the Campaign Starts.

The present straw vote is a poll before the active campaign has started it does not pretend to indicate how the election will result.

On presidential issues the six wards polled yesterday are heavily Democratic. Alfred E. Smith in 1928 obtained 63.08 per cent of the votes cast in the six wards, and still lost the city by more than 21,000. Smith was 3 per cent stronger here than the first street poll credits Cermak with being.

In that same election Mr. Cermak was a candidate for United States senator and in the six wards he polled 67.11 per cent of the votes and carried the city by 77,409.

These six south side wards are an important factor in any city election. In the 1927 contest for mayor they polled 108,951 votes and may reasonably be expected to cast between 110,000 and 120,000 votes this year. It is possible that the vote may be even larger, since it reached 130,248 in the 1928 presidential election.

When Dever was elected mayor in 1923 by a plurality of 105,319 votes, he was given 65.45 per cent of the votes cast in the six wards, which is 5 per cent more than the poll indicates Mr. Cermak would have at the present time in the same territory.

Past Elections Contrasted.

One observer of Chicago politics referred to these six wards as "the most fickle of the Democratic areas in Chicago." That was just after the last presidential election. The wards gave Smith 62.08 per cent of their votes, while four years before John W. Davis, Democratic presidential candidate, got only 32.32 per cent.

In that election Calvin Coolidge got 46.55 per cent of the wards' votes for president and Len Small, for governor, got 57.25 per cent. The prejudice favored Small, it was claimed, because Norman L. Jones, the Democratic candidate for governor, had been charged with being "dry."

In the present mayoralty contest both Cermak and Thompson are known as wets.

Results of Street Poll.

Only ten street corners in the six wards have been polled in the present straw vote, but these street corners in 1927 proved fairly representative of the sentiment in the district. The street intersections polled and the results obtained at each are as follows:

Ward. Place—	Cermak.	Thomp-son.	Stout.	Total.
11 Halsted-31st	57	29	1	87
12 Archer-Halsted	56	51	0	89

Totals	716	465	10	1,191
Per. cent	60.11	39.04	.85	100

In comparison, result of the street corner poll in these six wards in 1927 will be interesting to persons concerned with the outcome of the April 7 election. Those results are as follows:

Ward. Place.	Dever.	Thomp-son.	Robert-son.

Misses Wu Lai King and Wu Yim Chong, daughters of Chao-Chu Wu, Chinese minister to the United States, were in Chicago for a short time yesterday. They are on their way to the west coast, where they will board the President McKinley on Friday to sail back to their home in the orient. They were met at the Pennsylvania station by Mrs. Holiang Yih, wife of the Chinese consul to Chicago, and her daughter, Jennie.

SURGEON'S SUIT AGAINST 'FIRST PATIENT' DELAYED

The suit of Dr. Joseph A. Jerger, a surgeon of 30 North Michigan avenue, to collect $500 from James J. Grimes, 1625 East 67th street, alleged to be Dr. Jerger's first patient some twenty years ago, was continued indefinitely yesterday by Judge Edgar A. Jonas of the Municipal court.

Dr. Jerger claims that he advanced the money for blood transfusions to save Grimes' life in 1927. Grimes had been struck by a truck and his right leg was crushed. In operating on the leg Dr. Jerger discovered two Lane's plates, bearing his initials, he says. Dr. Jerger declares he then recalled that he had used the plates in a bone transplantation on an 11 year old boy in 1910 at Waterloo, Ia.

ROSENWALD IS BACK; HOPES FOR CERMAK VICTORY

Julius Rosenwald, philanthropist and capitalist, returning from a sojourn in the Hawaiian islands with Mrs. Rosenwald, stepped from the Santa Fe "Chief" yesterday and launched into a discussion of municipal politics with special emphasis on the approaching election.

"Chicago," he declared, "cannot survive four more years of Thompsonism. I sincerely hope Mr. Cermak will be the next mayor of Chicago. We have had enough of Thompsonism."

He said that after four more years of Thompsonism Chicago would be so degraded and taxes would be so high that residents unable to pay them would therefore have to move elsewhere. He added, however, that he would continue to make Chicago his home, "even if Thompson is re-elected."

Speaking of business conditions, Mr. Rosenwald expressed the opinion that it would only be a question of time before "all will be right again in the United States."

MAYOR WALKER RUNS INTO RUMOR BARRAGE HERE

He's Going West to Seek Health in Sun.

Mayor Jimmy Walker of New York, en route to California in search of health, stopped off in Chicago yesterday long enough to shave, baths, consult an osteopath, and deny a lot of New York rumors that arrived ahead of him by wire.

Mayor Walker had little to say about politics but talked at some length about the healthful benefits he expected from the sun's rays on Samuel Untermyer's ranch at Palm Springs, in the California desert.

"I'm through talking about politics for a while," said the mayor as he stepped aboard the Rock Island Limited at the La Salle street station last night. "Politics is responsible for the shape I'm in. Health is the only thing I'm thinking about now."

Rumor Experts Busy.

While Mayor Walker was having some ailing muscles adjusted by an osteopath at the Congress hotel, press wires were busy transmitting rumors which originated in New York on Monday after the mayor's half-secret departure. Those who said they were "in on the know" whispered confidentially that their mayor had left them for good, and was on his way to the Pacific coast to enter the movies.

The gossip said that Charles Kerrigan will be Tammany's next mayor and to strengthen their rumors they cited the fact that Mayor Walker's traveling companion on his California trip is Alfred C. Blumenthal, who is financially interested in Fox Films.

G. S. Collins, the mayor's executive secretary, interrupted the mayor's bath long enough yesterday to report the gossip to his chief and came back with the word that "there's absolutely no basis for all that talk."

Mayor Walker was asked to discuss various other rumors as he left Mr. Blumenthal's private car with Mr. Blumenthal and the latter's wife, the former actress, Peggy Fears, at the Baltimore and Ohio station.

Democrats Meet Train.

Anton J. Cermak, Democratic candidate for mayor, and fifty leaders of Chicago Democracy met the train. Mr. Cermak, for the benefit of the news reels, welcomed the visitor before a microphone and expressed the wish that he could stay longer. And the mayor took his cue and remarked:

"I can't think of any place better to spend a week than in Chicago. It's the only place I know where you can spend a week in one day. I hope to feel more like the spirit of Chicago when I come back this way and then I may visit for a longer period."

Mayor Walker said he had "a lot of dear friends here," and he went on to explain how overwork had forced him to take a holiday.

"How do you look at the Chicago mayoralty campaign?" he was asked.

"I haven't looked at it," he replied. "I've got enough troubles of my own being mayor of New York."

Striding up the platform arm in arm with Ben Bernie, Chicago orchestra leader, Mayor Walker held forth on the benefits of sun treatment.

"I'm told the sunlight out at Mr. Untermyer's ranch is high in percentage of violet rays," he said. "I'm told it never blisters, so I'm going out there to soak myself in it for a couple of weeks."

The visitor spent three hours at the Congress hotel with a barber and the osteopath. When he appeared at the La Salle street station just before the train departed he seemed refreshed.

POLICEMAN SETS TRAP FOR BANDIT AND KILLS HIM

Policeman George O'Brien of the South Chicago station was waiting yesterday when robbers entered the Doran haberdashery at 1661 East 79th street. The result: A dead bandit, later identified as Robert Saunders, 27 years old, 744 North Clark street, an ex-convict.

The store had been held up five times and robbed by burglars once in the last two years, and Capt. Thomas Wolfe of that district instructed O'Brien to wait there for the next appearance of the bandits. O'Brien is 32 years old, lives at 7600 South Aberdeen street, and was a street car conductor until he joined the police department a year and a half ago.

The policeman was behind a partition when Saunders entered, followed by a Negro. Saunders asked to see some handkerchiefs, then whipped out a revolver and ordered the clerk to "stick 'em up." That was Policeman O'Brien's cue.

"Drop that gun," the policeman commanded, stepping into view. Saunders fired. So did O'Brien. Three bullets in rapid succession were enough. One had knocked Saunders' gun from his hand. Two more ended his life. The one bullet fired by Saunders went wild.

The Negro ran to an automobile in which a third man was sitting at the wheel and the pair escaped, being out of range of O'Brien's gun when he reached the street.

Saunders was identified through a knife. Under the name of Albert Swanson he was arrested on June 5, 1921, and later sentenced to Pontiac on a charge of assault to rob. He was discharged in 1924 and in 1928 he was placed on probation on a larceny charge, and in 1929 he was arrested in Detroit for a shooting. Recently he was sought as a bandit suspect.

GERMANY TO FIRE 'SCIENCE' ROCKET 12 MILES INTO AIR

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, March 10.—The first rocket will be fired into space from Berlin's rocket airport at Reinckendorf-west in April. This was announced today. It is only a baby projectile, less than seven feet high, but it is expected to attain a height of over twelve miles. It will be driven by a mixture of oxygen and gasoline.

The rocket will be fitted with scientific recording apparatus, from which valuable information is expected. Based on these results experiments will be renewed on a large scale this summer.

When You OVER— INDULGE

EVERY man, woman and child will occasionally over-indulge. But don't suffer for your indiscretions. It's folly to do so when you can so easily sweeten and settle a sour, upset stomach with a little Phillips' Milk of Magnesia.

Hearty eaters have long since learned the quick comfort this perfect anti-acid brings. Smokers know how it neutralizes nicotine; brings back a sweet taste; guards the breath. Women know what it does for nausea—or sick headache. And when children have over-eaten—are bilious, constipated or otherwise upset—give them a little of the same, pleasant-tasting and milky-white Phillips' Milk of Magnesia.

You'll be through with crude methods once you learn the perfect way. Nothing else has the same quick, gentle effect. Doctors prescribe it for sour stomach, indigestion, heartburn, gas, nausea, headache. It has been standard with them for over 50 years.

Insist on genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia; a less perfect product may not act the same. The genuine is always a liquid—never in tablet form—and the name Phillips is always on bottle and wrapper.

ICE AND SNOW GRIP EUROPE AS NEW GALE RAGES

Atlantic Liners Struggle to Reach Port.

LONDON, March 10.—(AP)—Belated winter continued today to hold large sections of Europe in its grip.

Austria lay under a thick white blanket. Snow whirled across Germany and buried the Rhine valley and the Black forest, already heavily covered, with the deepest fall in years.

Several Die in Britain.

Several deaths in Great Britain were ascribed to the cold, which brought temperatures to zero in many sections.

The snow which blew in from the provinces made the flood predicament of Paris more serious by swelling the Seine, already out of its bounds in the suburbs.

Arctic weather unequaled in fifty years clutched Switzerland. It had snowed incessantly there since Saturday and in Berne and Geneva children went to school and business men to work on skis over snow three feet deep.

Storms Batter Atlantic Liners.

CHERBOURG, France, March 10.—(AP)—The worst weather in 50 years whipped the Atlantic seaboard of France today with northeasterly gales and snow. The gale extended 500 miles out into the Atlantic and held the Europa back a full day. The President Roosevelt, due Thursday, sent radio word it would not arrive until late Friday night. The Deutschland was also 24 hours late.

Thirty-five Killed by Quakes.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BELGRADE, Jugo-Slavia, March 10.—An official communique today gives the total earthquake deaths at 35 and records 70 seriously injured and 2,000 homes destroyed. King Alexander arrived at the capital today and called in the cabinet to organize and appoint a commission to take charge of the rescue work.

Meanwhile rescue work is being carried out. Several regiments of infantry are proceeding to the earthquake area to render aid in reconstruction. Further slight shocks today terrorized the people, who fear to return to their homes. The homeless are living in tents on hills.

G. O. P. GIRDS ON ARMOR TO MEET RADICAL ATTACK

Norris, Borah to Open Fire Today.

good will among all classes prevails as never before. Unlike other countries, we are free from revolutions, strikes and other forms of violence, all of which is a wholesome testimonial to sane leadership.

Stop Snarling and Smile.

"The country is regaining its economic equilibrium and as long as we preserve our tempers we shall make progress. To do this every one must cool off and carry on. We must stop snarling and begin smiling. Sanity will then have more front seats and more front page. Our conduct will be less critical and more constructive. Our news will be less sensational and more substantial. The political atmosphere will be more amenable and the business atmosphere will be more buoyant. Passion will subside and prudence will preside."

"Will the Republican national committee meet to consider policies?" Mr. Burke was asked, apropos of the recent meeting of the Democratic committee.

"No," snapped the peppery Pittsburgher, "the national committee has nothing to do with shaping policies or nominating candidates. The national convention will do that."

Norris to Open Meeting.

The conference of radicals will be opened at 10 a. m. tomorrow by Senator George W. Norris [Rep., Neb.], leader of the left wing group, who will make an address setting forth his views of what's wrong with everything. The work of the conference will be done in five round table meetings. The round table on the tariff in the forenoon will be led by the new Democratic senator from Colorado, Edward P. Costigan.

MORE THAWING WEATHER TODAY, FORECAST SAYS

Sunshine yesterday aided the middle west in further efforts to dig out of the deep snow left by the week-end storm. A continuation of the thaw is likely, according to W. P. Day, government forecaster, who predicted fair and slightly warmer weather for today. Tomorrow is expected to be cloudy, with rain or snow and lower temperatures.

From Springfield came the cheering report that state highway workers had almost cleared the blocked highways, and that the warm rays of the sun were melting down the drifts.

The storm which hung over Chicago Saturday and Sunday was east of Lake Ontario yesterday. Some snow continued to fall in the lake regions, particularly in southern Michigan. Fifty motorists were still stranded east of Benton Harbor and interurban lines in the vicinity were still unable to operate.

DEATH OF JOLIET CONVICT LAID TO HEART TROUBLE

Maj. Henry C. Hill, warden of the Joliet penitentiary, issued a statement yesterday in reference to the death of Joseph Coakley, a convict, whose body was found in a solitary confinement cell on Sunday morning. According to the statement, a post mortem investigation by Dr. C. J. Carlin and Dr. John Krohn revealed that death was due to a blood clot in the heart. The physicians said Coakley would have died of the heart trouble whether or not he was placed in solitary confinement.

Coakley had been convicted of holding up the Grant hotel in Chicago last October. His father, W. F. Coakley of Kansas City, Mo., attended the trial here and kept the news of his son's conviction and incarceration from the mother, according to a message from Kansas City.

An inquest will be held today.

PANTS THIEF STRIPS VICTIM OF DIGNITY!
Russell B. Johnson stood on the eighth floor of the Farwell Building, 644 N. Michigan blvd., yesterday afternoon, looked out over the traffic and thought about pants.
Mr. Johnson was expecting company at the Thomas Saylor Company, where he is an official.
And there was the bandit, pointing a gun at Mr. Johnson, and holding Mr. Johnson's pants. He also held $10 belonging to Mr. Johnson, and Mr. Johnson's suit coat.
"My good man," said Mr. Johnson, "I can't go out like this."
The bandit nodded cheerfully as he departed.
"I thought of that," he said. "good day."
Mr. Johnson phoned his wife.

BRAZIL SAVAGES ON WARPATH; USE POISON ARROWS

Massacre Villagers in Raids from Jungles.

BY ANTHONY PATRIC.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ALCOBACA, Para, Brazil, March 10.—Death by poison darts, savage massacres, and jungle trails marked with Indian signs warning of sudden and terrible destruction make the lives of nut harvesters in this section of Brazil read like the hair raisers in the literature of early American frontier days.

Investigating blood curdling reports concerning the savagery of the Gavioe Indians who inhabit the jungles along the Tocantins and Araguaya rivers, I arrived at Alcobaca after a long river journey from Belem on a government river boat.

Killed with Poisoned Arrows.

All the way down from Cameta, the cocoa growing center, I found white men and caboclos (half-breed natives) in a state of great excitement over the attacks of the Gavioes. At every outpost the terrified caboclos reported missing parties of nut harvesters or the finding of victims of poisoned arrows.

The survivors of a party of fourteen caboclo nut collectors described their adventures at Arco island, six miles north of here. Following an Indian trail, they were suddenly confronted with a small square of sticks stuck in the ground like a fence, enclosing a turtle turned over on its back. This they recognized as an Indian sign meaning that whoever picks up the turtles will be killed, and his family as well.

Further along the party found another Indian sign, a barricade of branches across the trail. Interpreted, this means: "Do not proceed one step further."

Tenderfoot Defies Signs.

One of the party, a newcomer to the nut fields and skeptical of Indian signs, later in the day slipped away from the others, returned and destroyed the barricade and picked up the turtle. Next morning a band of 100 Gavioes attacked the party with bows and arrows. The caboclos fled. One, who was hit by a poisoned arrow, died two days later. Returning later, the cavoclos found more than 200 poisoned arrows on the trail.

The best authority on Gavioe Indians here is Padre Emilio Martins, a Roman Catholic priest, who has spent many years in the jungle outposts. He said he had made repeated efforts to make friends with the Gavioes, but without success. The Gavioes hate all white men and caboclos, who, they claim, have stolen their territory.

Tells of Own Adventures.

Padre Emilio, a tall, handsome Brazilian, who looks more like a warrior than a cleric, recounted some tales of his own frequent encounters with Gavioes. Countless times, he said, he has found wounded caboclos and carried them into Alcobaca. And he has consigned scores of Gavioe victims to graves near the lonely jungle outposts.

Padre Emilio took me to the farm of Antonio Francisco dos Santos, an educated, civilized caboclo, who is the only man here who maintains relations with the savage Gavioes. He has gained the confidence of only one small tribe, the Taricas, numbering about 30 individuals.

Dos Santos, who is reputed to be a fugitive from justice in some large Brazilian town, offered to take us to visit his Gavioe friends, with whom he trades medicines, tools and cloth for hides, golddust and nuggets. We refused, because the Indians have no use for visitors who do not bring a truckload of presents. I felt relieved when we took leave of this jungle merchant, but he gave us each a good sized gold nugget to remember our visit to his farm.

New Raids Reported.

While returning to Alcobaca from Dos Santos' farm we met some frantic villagers who told of two caboclos who had disappeared from a nearby nut field owned by a widow, Carolina Cunha. We saw hundreds of caboclos searching the jungles for the Indians, but all they found were turtle signs and branch barricades.

Later another assault was reported from Jacaunda Grande, in which one Indian was killed. Thirty-four arrows were picked up after the Gavioes fled.

Where Savages Are on Rampage

Blood curdling reports of Indian savagery come from the nut harvesters in certain sections of Brazil. Massacres are reported from Alcobaca. It is an interesting coincidence that Bob Becker's story of "The Land of the Takatu," a thrilling tale of three Boy Scouts' exploration in the jungle along the Amazon, starts next Sunday in The Tribune. The Boy Scouts start their adventurous trip from Manaos.

Charles Wharton Arrested on Embezzlement Charge

Former Congressman Charles S. Wharton, who was released two months ago from the Leavenworth penitentiary, where he served a year and a half for complicity in a train robbery at Evergreen Park, was arrested yesterday on a charge of embezzlement. The complainant, Miss Cecile Ware, 1260 North Dearborn parkway, charged that Wharton misappropriated $10,000 in jewelry and $4,500 in bonds belonging to her. Wharton was released on bonds of $2,500 and the case was set for March 25.

EMBASSY BOMBED; FIND BODY OF MAN HANGING AT DOOR

HAVANA, March 10.—(AP)—Police of Havana had a new mystery on their hands tonight in the death of an unidentified man whose body was found hanging in the doorway of the Spanish embassy just after the explosion of a bomb there. Though perhaps a suicide, authorities could not explain his presence at the embassy, where he was unknown. The bomb explosion did little damage. Those who placed the bomb escaped.

Police also were searching for assailants who early today raided the office of the humorous weekly Karikato, wrecked the equipment, and beat several members of the staff, including the editor, Julio Gaunaurd, who also received a slight bullet wound. Several women were reported among the intruders.

One youth was shot in the leg and ten persons were placed under arrest when secret police raided a meeting of students here tonight.

Other developments today included the arrest of a former army officer, in whose home police had found a cache of firearms, and continuation of inconsequential bomb explosions, which have held the attention of police for several weeks.

HOUSE ACTS TO REMAP ILLINOIS CONGRESS AREAS

Cook County Entitled to Four More Seats.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., March 10.—[Special.]—Redistricting Illinois into 27 new congressional districts got under way today with the appointment of a subcommittee in the house to proceed with the preparation of a bill and map. Its members, appointed by Richard J. Lyons [Rep., Mundelein], head of the committee on congressional apportionment, are the following four Republicans and three Democrats: Sol Roderick [Rep., Chicago], chairman; Ralph Church [Rep., Evanston], R. H. Huschle [Rep., East St. Louis], Claude Rew [Rep., Harrisburg], Michael L. Igoe [Dem.], George A. Fitzgerald [Dem.], both of Chicago, and Frank W. McClure [Dem., Abingdon].

This subcommittee will act on the Church reapportionment resolution in conjunction with a subcommittee to be appointed on the senate side.

Debate Legislative Reapportionment.

Meanwhile debate on the house floor over reapportionment of the legislative districts, on the Schnackenberg resolution calling for a joint committee to prepare a "fair and just" redistricting plan, was set for Wednesday morning, March 18.

Gov. Emmerson, in his message, took the ground that there is no reason why a congressional reopportionment should not be had at this session and he urged action, although on state legislative reapportionment his position is different, being for limitation of Cook county in the assembly.

The present congressional districts are thirty years old, and in thirty years the shifting population and the growth of the cities has increased taxation without representation at Washington. Illinois has been put under the thumb of pocket boroughs.

The failure to redistrict is the reason why Illinois has two congressmen-at-large, this being the only state with more than one congressman which has not carved out new congressional districts, one for each member.

Chicago Entitled to 14 Seats.

Under the census of 1930, Chicago, with 52 per cent of the population, is entitled to 14 of the 27 seats. Cook county now has only ten districts and Lake county is included in one of these—the Tenth.

When the present districts were established, Illinois had 4,821,550 population as against 7,630,654 today. In those days Cook county had only 1,838,735 against 3,982,123 today. Thus Cook county's population has more than doubled, but the districts are the same.

In the thirty years since the present 25 districts were established, the population of Cook and Lake has increased 2,212,281. In the same period the 15 downstate congressional districts have increased only 596,823.

RELIEF BOARD TO AID COUNTY WITH $250,000

The executive committee of the governor's commission on unemployment and relief yesterday voted to assume relief obligations of the county board for the month of March to the extent of $250,000, providing "a few slight changes are made in the resolution passed by the county board requesting such aid."

No money will be given to the county board. Bills will be considered and approved by the county commissioners and then turned over to the relief commission for payment. All money advanced is to be paid back, without interest, within a reasonable time. Repayment of the money does not depend on passage of the $2,000,000 bond issue bill now before the legislature.

CHICAGO'S FAIR NAME DEFENDED BY LEGISLATORS

Pass Resolution in Reply to Nebraskan.

BY PERCY WOOD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., March 10.—[Special.]—Chicago's reputation was defended on the floor of the Illinois house of representatives today, the legislators engaging in a welter of oratory as they passed a resolution expressing faith "in the city of Chicago, its people, and its institutions."

The assemblymen "resent and deny any and all assertions that Chicago is a crime ridden city," they agreed in a roar of assent.

Representative Elmer J. Schnackenberg [Rep., Chicago] pronounced the whitewashing with a resolution recounting the speech of a Nebraska legislator, J. H. Steutville, who fought advancement of a bill at Lincoln yesterday to appropriate $15,000 for a state exhibit at the 1933 world's fair. Press services quoted Steutville as calling Chicago "a citadel of vice and crime."

Answers Nebraska Charge.

"Members of this house," said the Schnackenberg resolution, "know that that charge is untrue and that actually Chicago's reputation compares most favorably with that of any other American city.

"These baseless attacks on Chicago, if not promptly refuted, tend to discourage persons unfamiliar with the facts from visiting the fair in 1933."

The sponsor asked the resolution's unanimous passage.

"But don't you think," asked Representative Truman A. Snell [Dem., Carlinville], "that you are dignifying something which does not deserve it?"

"We must let our answer go out," replied Schnackenberg.

Knight Igoe to the Rescue.

The minority leader, Representative M. L. Igoe of Chicago then stepped into the picture and immediately absolved Schnackenberg from any thought of partisanship in drafting the resolution.

"This is not an attempt to whitewash the present city administration," he said, "and I'm for it. I'm proud of Chicago; I came to Chicago without even car fare and I think it a great place. It will be on display in 1933."

Handy withdrew his motion, adding the comment, however, that he remembered "what Judge Lyle said about Chicago."

In the next five minutes half a dozen downstate and Cook county members rose with encomiums for the big city, and the vote, when called for by Speaker Shanahan, was unanimous and reverberating.

New Divorce Bill Offered.

The Schnackenberg resolution was presented near the close of a session of introducing bills, one of which attracted interest. This was the divorce measure, approved by Judge Harry A. Lewis of Chicago and introduced by Representative Robert M. Woodward [Rep., Chicago]. It would allow a divorce on the grounds of desertion in one year rather than two, as in the present law.

BAY STATE WILL ACT ON BILL TO MODIFY DRY LAW

Boston, Mass., March 10.—(AP)—The state house of representatives today voted to consider a bill which would define as intoxicating beverages containing more than four and one-half per cent of alcohol.

The house voted, 117 to 109, to substitute the bill for an adverse committee report. The motion carried on roll call after debate of more than an hour.

Says State Can Handle Liquor.

Providence, R. I., March 10.—(AP)—Asserting that a state as a sovereign body has the right to manufacture and sell alcoholic liquors within its own borders, Representative Frederick R. Hazard of Narragansett today presented in the general assembly an act providing for appointment of a commission to "study and report plans for the manufacture, sale, transportation, and distribution of alcoholic beverages by the state."

Moderate Missouri Law.

Jefferson City, Mo., March 10.—(AP)—A bill changing the state dry law by wiping out the mandatory $200 minimum fine prescribed for first offenders was passed by the house of the Missouri legislature late today, 109 to 3.

King Alfonso to Visit Mother-in-Law in London

LONDON, March 10.—(AP)—King Alfonso of Spain will come to London Sunday for a private visit with his mother-in-law, Princess Beatrice, who recently has been gravely ill. She is a sister of the late King Edward.

BURNS DRY LAW RESOLUTION WINS COMMITTEE O. K.

Springfield, Ill., March 10.—[Special.]—The house judiciary committee today considered Representative James T. Burns' resolution which calls upon congress to submit the question of repeal of the eighteenth amendment to the legislatures of the 48 states and reported back to the house with a recommendation that it pass.

The vote was 14 to 3 and no sulphurous arguments marked the roll call.

ENDS LIFE WITH BULLET.

Alex Plodowski, 45 years old, was found dead yesterday in a shack he occupied on the grounds of the Wright Bros. Coal company, 7000 Addison street. Apparently he had committed suicide by shooting himself through the head.

GOULDS TO GIVE DECIES CHILDREN $12,500 YEARLY

New York, March 10.—[Special.]—The three children of Lord Decies and the late Helen Vivien Gould will each receive $12,500 a year to live on, according to an agreement sanctioned here in Surrogate court today. In petitions asking such amounts it was explained that the children have not yet completed their educations and that their high school social position makes it necessary for them to maintain high living standards.

From the allowance will come costs of clothing, education, travel, and social expenses, figured as amounting to at least $10,000 a year for each child. The fund is to come from a $522,335 trust fund left by their mother, who died on Feb. 3, and set up by their grandmother, Mrs. Edith K. Gould. The trust was terminated by the death of their mother and it was necessary to file the motions approved today to assure continuance of the payments.

Lord Decies, his daughter, Catherine Moya Beresford, and his attorney, who presented petitions asking Surrogate John O'Brien to authorize the payments, passed half an hour watching court proceedings from the bench beside the surrogate. Later Lord Decies said that he was amazed at the speed with which the court functioned.

The children receiving the payments are Catherine, 17; Arthur George Marcus Douglas Herseley de la Poer Beresford, 16, and Eileen Vivien de la Poer Beresford, 18. The last two are in England.

Hutchins at laying of corner stone of men's group of residential halls at 60th street and Ellis avenue. The new group will cost $2,000,000. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

President Robert Maynard Hutchins of the University of Chicago yesterday laid the corner stone of the university's new men's residence halls at 60th street and Ellis avenue. The buildings when completed next October will have cost about $2,000,000 and will accommodate 390 students.

The two quadrangles in the group will be named for former presidents of the university, Dr. Harry Pratt Judson and Dr. Ernest DeWitt Burton. The residence units comprise, besides the quadrangles, two clubhouses, two dining halls, and eight halls for living quarters.

In the corner stone President Hutchins placed a photograph and a biography of Julius Rosenwald, who donated 40 per cent of the cost of the buildings. Mr. Rosenwald is providing the same percentage of the cost of a series of women's residence halls to be built next fall at 60th street and Woodlawn avenue. The men's residence halls are the first buildings of the university south of the Midway.

COP COMPLETES HIS STUDIES; TO BECOME PRIEST

One policeman who wasn't interested yesterday in the outcome of the examination for sergeants was Policeman Daniel R. Daley of the detective bureau, and the reason is that he is about to discard the blue for the black.

"I am to be ordained a priest on March 21," the policeman notified his superior, Deputy Chief of Detectives Lawrence Rafferty.

It wasn't altogether a secret to Rafferty, but it was to most of the other policemen who have worked with Daley on and off since 1919. Few suspected that the quiet young man who went about his duties with dignity and compassion was planning to enter the priesthood.

Will Enter Rockford Diocese.

"For some years I have been getting leaves of absence and studying at St. Bonaventure's seminary at Allegheny, N. Y., and working as a policeman only during the summer months," Policeman Daley explained. "Now I have completed my studies and I will be ordained on March 21 at Rockford by Bishop Edward F. Hoban and I will remain in that diocese."

The present policeman and future priest is also an ex-soldier and a member of the Police post of the American Legion. He served with the 311th ammunition train in the 86th division in France during the world war. Upon his return he joined the police force. Later he worked in the Deering district and for some years was on the mounted force in the loop. His present job is in the missing persons bureau.

Police to Attend Mass.

Policeman Daley lives at 5301 South Morgan street and is proud to refer himself as a product of "back of the yards." His parents are dead, but he has a sister, who is a nun, Sister Elizabeth Marie, who is stationed in St. Louis and who is expected to be present at his ordination.

Many of his present fellow policemen plan to be present at his first solemn high mass which will be celebrated on Sunday, March 22, in the Visitation church at 55th and Peoria streets.

"I'll hand over my star and give you my blessing at the same time," Daley told Rafferty.

St. James Church Gives Up Its Status as a Cathedral

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

Historic St. James' church at Cass and Huron streets is no longer the Episcopal cathedral of the diocese of Chicago. With the approval of Bishop George Craig Stewart, recently enthroned in St. James' as the head of the diocese, the diocesan cathedral chapter and St. James' vestry have agreed to dissolve the arrangement of three years' standing under which St. James' church was denominated the cathedral.

The bishop indicated that he probably will designate the chapel of the Cathedral Shelter at Washington boulevard and Peoria streets as his procathedral for the time being. The Cathedral Shelter stands on the site of the the former Cathedral of SS. Peter and Paul, which was destroyed by fire in 1921.

Bishop Explains Action.

The reason for the action which restores St. James' church to a purely parochial standing—its status for more than ninety years—according to Bishop Stewart's statement, was an economic one. He said the original action, begun by Bishop Charles P. Anderson, which culminated in the denomination of St. James' church as the cathedral "contemplated the raising of at least $2,000,000 and thereupon the absorption of St. James' church into a cathedral foundation and the erection on or near the site of St. James' church of a new cathedral."

"In the better judgment of all parties concerned," Bishop Stewart declared, "this plan is now deemed inexpedient."

The statement praised the offer of St. James' parish of its valuable property for the cathedral project. It referred to the parish as the mother church not only of Chicago but of the whole northwest.

Site Bought in 1855.

The present site of St. James' church was purchased in 1855, and a church costing $30,000—a huge sum in that day—was erected. The church was razed in the great fire of 1871 except for the tower, which still stands. Bishop Stewart said the parish membership includes many of the leaders of civic life of Chicago, and that "under the rectorship of Dr. Duncan H. Browne it is maintaining a splendid leadership not only in the Episcopal church but in the whole community."

CABALLERO SITS IN CELL TO MUSE ON LAWS OF U. S.

His Wife, He Reflects, Does Not Understand.

Alfonso Restrepo, 29 years old, is of noble Spanish lineage, speaks five languages, and has degrees from universities in France and Switzerland. His father, Enrique, now dead, was prominent in Colombian political circles, and at one time was ambassador to Rome and envoy to the holy see.

Last night Alfonso, his expensive tailored clothes wrinkled from a night spent in a police station, was put in a cell at the detective bureau to answer charges of failing to support his wife and passing bogus checks.

A Mistake, He Says.

"You see," Alfonso said in his faultless English, "it is all somewhat of a mistake. Teresa, my wife, just did not understand. Last night she left for New York and will return with our three children to her father, a wealthy ranchero in Colombia."

Alfonso recounted his story to a reporter, requesting: "Please don't be too hard on me. I don't understand your laws. I am imprisoned, but I am still a gentleman."

Traveling with his father on diplomatic tours, his education was diverse. After a youth on the continent he returned to his native land. There he met Teresa, and after a short courtship they were married. But little opportunity presented itself in Colombia for an ambitious youth. He wished to come to the United States. Teresa insisted on accompanying him. He demurred, pointing out that life at first would be hard. She obtained a promise of $150 a month from her father.

Income Is Cut Off.

Augmented by a little money gained as a translator, the monthly income enabled Alfonso to return to school and finish a medical education. Teresa's father found this out, and stopped the money. Alfonso lost his job. A check he signed was worthless. His wife accused him of having engagements with other women.

Before leaving Teresa signed complaints against him. So did the receivers of the bad checks.

PASS INCOME TAX AND RULE IT OUT ALL ON SAME DAY

Indiana Lawmakers Wind Up in a Tangle.

Indianapolis, Ind., March 10.—(AP)—The individual income tax bill passed by the senate and house and sent to Gov. Harry G. Leslie during the final hours of the general assembly session today was declared unconstitutional tonight by Attorney General James M. Ogden.

In an opinion delivered to the governor Ogden held that Speaker Walter Myers of the house had mutilated the measure by signing it as of "March 10" and by appending a statement questioning validity of the legislative steps which carried the bill to enactment.

Gov. Leslie announced he would look over the attorney general's opinion and study the bill before deciding whether to sign or reject it.

The Seventy-seventh general assembly expired of exhaustion this afternoon. After having arbitrarily added almost fourteen hours to the constitutional limitation of 61 days set for legislative meetings the house adjourned sine die at 1:22 p. m.

In the senate Lieut. Gov. Edgar D. Bush banged the gavel at 1:45 p. m. and declared the session at an end.

Political Charge Made.

The lieutenant governor, a Republican, charged Speaker Myers, a Democrat, with deliberately mutilating the income tax bill.

The income tax measure, along with a congressional reapportionment bill and the biennial appropriation bill, received the final approval of the legislature in the last hours of the session. Throughout debate on the income tax bill doubt as to its constitutionality had been expressed and even its friends have conceded that it would certainly face a test in the Supreme court.

Lieut. Gov. Bush for a time threatened that in retaliation for the act of the speaker he would date as of March 10 his signatures to both the appropriation bill and the congressional reapportionment bill. Later, however, he signed the appropriation bill as of March 9 and Gov. Leslie affixed his signature, thus making sure that the state institutions and departments will have their funds for the biennial period starting Oct. 1, 1931.

Signs Reapportionment Act.

The lieutenant governor also signed the congressional reapportionment measure as of March 9, but to this he attached an affiavit stating that the signature was actually executed on March 10.

The reapportionment bill divides the state into twelve congressional districts to provide for the loss of one congressman in accordance with a reapportionment measure passed by the national congress. The national reapportionment is based on the decennial census of 1930.

EXPECT INDIANA GOVERNOR TO SIGN PORT BILL

Gov. Harry G. Leslie of Indiana tomorrow or Friday is expected to sign the joint resolution passed by both houses of the legislature to help finance the new Chicago regional port commission, according to word received yesterday by officials of the Chicago Association of Commerce.

Under the terms of the bill the port commission, which is composed of five business men named by President Robert Isham Randolph of the Association of Commerce, is authorized to investigate and report on the feasibility of establishing a permanent interstate port authority within the district between Waukegan and Michigan City, and is given an appropriation of $15,000.

Marmaduke Grove, Prof. Carlos Vicuna Fuentes, and others who were confined on Robinson Crusoe island have escaped. Bravo, Grove, and Fuentes were sentenced 15 years and one day as principals in a revolt movement at Concepcion last September.

A DOCTOR'S Advice for Stubborn BOWELS

"DRINK at least six glasses of water daily — preferably before meals. Eat bulkier foods, such as vegetables, fruits and coarse breads. Use a mild laxative as needed."

That is Dr. Caldwell's advice to people with stubborn bowels. He specialized on the bowels; treated thousands for constipation and its ills. The prescription he used over and over has become the world's most popular laxative! "Syrup Pepsin," as it is now called, was tested by over 47 years of practice.

Today you can get Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin at any drugstore in America. It is always the same; made exactly according to the original prescription, from laxative herbs, pure pepsin and other valuable ingredients. Nothing in it to harm even a baby. It does not gripe, sicken or cause any discomfort. But it moves the bowels; it gets rid of all the souring waste which clogs the system and makes you headachy, gassy, bloated, weak, bilious. A doctor should know just what is best for the bowels. Syrup Pepsin is a famous doctor's choice of a safe, pleasant, effective laxative for men, women, older folks, and children.

SPECIAL JURORS MAY QUIZ POLICE IN COUNTY TOWNS

End of City Inquiry Near, Prosecutors Indicate.

Consideration was given yesterday to the suggestion that the special grand jury investigate the police departments of the towns in Cook county outside Chicago. Chief Justice McGoorty of the Criminal court, State's Attorney Swanson and Sheriff Meyering held a private discussion on that subject, but said they had no announcements to make at present.

JACK HERDEGEN. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

It was understood that Assistant State's Attorneys Charles J. Mueller and Charles E. Lounsbury, who have had charge of the investigation of the Chicago police department, are nearly ready to report the completion of their task. Yesterday they submitted the records of Jack Zuta, slain vice chief, to the special grand jury. Tomorrow they will appear against Mrs. Shirley Kub, who has been cited for contempt. Later they have a few cases to prosecute before the police trial board and after that, the prosecutors said yesterday, there is nothing else in sight.

Zuta Records Go to Jury.

The records of Zuta, who was a public enemy, were made public last summer when they were found in safety deposit boxes. They showed many payments of graft but with few exceptions they have never been corroborated, according to Prosecutor Mueller.

The bank book of Mrs. Kub, who was formerly an investigator for Acting Police Commissioner Alcock and at one time an agent of Zuta, was given to the grand jury yesterday. It showed deposits as follows: July 31, 1929, $300; Sept. 27, 1929, $652; May 21, 1930, $133; May 23, 1930, $460; June 4, 1930, $160; Sept. 27, 1930, $150.

According to the prosecutors, the grand jurors want to question Mrs. Kub about her income and about the $17,000 she had in her possession when she was arrested a week ago after she had been a fugitive for two months.

Order Sergt. Herdegen Ousted.

Sergt. Jack Herdegen was ordered discharged from the police force yesterday by the civil service commission as a result of charges that grew out of an investigation of Mrs. Kub's affairs. Herdegen had been one of her friends, the grand jury was told by Miss Bernice Shaw, a former sweetheart of Herdegen. Miss Shaw declared that his promotion was purchased with $1,500 furnished by Zuta. The basis of Herdegen's discharge was testimony that he had lived with Miss Shaw for two years while he was married to another woman.

E. J. Davis of the Better Government association, who was a witness before the special grand jurors some time ago, appeared before them again yesterday. The stenographer and Assistant State's Attorney Mueller were excluded from the room. When asked if Davis had given any important information to the jurors, the foreman, Joseph A. Farmar, said:

"There is no news in what Mr. Davis had to say."

The foreman declared it is possible the jury may wish to investigate the country town police conditions.

JUDICIAL COUNCIL CLAIMS SAVING OF $834,000 IN COURTS

Savings to Cook county and benefits in the administration of justice in the Criminal courts through the accomplishments of the Cook County Judicial Advisory council were listed in a report issued yesterday. Recommendation was made to the county board and the state legislature that the council be continued. The financial benefits are listed as follows:

Revenue from increase in fees	$300,000
Saving in cost of juries in civil cases	190,000
Saving in cost of Criminal court jurors	250,000
Saving in attorneys' fees for indigent prisoners	10,000
	$850,000
Minus cost of public defender	26,000
Net total	$834,000

The council, which comprises Supreme Court Justice Frederic R. De Young, Superior Judge Denis E. Sullivan, Circuit Judge Harry M. Fisher, and Attorneys Amos C. Miller, John J. Healy, and Robert W. Millar, was credited with instituting several reforms, and the group has a bill pending in the legislature to bring about several others.

U. S. JUDGE BARS BOND SOLICITORS FROM BUILDING

Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson yesterday entered a sweeping order, barring all bond solicitors from the federal building.

Assistant United States Attorney Eugene A. Tappy called the court's attention to the practice of bond runners of loitering in the entrances to the United States marshal's and commissioner's offices.

"I thought everybody understood that there is to be no soliciting of bonds in the corridors or courtrooms or anywhere else in this building," said Judge Wilkerson.

"Whoever solicits bonds in this building is in contempt of court, and if you have a concrete case bring them to me and I will send them to jail."

Union Right to Picket Cleaning Plant Upheld

Superior Judge Gentzel yesterday upheld the right of union workers to picket the plant of the Michigan Cleaners and Dyers, 1339 West 63d street. Louis Hollman, owner of the plant, had sought an injunction to restrain the picketing, alleging that it had caused him a 50 per cent loss in business. Judge Gentzel granted a temporary injunction to prevent violence, but declared that the pickets might display posters and urge patrons not to enter the plant.

Hoover to Attend Gridiron Club Dinner on April 11

Washington, D. C., March 10.—(AP)—President Hoover will attend the spring dinner of the Gridiron club, April 11. The executive committee of the club invited him today and he accepted at once.

U. S. RUNS INTO JAIL PROBLEM IN ARITHMETIC

Kane county's hopes of building a new addition to the jail at Geneva with profits from federal prisoners boarded in it were destroyed yesterday when officials of the county were informed that the government would not contract to pay $1 a day a prisoner for 100 prisoners for five years.

The Kane county supervisors estimated that 35 cents a day would be sufficient to feed the prisoners and that the remainder would suffice to pay off building amortization and maintenance. But the government declined to pay more than the going rates for prisoners' board, which range from 65 to 85 cents a day.

PROFIT FROM THE FARM BOARD'S LOSSES.

The new chairman of the farm board, Mr. James Stone of Kentucky, has announced that he proposes to continue the policies inaugurated by Mr. Legge. Mr. Legge said, shortly before his retirement, that the board was not committed to any so-called stabilizing operations in wheat after June 1, and presumably Mr. Stone is of like mind. If he is, then the expensive experiment in price fixing may be presumed to be virtually at an end. The loss will be heavy, but it will be limited to the amount already engaged in the speculation.

The venture will prove of profit in one sense, if its lesson is learned. Every democratic government is in continual danger of being stampeded into measures intended to right real or presumed economic wrongs. A section of the population, in distress, discovers or thinks it discovers a means of relieving the pressure upon it. Any one who ventures to analyze, much less criticize, the means proposed is instantly written down as a heartless oppressor of the poor, though his intentions may be of the best. Political and moral pressures combine in working up the obscurantism characteristic of mob psychology. Sound judgment of economic probabilities is completely obscured by appeals to class jealousy and cupidity. In this country we have the farm board's speculations as our prize exhibit; in England they have the dole, which is piling deficit upon deficit to handicap business recovery. Both measures were born of an altogether commendable desire to relieve misfortune, but neither measure was subjected in advance to the painstaking and disinterested study which it required.

In this country we are encouraged to undertake unwise experiments by a curious faith in the omniscience of organized groups of citizens. Anything named an association starts with a mass of good will; and if it is a coöperative association, so much the better. We overlook the obvious fact that associations have no minds; the ideas put forward in the name of coöperatives, trade associations, or labor unions are the product of individual thinking and often enough have not been considered adequately even in the group which fosters them. A powerful personality with a gift for management can impose his ideas upon his group and, particularly if it is a fairly numerous group, can use that leverage to impose the ideas in turn upon legislators and the public treasuries.

The history of the coal industry in the last few decades furnishes another illustration. The miners' union demanded and obtained concessions both from mine owners and from the government which have served, we can now see, greatly to limit the market for coal from unionized mines. Substitute fuels and nonunion coal have moved into consumption in ever increasing quantities with the result that the unionized mines are providing less work and less wages. The fundamental error in the miners' calculation was the assumption that consumers of fuel in the United States had to rely upon unionized coal mines. The fallacy was the more quickly perceived because, at the time the substitutes appeared, new methods of combustion were also being introduced which greatly increased the efficiency of heating devices and engines. The demand for fuel was correspondingly lessened.

It should be obvious, but it is not, that the larger the number of persons involved in these fundamental errors, the greater the harm they do. One man, acting upon a miscalculation of economic forces, harms few besides himself; ten thousand men, joined together in a mistaken policy, constitute a far more serious problem; when the government itself becomes the agent through which an unsound policy is enforced, the injury is nationwide. The fact that the measure in question is a popular one has little bearing on the results.

There is as yet insufficient evidence upon which to determine whether representative democracies can learn, as individuals learn, through their mistakes. Probably the failure of prohibition has discouraged some similar proposals, but in the economic field the outlook is none too bright. Still we may hope that failures such as that of the farm board's speculations will provide a basis of judgment upon which congress and the legislatures may build when similar proposals are made in the future.

BILLBOARDS AND TRAVEL.

"Visit America, Inc.," plans to coöperate with American interests in steamship, railroad, and bus lines, hotels, and chambers of commerce to bring European visitors and business to America. The idea has value. It will work when Europeans and other foreign folk, and Americans, too, are persuaded that America is worth seeing. The beauty of America and its native interest will attract travelers.

Billboards today make hideous the lovely roadsides and long valleys of America. When the billboards are abolished, and not until then, this country can hope for tourist business. They smear the countryside with ugliness. Shacks and signs, long rows of billboards in almost every state, destroy the country as a place for tourists. No other civilized country tolerates such desecration and such eyesores.

In New Jersey a law against billboards went into effect on Jan. 1. An annual license fee is charged each company in the business of outdoor billboard advertising, and a permit must be obtained for each new sign erected. A tax of three cents a square foot is collected on all billboards except those on the premises where the advertised business is conducted. No billboard may be erected within 500 feet of a road intersection where it might obscure the view of motorists. In New Jersey billboards are coming down.

SENTENCE ON A PLEA OF GUILT.

Two bills in the legislature would amend the criminal law to limit the court if a plea of guilty was entered to a charge of murder or kidnaping. The judge then could not impose sentence of death. The sponsor is Representative R. V. Libonati, a Chicago lawyer with a Criminal court practice. There have been instances in Chicago in which killers with unescapable evidence confronting them have tried to avoid the death penalty by pleading guilty and have found the judge unmoved. An amendment to the criminal law which would take discretion from the court and automatically protect a murderer from the proper sentence would serve criminals but not the public.

A killer with no confidence in his defense would have an escape from the consequences he most dreaded offered in the law, and it would be impossible to execute persons who deserved nothing less. Such amendments might enable criminal lawyers to save more clients from the death penalty, but that is not a direction which the administration of justice in Chicago should be forced to take. The immunities of crime are written in practice and procedure and they are found in the political life of the city. No more extensions of them.

EAST WIND.

Something beyond the white and battered water of the lake gives a great push and the east wind roars down on Chicago. The air is full of sand that beats on eastern windows like sleet and floods away over the boulevards on the long levels of wind. The spindrift from the waves drives inland. It freezes in the wind, sifts and stings in a white mist over the park. Every bush there has its flag, a newspaper or a bag, whipping in the wind. The papers come like strange, disordered birds upon the wind. They perch upon the trees and bushes. They flutter wildly. The wind tears at their wings.

Gulls are riding on the water of the lagoon. Eastward over the ridge the lake is white with wind and torn motion. It claws at the wind like a great cat. It claws like a great cat on its back fighting the sky. It fights and roars and heaves its body upon the storm. A gull slants into the gale, circles, slides down to the lagoon.

Snow comes. It floods the air. It rides into the city. The snow whips across the town, driving in sheets. Pale, drifting curtains of snow wrap themselves around the buildings, burying the sound of traffic and the policeman's whistle in the white wind. The blizzard beats upon the town with huge, white paws. It storms upon Chicago, whistling wild tunes of the east wind.

NOT TO BE DRIVEN OUT OF EDEN.

Many of the liberal minded and the radicals were in no hurry to get home after the adjournment of congress. They remain in Washington to continue in enjoyment of intellectual activity, social contact, prestige and probable publicity. There is, for an occasion, the bipartisan, insurgent, radical revival meeting this week when the forward looking Conscript Fathers will do everything to form a new party except to separate themselves from the old ones. Senator Borah will head a section on farm relief, Senator Norris one on utilities, Senator Cutting one on representative government, Senator Elect Costigan, tariff, and Senator La Follette, unemployment. Under such direction the comrades will be busy and presumably happy.

It is evidently no pleasure for a well balanced and well wound up insurgent to go home and become lost in the great silences. Meditation on the crags, in the canebrakes or on the wind swept plains does not satisfy either spiritual or the social needs of a friend of man. To be a friend of man he must be where men will hear him as such. In this respect Washington is nearly ideal. It would be wholly so if congress never had to adjourn.

Editorial of the Day

THE CALL TO ADULLAM'S CAVE.

[New York Sun.]

In the two years of its life the Seventy-first congress was in session 363 days. What with economic depression, unemployment, drought, and various opportunities for logrolling, statesmen of the wilder sort had the chance of a lifetime. Most of us thought they took it; the size of the income taxes payable this month seem bitter proof of it. But to read the call issued by Senators Norris, La Follette, Wheeler, and others of their type for a conference in Washington next week it might be thought that the now dead congress had been in the hands of Hanna, Aldrich, and Penrose. Norris and Company are speaking to the "progressive" governors, legislators, and economists whom they have invited to the confab:

"Months of misery . . . have disclosed lack of any proposals for the solution of one of the greatest economic crises ever confronting the nation."

No proposals in all those 363 days, with Norris et al. spouting daily? It seems not. The agenda of the meeting will include "unemployment and industrial stabilization," "public utilities," "agriculture," "tariff," and "return to representative government." After the relief bill and the bonus, Boulder Dam and Muscle Shoals, the farm board and its wheat buying, the Wagner unemployment bill, there must be an unofficial conference to deal with such things over again!

The senate chamber may be a court for owls until the winter cometh, but there shall be no silence among Norris and his fellows so long as there is a governor to be harangued. State legislatures are still in session; let it be trumpeted to them that the situation is terrible, that the people perish. The big question with the sons, cousins, and nephews of the Wild Jackass is whether it is possible to keep the country in the doldrums until 1932.

Gov. Roosevelt has been invited to go into the Cave of Adullam. Several Democrats with an eye on the presidential nomination hope that he will accept.

FAIR ENOUGH.

Mr. Spendit—You have overdrawn my account $400. What do you mean by being so careless?

Mrs. Spendit—Well, the bank's advertisement showed that their resources are over $1,000,000.—Exchange.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

WE MUST BE POLITE BUT FIRM.

Secretary Stimson has stirred up all sorts of trouble by the announcement that we should have a bureau to take care of and encourage trade with Soviet Russia. We do not now recognize the Reds and a lot of patriots think we shouldn't speak to them even if we have our fingers crossed. However, it can be done if it's done diplomatically. We should wield the big stick, but put honey and molasses on it.

Every time we converse with the Soviets we could make our conversation a sort of fifty-fifty proposition so that neither the Reds nor our one hundred percenters will get sore. Like this:

STATE DEPARTMENT—How do you do, Red Russia! Not that we care a damn!

RED RUSSIA—The same to you and many of them. How would you like us to spend about eight billion rubles in your big capitalistic all hog country?

STATE DEPARTMENT—Oh, very much, indeed; thank you. That would be about seven bucks and thirty-five cents in real money, would it not?

RED RUSSIA—Go to hellski! We'll spend our dough in England.

STATE DEPARTMENT—Don't be offended! We meant no harm to your great country. You wish to be a customer, and with us the customer is always right. Lykell, lykell, lykell!

RED RUSSIA—Then let's get down to brass-headed tacks.

STATE DEPARTMENT—With the sharp end up and you sitting on 'em.

RED RUSSIA—What's that?

STATE DEPARTMENT—Just a funny wisecrack we Americans are so fond of getting off.

RED RUSSIA—Well, get off of that one. Don't you think well of our five year plan?

STATE DEPARTMENT—Oh, indeed, yes, Russia; we only wish it was twenty years—and at hard labor.

RED RUSSIA—Are you kidding us or just showing us a good time?

RED RUSSIA—If you want our trade and our coin you've got to recognize us.

STATE DEPARTMENT—We'll do that, but it's got to be on a dark night when nobody's looking.

RED RUSSIA—Go to hellski.

STATE DEPARTMENT—Same to you and many of 'em.

CARMINA CLASSICA.

I.

Said Jove to his pretty one, long ago,
And blushed to a dainty and delicate glow,
But being a lady who couldn't say no—
Not even when danger was plain—
Replied, "I will follow wherever you go."

And thus was it ever with Jupiter's ways—
This hardy celestial sheik
Had only to move within feminine gaze
And spread a convenient and glamorous haze,
To kindle the eager and comforting blaze
He always went walking to seek;
For something about his electrical rays
Made women delight to be weak.

And places are still in existence, perhaps,
Where lovers like this may be found;
Light-hearted, persuasive, and eloquent chaps
With the gifts of the gods overflowing their laps,
Who think very little of casual haps
Outside the connubial bound;
And around, and around, and around.

DOROTHY KISSLING.

THE NEW CRUISER CHICAGO has been duly commissioned and is now one of the brightest ornaments of the American navy. The story that the Chicago would not be equipped with big guns but would go into battle armed only with machine guns, bombs, sawed-off shotguns, and pistols is supposed to have originated in New York.

WE SAW a snow shoveler yesterday in Rush street who found one shovelful of snow very heavy to lift into the dump wagon. But he finally heaved it over the side and the man on the wagon poked into it, and what do you think he found? Why, a couple of those new-fangled midget cars with the drivers still sitting inside them and swearing horribly.

AND Defense Attorney Oscar Thiel speaking in the murder trial at Valparaiso said in speaking of the death of Arlene Draves: "How did this unfortunate girl die that night? It was an ordinary whoopee party. The kind carried on by thousands every night in this country of ours. A product of the prohibition age. These sixteen Gary young people gathered for one of their usual drinking parties. There was nothing novel about it."

Referred without comment.

"CANDIDATE Who Swore on Radio Must Go to Jail."—The Trib. It's a good thing that the law only applies to those who swear on the radio. If there was a law against swearing at the radio, gosh! We'd all be in the hoosegow.

THEY ARE BRAGGING mightily about the luxuriousness and comfort of their new woman's jail in New York. But let the rooms be finished ever so prettily, it will still be a jail to the ladies incarcerated there unless there are plenty of looking glasses, lipsticks, and powder puffs all over the place.

ANYHOW, the President has to carry all those vetoes around in his pocket in order to make them legal pocket vetoes. He must bulge out like a Christmas tree. R. H. L.

DO YOUR TEETH ERODE?

MIDDLEAGED people are not interested in tooth decay. Their interest is in pyorrhea and erosions and, in some instances, in granuloma of the roots, sometimes called apical abscess. This article deals with erosions only.

Erosions are grooves that wear in teeth in locations where there is no rubbing and grinding to account for it. As a rule, the grooves run across the tooth near the gum margin and on the cheek surface. There is never any grind in that region. The process is not one of decay and there is nothing suggestive of anything that produces cavities. The gums do not have the appearance of gums suffering from pyorrhea. For a long time erosions are painless and otherwise symptomless. Finally the grobve is deep enough to cause some pain, some toothache, or some "sensitive dentine." Eventually the groove causes the tooth to break.

Since the process is not that of decay nor of pyorrhea, the dentist must look further afield for an explanation. Some of them hold that, largely as the result of worry, the chemical composition of the tooth is changed and grooves appear. Not many hold to this opinion, though it may be the right one. More of them hold that erosions are due to changes in the saliva. Many years ago Drs. Black and Keefe contended that erosions resulted from currents of saliva flowing continuously over the eroding areas. The saliva is a mixture of secretions from several different glands. The theory is that this mixture becomes unnatural for some reason and, in consequence, the fluid dissolves parts of the enamel, causing grooves to appear.

Dr. Vaughan tested the saliva of one side and found it acid. On the other side the mixture was alkaline. His explanation is that the gum secretion and other parts of the saliva are acid, but that the parotid secretion is sufficient in alkalinity and in quantity to neutralize it. In this case, there being no parotid secretion on one side, the saliva of that side became acid and dissolved grooves in the teeth. About two years ago two research students at the University of Kentucky made a report substantially to the same effect.

If this explanation be correct, the way to prevent erosions or to stop the process is to change the reaction of the mouth secretions. For this purpose mild alkaline washes are used, such as Dobell's solution, salt solution, bicarbonate of soda solution, and milk of magnesia.

An important but unsolved question is whether people with erosions should eat fruit.

HEART DISEASE.

H. T. S. writes: Many people are dying suddenly with what the newspapers say is "heart trouble." What in the Sam Hill is that? Does the aorta burst, or the heart walls give way? Generally speaking, just what is the most common ailment found in death due to "heart disease"? Please tell us common people exactly the meaning of that phrase.

REPLY.

It is safe to say that two-thirds of the reports of sudden death from heart disease are incorrect. As a rule, that diagnosis is merely given because no one knows the cause, and when no crime is suspected there is usually not sufficient reason for investigating. There are a fair number of sudden deaths which are correctly charged to heart disease. Among the causes of these are: Angina pectoris; coronary thrombosis or embolus or, in simple terms, clot; myocarditis with dilation of the aorta; rupture of the heart or of an aneurism; and profound interference with the heart contractions. Of these, angina, myocarditis, and coronary artery troubles are the most frequent causes.

SEVERAL SUSPECT CAUSES.

J. B. D. writes: For several weeks I have had a stinging feeling on the tip of my tongue. It goes away for several days and then returns. Would smoking or one's diet cause this, or what would you consider the reason for it?

REPLY.

Among the possible causes are: Too much smoking, pernicious anemia, septic anemia and pellagra.

My guess as to which of these it is, if any of them, would not be worth while.

BOWLEGS AND HEIGHT.

A. P. writes:

1. Is there anything a lad of 21 years can do to cure bowlegs?
2. If it is possible, then will he gain in height?

REPLY.

1. Nothing short of an operation would help.
2. Theoretically, taking the crook out would lengthen the legs. Practically, that does not add a cubit to the stature.

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

MARCH 11, 1915.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Arrival of the German converted cruiser Prinz Eitel Friedrich at Newport News with the announcement that during its six months as a commerce raider it had sunk one vessel which was American owned and flew the flag of the United States profoundly stirred official Washington. There is no attempt to deny the seriousness of the incident. The sinking of the William P. Frye off the coast of South America, it was conceded, bore the appearance of an unfriendly act on the part of the German ship of war. Information is that the Frye was blown up because the commander of the Eitel held the cargo of wheat to be contraband.

LONDON.—A Berlin wireless dispatch says a report has been received from Rotterdam that the British collier Beethoven, bound from Newcastle for Gibraltar, has been sunk, either by a torpedo or by a mine.

BERLIN.—Army headquarters issued a statement dealing with the campaign in Champagne in which it is claimed the allies have been defeated despite terrific efforts, with the cost of 45,000 men.

VERA CRUZ.—Gen. Carranza issued his reply to the note of Secretary of State Bryan demanding an amelioration of the chaotic conditions in Mexico City. He denies responsibility of the Constitutionalists, which is considered alarming for foreigners, but expresses the hope that Americans and citizens of other countries will lose no time in departing from Mexico until tranquillity shall be restored.

AMSTERDAM.—The kaiser has bestowed the iron cross of the first class on the sultan for the personal and active part he has taken in the defense of the Dardanelles.

30 YEARS AGO TODAY

MARCH 11, 1901.

INDIANAPOLIS.—Benjamin Harrison, former President of the United States, is believed to be in grave danger of death. His condition is most serious and friends fear the end is near. Pneumonia following an attack of grip is the cause. Russell B. Harrison and Mrs. McKee, son and daughter of the former President, are at his bedside.

BOSTON.—President Hadley of Yale university startled a congregation at Old South church, largely composed of the richest people in New England, by declaring: "We shall have an emperor in Washington within twenty-five years unless we can create a public sentiment which, regardless of legislation, will regulate the trusts."

CHICAGO.—A storm of wind, rain and sleet played havoc with railroad traffic and telephone and telegraph wires. All suburban lines of the Chicago Telephone company were put out of commission. The damage to property in and about Chicago is estimated at $240,000.

RALEIGH, N. C. — A sensational trial—that of Chief Justice David M. Furches of the state Supreme court and Associate Justice Robert M. Douglas, a native of Illinois and a son of the famous Stephen A. Douglas—on impeachment charges will begin tomorrow. The charges are the result of a ruling by which a state official was upheld in his demand on the treasury for salary after a law was passed abolishing his office.

50 YEARS AGO TODAY

MARCH 11, 1881.

WASHINGTON.—It has been definitely decided to remove Frederick Douglass from his present office as United States marshal, and he probably will be succeeded by Capt. Henry of Ohio or Gen. Sheldon. President Garfield sent to the senate the nomination of Clark E. Carr to succeed himself as postmaster at Galesburg, Ill. It is said to be a fact that neither Vice President Arthur nor Senator Conkling has yet called upon the President. If this is so, Vice President Arthur and Senator Conkling have neglected an opportunity to do themselves an honor.

NEW YORK.—Cardinal John McCloskey celebrated his 71st birthday and the 37th anniversary of his consecration as a bishop. He was ordained a priest in 1834.

LONDON.—In the house of commons Mr. Gladstone stated that the government had assented to a prolongation of the armistice with the Boers. The announcement was received with cheers by the radicals.

LONDON.—United States Minister Lowell has asked the British authorities for particulars concerning the arrest of M. P. Boyton in Ireland under the coercion act. Boyton claims to be an American citizen. New York dispatches state that he is a brother of Paul Boyton, the well known swimmer, and that the Boyton boys, with their parents, went to the United States from County Kerry at an early age.

CHICAGO.—Schuyler Colfax lectured at Central Music hall on his "A Trip Across the Continent." He was introduced by the Hon. William Bross, who was with him during the trip.

ADVICE TO THE DEMOCRATS.

Ambia, Ind., March 6.—If the Democratic party is to elect its candidate for President in 1932 it will need some millions of Republican votes, and those will not be had by superficial cleverness nor by exhibitions of New York provincialism.

Mr. Raskob tells the public that, in his opinion, the eighteenth amendment should stand as it is, with all its evils, but with a new and additional constitutional provision empowering the several states to deal with the liquor problem by referendum, if, how, and when they may decide to do so. Yet in all enforcement cases the old powers will, if desired, devolve upon and aid the states in their several noble or ignoble experiments.

Mr. Raskob overlooks the patent fact that the flaming anger against the eighteenth amendment and all its works felt by millions of people has little to do with liquor, but is directed against a damnable dry tyranny, worse even in state hands than in federal hands.

The United States Supreme court has repeatedly held that all our rights secured by constitutional provision fall before a later amendment, and the Raskob provision, if adopted, would be later yet than the late eighteenth amendment. Instead of one stench and one despotism we would be opened to forty-eight more, all backed by the federal government.

No, if the Democrats have any sense at all they will stand foursquare for appeal of the eighteenth amendment.

If that were done, the states could, of course, regulate, prohibit, or ignore the liquor traffic under their original sovereign powers; but without special change of their own constitutions they would lack the present federal power to murder citizens on suspicion, to put poison in alcohol, to send men to jail without trial by jury, to try acquitted persons all over again, to ransack homes without a warrant, to yank suspects before autocratic judges, and to stimulate bribery and corruption of officials from top to bottom of the prohibition unit.

The people would give up their liberties knowingly, at least, if they thought prohibition worth the price. Georgia might sacrifice much and New York but little for the dry cause. But the federal despotism would be gone.

Prohibition came with war hysteria. In case after case the Supreme court has told us its price in terms of lost liberties; congress year by year tells us its price in millions of dollars, and the death roll and overflowing federal prisons tell us its price in human tragedy.

Repeal, and nothing but repeal, should be the slogan of the Democratic party, for Mr. Carry Water on Both Shoulders is dead as the once popular Nero and his "sh-sh" as out of style as the red heels of Louis XIV.

ROBERT CATHERWOOD.

WHAT TO EAT AND WEAR.

Chicago, Feb. 22.—The students at the Parker Junior High school have been notified that they must eat in the school lunchroom. No students are permitted to go home for lunch unless they have a signed permit to do so.

The girls are told that they cannot buy their gymnasium suits from any one except the school.

When Thompson drove King George out of Chicago's schools it seems that he brought in a bit of soviet Russia to take George's place. W. R. SPENCER.

THAT IS TO SAY—

Dallas, Tex., March 5.—Why the popularity of the palpably unnecessary and tiresome locution, "In other words"—an admission of failure on the part of the speaker to express himself precisely?

E. S. H.

A CO-ED ON THE KIRKLAND CASE.

Chicago, March 9.—As a former collegienne, and as a participant in some of these so-called gin orgies, I want to voice my opinion—and that of not a few other college students—of this Kirkland affair.

I want to say that it is the opinion, from experience, of this minority that I am taking the liberty to represent that what happened that night in Gary was as much the fault of the girl as the fault of the boy if the girl's death was due to ravishment. Every girl knows what is liable to happen if she goes to a drinking party.

Most mothers, big sisters, and big brothers teach girls a few successful methods of repulsing a man's attentions, and if said girls forget their lessons is it the fault of the boys? If a girl doesn't care to drink and drinks are forced upon her, it is no trick at all to accidentally knock over a glass or to spill its contents into the sink.

I am in favor of freedom for Kirkland. He has had all the lesson that he needs, and death or life sentence for him will never serve as a lesson to the vast majority of persons who live their lives as they themselves will. The thing of a life for a life is a bit primitive and not in keeping with the civilization that our day and age is kidding itself into thinking it enjoys.

EX-CO-ED.

AMENDING THE ANTHEM.

Chicago, March 6.—Permit me to offer a suggestion that in place of calling "The Star Spangled Banner" our national anthem we term it the nation's dirge, making the last verse end as follows:

And the Star Spangled Banner in sorrow now waves
O'er a land ruled by trusts,
And the home of their slaves.

Theodore Roosevelt set the pace when he betrayed the nation by permitting United States Steel to absorb, octopus like, the Tennessee Coal and Iron company. The Republican party has followed his treachery to the present day—leaving little if any chance for competition where big business is interested.

C. A. SAUNDERS.

COME AGAIN.

Chicago, March 5.—I want to thank you for the very entertaining trip through THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE'S plant last evening. The motion pictures were of particular value in preparing us for the trip. And the conductor certainly is to be commended on the manner in which he handled the tour, which was not only very interesting but highly instructive as well. I consider my visit to THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE one of the most valuable industrial visits I have ever made. GERALD C. STEELE.

SHORT SKIRTS.

Chicago, March 6.—I certainly agree with E. W. with reference to the style of yesterday and today, and wish to add that the former were not also more chic and sanitary, but made our American woman look considerably younger and gave her that much admired slender figure, whereas our present styles make our dear sisters appear very much older, broader and last, but not least, fatter. CONSTANCE.

IRISH PROSPERITY.

Chicago, March 6.—The articles published in your paper about the great prosperity in Ireland must be the result of a pipe dream of your correspondent. I made an extended trip through the Irish isle last summer and found the farmers more in debt than they ever were in the history of the country, and the unemployment and squalidness in the cities of Dublin, Cork, and Belfast were the worst I ever saw. 3 KILLED, 2 HURT AS UNLICENSED PLANE CRASHES

Accident Occurs Soon After Takeoff.

Mounds, Okla., March 10.—(AP)—Three persons were killed and two others injured, perhaps fatally, today when an unlicensed airplane, piloted by J. R. Hays, Wewoka, Okla., crashed on a farm three miles south of here.

CAPT. IRA EAKER.
[Acme Photo.]

The dead are Mrs. J. T. Reed of Mounds, David Reed, 18, her son; Herschell Casey, 23. J. T. Reed, 15, son of Mrs. Reed, and J. R. Hays, pilot, were injured.

Hays told hospital attendants at Sapulpa he was taking off with the passengers on a short pleasure flight when the accident occurred. He said the ship stalled at an altitude of about 100 feet. It did not catch fire.

Capt. Eaker Forced Down.

Tolu, Ky., March 10.—(AP)—Capt. Ira Eaker, noted army flyer, was forced down and damaged his plane near here today on a transcontinental flight. He escaped with minor scratches and after discovering he could not continue the flight hurriedly set out for Cavein Rock, Ill., to spend the night.

Prior to his landing here about noon no definiate word had come from the noted army flyer since he took off at 2:15 a. m. from Long Beach, though a plane believed to have been his was seen over Albuquerque, N. Mex., early today. He was flying a specially built Lockheed-Vega monoplane and had said it was rather a test flight than an effort to break the west-east transcontinental record. He had traversed about 1,700 miles when forced to land.

Rescue Gandhi as 100,000 Riot to Touch India's 'Idol'

AHMADABAD, India, March 10.—(AP)—Mahatma Gandhi, home for the first time since his salt making march to the sea, was jostled about like an American subway passenger today by 100,000 worshiping Hindus who fought fought to touch his garments.

So great was the crush that he would have been seriously injured had not those closest to him formed a flying wedge and butted a way to the speaker's platform in the center of a tremendous crowd.

"If you love me," he cried again and again, "don't trample me to death," but the din was so great that no one heard him, and when he spoke from the platform even loud speakers could not carry his voice beyond the first fringes of his audience.

Gaze Upon Him as Idol.

Tens of thousands of white clad men, women and children sat cross legged on the burning sands of the dried up River Sabarmati, gazing upon the wan and wasted little man who has led them closer to freedom than Indians have ever been before.

They didn't care whether they heard him. They had come to see him, and when his speech was over the mob closed about him again and there was another battle before he could get away. He emerged at last, his clothing torn to shreds and his patience sorely tried.

Gandhi today announced that if the All-India congress at its forthcoming meeting at Karachi should reject the agreement he reached with Lord Irwin on Indian settlement he would not be called upon to attend the second round table conference, at which a more detailed settlement of India's difficulties is hoped for. Gandhi told newspaper men he had met Viceroy Irwin as a congressman and not as an individual.

Baldwin's Bombshell a Dud.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, March 10.—Stanley Baldwin's bombshell in the form of an announcement last night that the Conservative party would boycott future round table conferences on India proved today to be somewhat of a dud. In fact, the party's headquarters issued a statement explaining its stand, but said it was no boycott.

In explaining the resolution, the statement welcomed "any further round table conference to be held in India." The statement did not refer to the final conference, which will likely be held in London.

It is known that the Tory chieftain has consulted Prime Minister MacDonald on the Indian policy and it is reported he has been coöperating to assist Mr. MacDonald to straighten out the tangle. The statement very clearly indicates that Mr. Baldwin's resolution referred only to a matter of procedure and not a change in policy.

Want Parley in India.

Some of the Indian leaders have been urging that the final conference be held in India. It is declared to be almost impossible for ministers to absent themselves from England for three or four months. Many of the Indians prefer London because they fear Mahatma Gandhi, with his hordes of followers, might be harder to keep on moderate lines in India than in London.

JUDGE RELEASES GIRL'S DEFENDER IN FISTIC BATTLE

Malcolm Harrison, 24 years old, 1207 Leland avenue, who was arrested Monday evening after he had the better of a fist fight with Clifford H. Wilkinson, 7442 Malvern avenue, a superintendent of soda fountain sales for a chain drug concern, was dismissed yesterday by Municipal Judge Edelman. The charge was assault.

The fight occurred in the hallway of the home of Miss Lucille Thompson at 4846 Magnolia avenue.

Judge Edelman held that the language used by Wilkinson in addressing Miss Thompson justified Harrison in striking him.

Freed at Last from Stomach and Bowel Misery

"For years and years I suffered stomach and bowel trouble," says Mrs. Alice Tebbetts of Lexington, Mass. "Have taken ACIDINE regularly and from all the other medicines I had taken, I never found such relief. It seems wonderful to be free from stomach ache, gas."

Almost everyone who takes ACIDINE raves about it. More than two million packages have been sold. It's absolutely amazing the way this new prescription succeeds when other known remedies fail.

ACIDINE is the only known remedy which contains Japtase, that in laboratory tests, digests 800 times its weight of certain heavy, starchy foods which cause trouble. It neutralizes burning acids, soothes irritated stomach linings, stops gassy headaches, sleeplessness and nervousness. No other known remedy contains this combination to end acid stomach. ACIDINE also fortifies you against colds by reducing acidity.

Get ACIDINE today at your druggist. Watch how quick acid indigestion, burning stomach, belch, pain, heartburn, dizziness, fullness, short breath vanish. Eat, drink all you want. Maker refunds money if not delighted.

For Greater Safety on Every Highway

ALL FORD CARS ARE EQUIPPED WITH SHATTER-PROOF GLASS WINDSHIELDS

FOR greater safety in driving, every Ford car is equipped with a Triplex shatter-proof glass windshield. By reducing the dangers of flying glass it has saved many lives and prevented countless injuries in automobile accidents.

The value of this important safety factor has been known for years, but its use has been limited by expense. It is brought to you on the Ford as standard equipment only because of the efficiency and economy of Ford methods. Much pioneering work has been done in finding ways to manufacture in large volume at low cost.

It is interesting to know how the Triplex shatter-proof glass windshield of the Ford is made and why it gives so much extra protection. The process of manufacture requires many separate operations, yet it can be explained in a few simple words.

Two pieces of plate glass, carefully ground and polished, are covered on one side with a thin coating of gelatine. This coating is baked hard, sprayed with liquid celluloid, and treated with a solvent.

Then, between the two pieces of glass, like the middle of a sandwich, is inserted a layer of special celluloid. This also has been treated with a solvent.

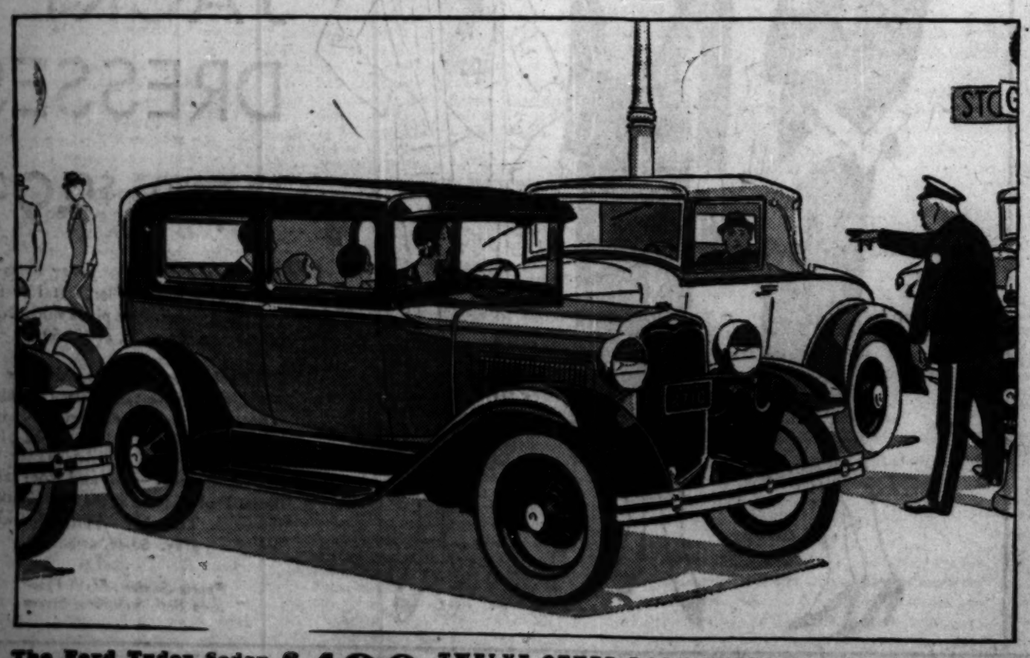
When heat and pressure are applied to the glass sandwich, this solvent helps to dissolve the surfaces in contact and they are actually fused together. It is almost like a welding process. The result is a single sheet of beautiful, clear, laminated glass. The final operation is sealing the edges as protection against air and moisture.

This laminated windshield will withstand a 50% harder impact before breaking than plate glass of equal thickness, and is more flexible under impact. When struck an unusually hard blow, it will crack, but the danger from flying glass is minimized because the pieces adhere to the layer of celluloid.

The greatest care is taken to insure uniform high quality. Plate glass is used for clear vision. One sheet in 150 is taken for test. For the impact test, a heavy steel ball is dropped sixteen feet to the center of a large sheet.

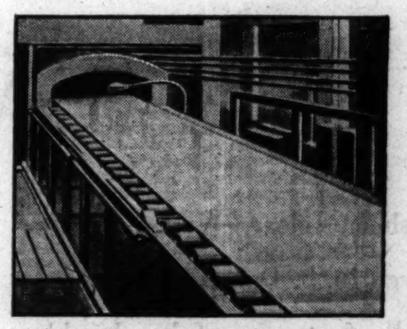
Other samples are subjected to ultra-violet rays and infra-red rays which give, in a few hours, an exposure equal to several years of normal driving. This is done to check the effect of the sun's rays and heat on the crystal clearness of the glass in actual use.

Many improvements have been made in the past three years so that today, Triplex shatter-proof glass is recognized as one of the greatest contributions to safety since four-wheel brakes. High speed and crowded traffic emphasize the need of the protection it affords. It is just another instance of the extra value in the Ford.



The Ford Tudor Sedan is an unusual value at $490

TWELVE OTHER BODY TYPES FROM $430 TO $630
All Ford prices are F. O. B. Detroit, plus freight and delivery. Bumpers and spare tire extra at small cost. You can purchase a Ford on convenient terms through the authorized Ford Finance Plans of the Universal Credit Company.



Thirteen Million Square Feet of Glass

The Ford Motor Company was the pioneer in making glass by a continuous machine process. Its manufacturing economies and unusual facilities make it possible to give you Triplex shatter-proof glass in the Ford without extra cost. The Rouge plant alone has a capacity of 13,000,000 square feet of glass annually. This calls for 27,300,000 pounds of silica sand, 8,580,000 pounds of soda ash, 7,930,000 pounds of limestone, 1,820,000 pounds of salt cake, 6,136,000 pounds of cullet, 78,000 pounds of charcoal, and 156,000 pounds of arsenic. For grinding and polishing, the machines use 118,440,000 pounds of sand, 7,873,000 pounds of stucco, 2,715,000 pounds of garnet, and 724,000 pounds of rouge.

No Flying Glass Here

A woman and three children were in this Ford when a passing car upturned a horseshoe in the road and sent it crashing into the windshield. No one was hurt because there was no flying glass.

The Impact Test

A heavy steel ball is dropped sixteen feet on the glass used for the Ford windshield as an impact test. Even under this severe blow there is no flying glass.

GERMANS FREEZE FLEEING PRISON CAMPS IN SIBERIA

Mennonites Dash Across Ice Into China.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HARBIN, Manchuria, March 10.—A situation describable by no other term than terrorism exists along the 1,200 mile border that separates the Chinese Manchurian provinces from Siberia, according to reports brought to this city by hundreds of refugees from Russia. Most of the refugees are German Mennonites, but also include large numbers of Russian peasants and Corean farmers from the berian maritime province.

The Mennonites have attracted most attention because they are direct descendants of the original disciples of Menno Simons, who rebelled from the state church at Zurich in 1523. Entering Russia at the time of Catherine the Great, they were given land in the district of Ekaterinoslav and other places in South Russia. About three-quarters of a century ago some of these Mennonite colonists in Russia emigrated to Canada, the United States and Mexico, but most of them remained in Russia, where they developed many towns and villages which served as the back-bone of old Russia's agricultural and live stock industry.

Many Settle on Amur.

The Mennonite settlements in Russia maintained a curious form of communal life, one regulation being that the farms could not be divided among the children. The land always went to the youngest son. The elder sons were forced to move to other localities, which explains the large number of Mennonite settlements on the Volga, in the Ural mountain district, and in the vicinity of Blagoveshchensk on the Amur river in Siberia.

The prosperity of the Mennonite communities, combined with their religious practices, however, soon got them into trouble with the soviet authorities at Moscow, who raised serious objection to their capitalistic practices of land ownership, grain and live stock hoarding.

About two years ago Moscow declared the Mennonites to be "kulaks," or rich peasants, and seized their lands and confiscated their herds. Several thousands of them immediately emigrated back to Germany. Many hundreds were arrested by the G. P. U. and banished to Siberia, where they were forced to work in labor gangs in the Siberian forests and mines.

Dash Across Ice to China.

Due to the diplomatic complications aroused by the emigration of the Mennonites to Germany, Russia placed restrictions on further emigration, but several thousand managed to flee the districts along the Sino-Russian border in Siberia and also along the borders of Chinese Turkestan. Those that reached the Siberian frontier managed to obtain a considerable number of horses. A few weeks ago, after the Amur became frozen, the Mennonites made a rush for the border and crossed into Chinese territory. Since the exodus occurred in the dead of winter, terrible sufferings and privations were experienced, many being so badly frozen as to necessitate amputations of limbs upon arrival in this city.

These refugees are in a pitiable condition. Aside from the thousands of miles they were forced to travel on foot before reaching the Siberian frontier, they traveled practically 500 miles across the frozen North Manchurian plains and forests to reach Harbin.

A Diplomat Finds His Money Is No Good in Moscow Shop

BY HENRY WALES.

[Copyright: 1931: By The Chicago Tribune.]

MOSCOW, Feb. 14.—[By Mail.]—A friend of mine in the diplomatic corps—I knew him when he was a secretary in a certain embassy in Paris—told me an illuminating story of how things work here. His wife needed a new pair of patent leather slippers for evening wear, and he was referred to a high class custom shoemaker, a "bespoke bootmaker," as they say in London.

"Two hundred rubles ($100), they will cost and I cannot make them before six weeks," said the busy little cobbler, working away in his tiny shop, which is also his bedroom, kitchen and office, when my friend called to give him the order.

"But I can't wait that long, and that price seems terrible," remonstrated his friend.

"Well," said the shoemaker, "I'll make a bargain with you. Get me some Herzogovina cigarets from the coöperative which supplies the diplomatic corps, and I will cut the price and make the slippers right away, ahead of all these other orders," and he waved a pile of paper patterns and lasts.

The diplomat purchased for fifty rubles ($25) fifty packages of the cigarets in question, high grade smokes which the workers' coöperative, for which the cobbler had a ration book, did not carry. When he called for the finished slippers a week later, he paid $37.50 in cash.

Under the mechanized régime of the government, workers in certain lines make good money, and through their food cards and paying practically no rent have small expenses. But they are unable to buy the things they want with their cash because the goods are not available.

White House Denies Any Change in Russian Policy

Washington, D. C., March 10.—[Special.]—No change in the American policy toward Russia is under contemplation by the Hoover administration, the White House announced late today. The pronouncement followed publication of persistent reports that Secretary of State Stimson's projected study of the Russian problem would be followed by the granting of diplomatic recognition to the soviet.

Peoria, Ill., March 10.—[Special.]—Trying to render "first aid" to a trainload of stranded passengers stalled in a snowdrift near Tremont landed Herbert Sucherts in jail charged with violating the prohibition laws. Ten prohibition men happened to be passengers on the train and after sampling Sucherts' "warm up" liquid they brought him to Peoria.

CITY TRADE BODY PLANS FOR RAIL MERGER HEARING

Study Proposals as They Affect Local Shippers.

Officials of the Chicago Association of Commerce announced yesterday that Chicago will be well represented at the forthcoming railroad consolidation hearings before the interstate commerce commission in Washington. Experts in the legal, commercial, and engineering features of the proposed combinations as they affect the Chicago district will be sent to the capital by the transportation committee of the association, which already has made preliminary studies of the consolidation plans.

Pirie Heads Committee.

John T. Pirie, president of Carson, Pirie, Scott & Co., is chairman of the committee. Other members are: Ezra Warner, president of Sprague, Warner & Co.; Thomas H. Eddy, treasurer of Marshall Field & Co.; F. W. Ellis, vice president of Armour & Co.; H. B. Lyford, vice president of Hibbard, Spencer, Bartlett & Co.; P. D. Block, president of the Inland Steel company; W. R. Dawes, vice president of the Central Trust company; L. W. Downs, president of the Illinois Central railroad; Fred A. Sargent, president of the Chicago and North Western railroad, and Theodore Hamilton, vice president of the Pennsylvania railroad.

It is proposed by the interstate commerce commission to unite the eastern railroads into four great systems, the New York Central, Baltimore and Ohio, Pennsylvania, and Chesapeake and Ohio. The hearings will be held upon petitions of the railroads involved for authority to make the necessary acquisitions.

Concerned with Terminals.

In addition to protecting the interests of Chicago shippers and industrial concerns, one of the principal objectives of the Chicago spokesmen at the hearing will be to assist in working out the Chicago terminal problem. Eleven of the twenty-three lines involved in the projected merger enter Chicago and the natural effect of the consolidation should be to facilitate agreements on plans to eliminate the old terminals which now block development south of the loop.

James Simpson, chairman of the Chicago Plan commission, recently declared that "it is certainly to be hoped that the consolidation program will bring more action from the railroads than thay have evinced in the past."

FARMERS PLEDGE IMPROVED MILK IN CHICAGO AREA

Plan Promotion Campaign to Increase Use.

BY PAUL POTTER.

Chicago and more than 50 surrounding communities from South Bend to Freeport and Kenosha were assured yesterday by officials of the Pure Milk association of a steadily improved quality of milk during the coming year, in the face of reduced prices.

Holding its sixth annual meeting in the Auditorium, this organization of 18,466 farmers who now entirely control all milk supplied the Chicago area, not only laid plans for curtailing production to meet local demand but arranged for a fund to be raised beginning July 1 which will finance advertising and educational promotion for dairy products here.

Milk Dealers Aid Campaign.

The farmers expect, according to plans reported by Don Geyer, manager, to raise about $240,000 annually. This amount will be matched by a similar sum raised by milk dealers for the campaign. About $75,000 is now being spent in addition to improve the quality of milk supplied this area, Geyer said.

Stewart Pierson, state director of agriculture at Springfield, said that two essentials were to be considered in furthering the public attitude toward milk as "a perfect food for man." One was the actual removal of all danger of disease, the other a public acceptance of this fact.

Mr. Geyer, describing the events of the last year for the association, expressed the belief that better prices for milk would be paid the farmer members "as soon as the market and production conditions will allow." He said that a sufficient decrease in production would bring this about, and urged the membership to "contemplate the future with a reasonable degree of confidence."

Farmers on Waiting List.

Only farmers who belong to the Pure Milk association can sell in the Chicago market under present arrangements. Each farmer is paid on the basis of what he produced during the previous year's lightest three months of milk production. A waiting list of dairymen who are now unable to market their milk in Chicago was described as the reason for the association's failure to discuss price relationships with local distributors yesterday, it being pointed out by several delegates that even at present low prices the members are satisfied to be able to deliver milk without competition from dairymen who are not members.

Senator Smith W. Brookhart of Iowa described briefly the efforts of congress to protect dairymen by passage of the "butter substitute act." R. W. Balderston, manager of the National Dairy council, and Mrs. W. E. Fribley of the Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs also spoke.

478 POLICEMEN PASS CIVIL SERVICE TEST FOR SERGEANCIES

The names of 478 patrolmen who passed the examination for police sergeancies were posted yesterday by the civil service commission. The tests were taken by 1,800 policemen.

It is expected that the six highest on the list, after credit has been given for military service or for the winning of the Lambert Tree or Carter Harrison here awards, will be certified to sergeancies. Until yesterday there were only four vacancies, but the dismissal of Sergt. John Hardegen and the death of Sergt. Patrick Doyle created two more. The names of the 20 highest on the list in the order they were posted are:

Philip E. Breitzke,	Bernard J. Corcoran.
William J. Smith,	William J. Quilter,
Charles J. Keith,	Leroy M. Stafford.
Thomas F. Martin,	John R. Scherping.
Charles W. Lodding,	Thomas J. O'Donnell.
Michael J. Ahern,	Joseph D. Fallon,
John T. McAvoy,	T. P. Gartland,
John M. Cullinan,	John I. Howe,
Stephen J. Casey,	Frederick O'Day.
Daniel F. Healy,	Matthew Frolich.

The mark of Breitzke, who topped the list, was 83.12. Those men who have military service to their credit or who have won the Lambert Tree or Carter Harrison medals for bravery will get additional points which may change the list slightly.

WOULD-BE ROBBER SENTENCED.

Judge Frank M. Padden yesterday sentenced Otto Roosevelt, 28 years old, colored, to four months in the Bridewell for attempted robbery.

JOSEPH COTTON, U. S. STATE DEPT. SECRETARY, DIES

Noted as Leader in Law and Business.

Baltimore, Md., March 10.—(AP)—Joseph Potter Cotton, who as undersecretary of state for nearly two years gained a reputation for frank and direct diplomatic methods, died late today at Johns Hopkins hospital, where he had undergone two major operations in the last six weeks.

Death came at 5:10 o'clock after administration of oxygen had failed to prolong his life. At his bedside were his wife and his daughter, Isabel, and his New York law partner, George S. Franklin.

Mr. Cotton was 55 years old. He underwent an operation for spinal infection on Jan. 21, and on Feb. 16 his right eye was removed.

Health Fails from Overwork.

The undersecretary bore the chief burden of the state department's work during the absence of Secretary Stimson at the London naval conference and his health failed last summer. In the fall he took a two months' leave of absence and had his tonsils removed, but this failed to restore him.

Long a friend of President Hoover, Mr. Cotton was appointed in May, 1929. He was one of a group who worked with Mr. Hoover when the latter was food administrator during the world war and later secretary of commerce.

Mr. Cotton, born at Newport, R. I., July 22, 1875, was graduated from Harvard with a bachelor of arts degree in 1896, took his master's degree the following year, and in 1900 was graduated from Harvard law school.

Fight in Senate on Appointment.

He brought to the state department nearly 30 years' experience as a successful lawyer and director of a number of New York corporations. His position as counsel for Edward L. Doheny, when the California oil magnate was on trial on charges growing out of the Elk Hills naval preserve transfer caused a fight on his nomination in the senate. At the time he was law partner of Mr. Franklin and William G. McAdoo, former secretary of the treasury.

Mr. Cotton was a director of the Broadway and Seventh Avenue Railroad company, the Farmers Loan and Trust company, and the New York Railways corporation. His home was on Park avenue, New York City. He also had served as counsel for the federal reserve board and as a member of the international finance commission.

A son, as well as his widow and daughter, survive.

Most prominent among those being mentioned for Mr. Cotton's post was William R. Castle Jr., assistant secretary of state for European and far eastern affairs, who has had a long career in the department.

$50,000 DIAMOND HOLDUP SUSPECT BROUGHT TO CITY

Larry Coates, gunman, jewel thief and erstwhile bootlegger, was returned to Chicago from Miami, Fla., yesterday and placed under a special guard in a detective bureau cell to await charges of robbing a New York diamond merchant of $50,000 in uncut gems here last December.

Coates was captured in Miami on Feb. 18 on information supplied by Lieut. John J. Sullivan of the detective bureau after Coates' photograph had been identified by Harry Fine, the diamond dealer, as that of one of three bandits who held him up at Wabash avenue and Monroe streets on Dec. 14.

Investigation disclosed that Coates, with his wife and two children, had fled from a $250 a month apartment at 1400 Lake Shore drive last January, a short time before a detective squad raided the flat in search of him. When arrested in Miami Coates, who is 26 year old, was driving an expensive automobile.

YESTERDAY'S PUZZLE SOLVED

COUNTY HIGHWAY BUILDING IN 1931 TO SET A RECORD

Metropolitan Area to Get $26,000,000.

BY HAL FOUST.

President Cermak of the county County Highway Superintendent Quinlan, announced yesterday that 1931 board, following a conference with will be a record road building year in the metropolitan area, involving an expenditure of approximately $26,000,000 and furnishing employment for thousands of men.

The Cook county highway department will spend more than $11,000,000 on new pavements for a total distance of 171 miles, consisting of 72 miles within Chicago and 99 miles outside the corporate limits. The best previous year's record was in 1928, when the department spent $9,000,000 on 130 miles of pavement.

The state highway department's program for 1931 calls for the expenditure of $12,000,000 in the metropolitan area, the district bounded by route 22, which extends from Highland Park through Cary, Elgin, Aurora, and Joliet and enters Indiana at Dyer. Will county has $1,000,000 available for construction this year; Lake county, $375,000; Kane county has $200,000, and Du Page county, $100,000.

The total of $26,000,000 for 1931 is almost three times the $9,250,000 spent in this area in 1930.

The state's 1931 job is to complete a $19,000,000 biennium program prepared by a citizens' committee appointed by Gov. Emmerson.

MR. REX COLE

"Timely! Direct! Sure!

Tersely put, these are the reasons that make newspapers the backbone of all our selling.

And they reach people when they are in a buying frame of mind. Our advertisements are our "Business News". They are our touch with the public. In the newspapers we have found such "news" instantly productive.

No form of selling can supplant newspapers with us. They are economical. They are flexible. They are powerful enough to sway the buying trend of vast groups of open-minded communities. "

REX COLE
Distributors of General Electric Refrigerators in Greater New York and 7 counties in New York State and Connecticut.

HERE, in New York and its rich suburban territory, Mr. Cole claims, no newspaper campaign would be complete without the New York Herald Tribune, and for just one reason.

In fact, Mr. Cole reports a 76.2% increase in business last year over 1929. This year his sales quota is 50% greater than in 1930, and his advertising expenditure in newspapers is over 100% greater. The New York Herald Tribune will carry for Mr. Cole, a maximum advertising schedule this year.

For it does give definite returns for the advertising dollars spent.

Its audience is youthful, aggressive, open-minded to new and better standards of living. Its circulation in the better sections of the city and in the suburbs is twenty times as great as in the lower class sections.

The New York Herald Tribune's circulation represents "A City Without Slums".

It is a man's paper and a woman's paper. And, its circulation is considered by scores of advertisers to be without equal where pocketbooks open readily to sound, sane merchandising appeal.

The Real Beauty Is Not Perpetually Aware of Her Looks

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Playing up one's best assets is an old, tried and true rule of beauty conquest. In fact, many a girl has ridden to distinction on just this particular skill. A figure, perhaps. A pair of beautiful hands. A gorgeous head of hair. A voice. A pair of legs. A radiant smile showing brilliant white teeth.

Keeping your improving eye on that main chance, whatever it may be, is to be heartily commended. BUT—there is such a thing, too, as overplaying one's trump card, or cards, getting frightfully self-conscious of it, or them, and projecting the particular item of beauty in an abnoxious way.

For instance, there are certain little mannerisms of the hands that have won flattery. Flattery may prove a deadly poison for those same hands. They may overplay their part and turn the former fetching gesture into an annoying performance.

I dropped in at a catinée the other day to look over a certain star whose silhouette is worth the price of admission any day, even with the ticket broker's tax thrown in. The lovely lines were there all right. The beautifully curved bustline, streamline hip, delicately molded waistline and withal an elasticity and supple quality of muscle that is what the rest of us less favored wretches stretch, gyrate, and groan for.

Perhaps going in especially with the silhouette feature in mind I may have become prejudiced, but it did seem to me that the lady of the leading rôle did overwork that figure asset of hers. You saw a perpetual struggle to project it. Not in dress, especially—but in body mannerisms, poses. So that the rôle of the lay seemed lost, really, in the exhibition of a physical asset.

It is told that another star's deep, melodious voice, which earlier critics raved about, was lost through the over-styling of its throaty quality.

Anyway, great beauty assets which hold your interests are assets about which there are no indications of self-consciousness. You have it, or them, you keep it, or them, polished with what beauty practices they require—and then you forget about them, as the musician forgets the technical details of practice when he performs. That's the real art of being beautiful.

FARM AND GARDEN BY PAUL POTTER

TREE PLANTING ENLARGED.

Setting out of a half million small trees, new shrubs and vines in forest preserves of Cook county is expected during the present year on the basis of a spring planting order just placed by A. J. Cermak, president, and the forest preserve board for purchase of 235,000 trees and 50,000 shrubs and vines.

The fall planting season is longer and more intense, Mr. Cermak points out, so that the apparently early spring will enable a record year of this work. Last year the total plantings for the year was a record with 126,300 young plants started, but the program this spring alone calls for almost doubling the 1930 work.

Covering bare spots and adding to the beauty of the landscapes of the county is included in the policy of the forest preserve district, according to Charles G. Sauers, general superintendent. The general reforestation plan calls for guarding existing timber against fire, as well as enlarging the plantings, he says.

The Palos area last year saw a new type of planting plan in that new trees were set along open areas adjacent to highways and on banks and fills, especially as a fire guard. Included in the new areas set out this year will be Cummings park at Lake street and Harlem avenue, various picnic areas, and at the preserve golf clubhouses and grandstands. Bridgeheads also are to be planted to beautify approaches, which will be undertaken with the coöperation of state and county highway departments.

WOMAN'S OR MISS' DRESS.

Daintiness is expressed in this new model of printed crêpe silk. A peplum frill encircles the hips, and it is cleverly placed so as not to interfere with its slenderness. A frill also finishes the cape collar that is in the becoming V shape at the front, and is finished with a bow.

The pattern, 3006, comes in sizes 16 and 18 years and 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust measure. Size 36 requires 3½ yards of 39 inch material with ¾ yard of 35 inch contrasting and 5 yards of ribbon for binding.

Bright Sayings of the Children

Little Enfred, 3½ years old, was watching his father working in the basement of their home. He began to get restless and with a sigh said, "Daddy, will you be 'fraid down here alone if I go upstairs to mother? I will come back for you." J. D. S.

The doctor of my little 5 year old niece, Ruth, had been rushed to the hospital for an emergency operation, but she didn't know of this.

A few days later, because Ruth had a cold and a slight fever, her mother remarked to grandmother that it was a pity the doctor was in the hospital. To which little Ruth chirped up: "Sick? Why didn't he take his own medicines?" M. P.

Food Talk.

"What is the best kind of fat to use to make good plain pastry?" is a question that we are occasionally asked.

A number of cooks seem to have the idea that butter is the best of all fats for pastry, but while the flavor is the best of all fats, it has the least shortening power of any and is only about 85 per cent fat.

It is far better to use a pure fat [a 100 per cent fat] for pastry because it is less expensive and it produces a more tender crust.

The ideal condition of a mixed flour and fat for pastry is to have the tiny fat particles covered with flour.

When oil is used instead of solid fat, the tendency is toward the flour becoming coated with oil rather than the oil with flour.

My advice to the person who is just learning to make pastry is to use a pure solid fat and have it cold. Cut it into the flour quickly with two knives until the fat particles are about the size of beans. Then finish by rubbing the fat in with the tips of the fingers, working rapidly until the consistency is like dry, coarse corn meal—not oily cornmeal.

If the mixture is wet or oily in appearance it means the work has been done too slowly, the fat has become warm enough to melt and form a film around the flour. A dry mixture requires much more water to dampen the flour covered particles than is required for an oily mixture. And this is just what we want for good pastry. Only enough water, however, is needed to stick the particles together. Press the dough into a ball shape rather than kneading it. Working the pastry after it is mixed makes it tough. Pastry should be baked in a hot oven to be tender and crisp.

SARDINE AND SWISS SANDWICHES.

1 cup diced Swiss cheese.
1 teaspoon mixed mustard.
1 teaspoon lemon juice.
¼ teaspoon paprika or cayenne.
6 slices buttered white or entire wheat bread.
6 sardines.
2 tablespoons French dressing.

Mash the cheese with a fork, add to it the mustard, lemon juice and paprika. Spread this on the slices of buttered bread. Scrape the skin from the sardines, split them and allow them to stand in the French dressing for 10 minutes; then lay the strips of sardine on half the slices of bread, cover with the remaining slices, cut into strips and garnish with parsley or water cress and a few small pieces of tomato.

Yield: 6 sandwiches.

Spring Sport Suits Take Youthful Lines

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—Spring is the season of youth. That's one of the old chestnuts that really does make sense every year, and this spring promises to be more than ever a season full of simple, youthful clothes. Suits, tailored one and two piece frocks, separate blouses, pull-overs, Eton jackets, all are specially suited to the young girl and the woman who has retained her girlish youthful line.

Sweaters are back in droves, as well as fine sleeveless jerseys with crêpe de chine surface, to be worn with tub silk shirts. Patou and Jane Regny are both featuring these sports accessories that irresistibly suggest an age under 20.

Sketched today is a smart and practical sports ensemble for the young girl from Gorin. The coat and skirt are in Scotmayan mixture of gray, beige and dark brown. The skirt has one inverted plait in front to give it fullness and is buttoned the wrong way on the hips. The coat is a seven eighths raglan with collar and cuffs of brown chevrette. The tub silk shirt is striped in beige, gray and bright green. It's worn with a dark brown knitted silk tie.

Mrs. F.D. Roosevelt Replies to Mother's Day Originator

TRADER HORN

"Trader Horn," the photoplay, developed from the book of reminiscences related by the old ivory trader to Ethelreda Lewis, is, without doubt, the most astounding and thrilling jungle melodrama ever turned out. Both the fact and the fiction compel your fascinated attention. Mae Tinee, Chicago Tribune.

"Trader" is the wildest, most weird, most thrilling and most fascinating film that this columnist has ever encountered. There's never been anything quite like it before on the screen. It is difficult to describe or recommend adequately. You must experience it to appreciate it. Rob Reel, Chicago Evening American.

"Trader Horn" is peer of all African pictures. It is truly a remarkable film and one that will be remembered long after the general run-of-the-mill productions have been forgotten. You mustn't miss "Trader Horn." It is an adventure in movie going." Carol Frink, Herald-Examiner.

THE SIXTH JOURNEY

BY ALICE GRANT ROSMAN

SYNOPSIS.

John Falconer, a successful architect, returning home to England from Cape Town, meets Hilary Revel, author of travel books, on shipboard. During the journey home their acquaintance grows into a friendship neither wishes to end.

John tells Hilary of his daughter, Judith, born of a café singer while he was a soldier. His wife, John says, had magnanimously adopted the child. Hilary suspects such magnanimity. John's sister, Gertrude, became Judith's legal guardian when his wife died.

Hilary had taken her war invalided brother, Hugh, away from home ten years ago to give her younger sister, Christine, and brother, Stephen, a better chance. Now that Hugh was dead, Hilary was returning home. Hilary is not met when the boat docks and John tells her that Hugh left her his possessions in trust, to be settled on her at her marriage or to buy her an annuity at the age of forty if still single.

The next day after their return John takes Hilary to luncheon. He tells her he loves her and asks her to marry him, and Hilary accepts.

Judith leads a lonely life in her aunt's home. She has a private teacher, Miss Mead, while her cousins are away at school. Her cousin, Prue, is her only friend in her aunt's home. Her father she knows as Uncle John. She senses she is different in some way from other children. When Aunt Gertrude hears of her brother's engagement she decides to send Judith to the country.

INSTALLMENT XV.

MAGIC INTERFERENCE.

"To be with your kind old nurse in the country will do you good, and no growing girl should be kept in London all the year round," Aunt Gertrude continued. "This happens to be the moment when it is most convenient for me to send you, and that is enough. Do you think Midge or Cecil would make such a to-do if I gave them the chance of a holiday like this?"

"But it is term time," said Judy faintly, "and I shall miss my lessons."

"Indeed! Lessons have become important to you very suddenly, Judith, I am afraid. I heard nothing about them from you on Monday when you wanted to go to the Tower, did I?' Such hypocrisy is a thing I particularly dislike, and since you pretend concern for your lessons I shall see that Tracy gives you others quite as important for you to know as reading, writing, and the kings of England. You shall learn to make yourself useful about the house. Now run along."

A sensitive flush had spread over the little girl's face and neck and then receded, leaving her whiter than before. Her eyes dilated.

"Shan't I ever come back?" she asked in a small, piteous voice, and then was suddenly frightened at the peculiar look in her aunt's face.

"You will come back when I send for you, Judith, and not before," said Mrs. Livingstone firmly and no longer with heat. "Now do as I tell you and get ready at once, and try to remember you are a very fortunate girl and be grateful. What would your poor Aunt Sylvia, who was so good and generous to you, think?"

"You will come back when I send for you, Judith, and not before."

It was the last word. Judith had no longer any hope. She turned and went out of the door and up the stairs, not even conscious that she was dazing from head to foot.

"And that's that," said Aunt Gertrude, employing a phrase which always gave her a soothing sensation of having put the world to rights.

The child was odd, but that was only to be expected, a sharp little thing, and really it was a mercy she had had the presence of mind to wire to Tracy and pack her off. After all, it was for the best that John was going to marry again and settle down. His sister hoped that the young woman with the curious name would not be too selfish to give him children of his own. If Sylvia had not failed him there she would not have succumbed to that foolish and highly sentimental impulse to adopt Judith. It had been a fatal mistake—beautiful no doubt in a way and so modern, but highly injudicious. Magnanimity of the kind never answers, and Sylvia herself must have seen it at the last, begging her sister-in-law with tears to take the child, so that she should not be an embarrassment and burden to John.

Well, there had been nothing else for it, just as now there was nothing else for it but to keep the child out of the way. And really, Mrs. Livingstone thought, it might be no bad thing to let her stay permanently at the farm. Tracy was a good, sensible creature and had been devoted to Sylvia, she was discreet and could be relied upon, and in any event some change would be necessary very soon. One had to think of one's own children and the danger to them. Cecil was sixteen, little Midge a year younger, and always so sweet and open with their mother. They disliked Judith already, pure instinct, bless their hearts, for they knew nothing, but they thought her a sly little thing.

Tracy must be warned about that; told to keep her busy and useful and, of course, strictly watched. You never knew what would come out in such a child and that was why it had been quite impossible to take the risk of sending her to school. It would have been unfair to the parents of other children, bad citizenship, and if one isn't a good citizen where is one's self-respect?

The child would be far better for good country air; there could be no question of that, and for her own sake she ought to be brought up in the sphere to which she belonged. Sylvia, in her generous way, bringing the waif home in order to show John how forgiving she was, had lost sight of the fact that she was unfitting poor little Judith for the battle of life. A pity! Mrs. Livingstone had always thought so and Sylvia had called her attitude out of date. "I am as broad minded as any one," Aunt Gertrude defended herself. "These things happen and we must accept that, but if some line isn't drawn where are we?"

Tracy would have to be paid until the girl was old enough to earn her living and fend for herself, but it would cost comparatively little to feed and clothe her in the country—nothing like so much as it was costing now.

Gertrude sighed, for even so she would be out of pocket, in spite of Sylvia's provision for the child, considering the initial check of £100 to the young woman, her mother. Mrs. Livingstone's mind went back to the distressful days of 1916, when friends had first warned her that Capt. Falconer was being seen taking the girl about. Remonstrances to him had been utterly useless. . . . Men on leave. . . . Well, of course they had lost their senses, but she had not left it at that. She had had the young woman watched, and as soon as John returned to France, had called upon her and shown her quite kindly but firmly the plain facts. Even if Capt. Falconer survived the war, which was unlikely, it could not be supposed his friends would ever countenance such a connection, she had said, and knowing the cupidity of such creatures, offered her a check. The woman had taken it after a great outpouring of indignation. What was it she had said? "O, well, since you're pressing. . . ." Vulgar! One would expect it, and no hint that there was any possibility of a child. Most likely John was not the father. Mrs. Livingstone told herself firmly that she had always doubted it, but he and Sylvia were gullible, too soft for words.

Gertrude was no villain, though it would have hurt her to be told she had not the brains for the part. She was merely a survival, too much occupied in putting the world to right to have any conception of how much she and the people like her were responsible for its wrongs. "Black is black and white is white," she said firmly to herself, and others from time to time, and believed she was voicing a profound observation on life and conduct, where actually such hues have no existence. She did not know that her initial interference in the matter was actually responsible for that brief intimacy between her brother and Jenny; and it did not even occur to her that, having deprived Judith of a father, though at the cost of a hundred pounds to Sylvia, it was ironic to say the least of it to make the child pay for the separation. Black was still black. Jenny was a loose woman and she had smeared poor John.

"And I am the sufferer," Gertrude exclaimed indignantly. "How-ever . . ."

. . . . . .

"Now be a good child and get your roses back," said Aunt Gertrude cheerfully.

Judith, setting out upon the fourth journey in her thirteen years, did not answer or seem to hear.

Good Morning!

If the devil whispers to you. "It's pretty, but is it art?"—you tell him it is.

The picture at the Studebaker is one of the most delightful cinemas that has emerged from the foreign studios. It is quaint, whimsical, shrewd, atmospheric, and vastly entertaining. The direction is so astute that you know the man at the megaphone was en rapport with his subject and in sympathy with his players. Acting and photography are all the heart could desire. There's some lovely music!

You say: "But can we who don't speak French understand the picture?"

I say: Yes, indeed, you can! As a matter of fact, the dialogue is subsidiary. You are hardly conscious of it. The pantomime tells the story, clearly—and you might almost say that "Sous les Toits de Paris" is practically straight pantomime.

Printed on the program is a brief synopsis of the story. Here it is, in case you'd like to get an idea of the narrative before going to the theater:

"Sous les Toits de Paris" is a tale of the romance of two inseparable companions, Albert and Louis, and a charming little Rumanian girl, Pola, who live in the crowded tenement districts of the French capital. The flirtation which brings them together is interrupted by the neighborhood bully, Fred, who, too, is attracted by Pola. The conflicts which follow between the men for the favor of mademoiselle furnish the "punch" of the story.

THE CAST.

Jack Thomas	John Gilbert
Frank	Louis Wolheim
Marjorie	Lelia Hyams
Ruth	Anita Page
Mabel	Marie Prevost
Floria	John Miljan
Mike	George Cooper
Angela	Freide Bref
Dante	Ralph Ince
Francesco	Francis Reicher
Tony	Fence Heltz

Jack Gilbert gives an excellent account of himself in this one. Not only does he do better acting than he has for a long, long time, but his voice is replete with manly force and the bookoo intonations it was supposed to have, but didn't, when the talkies first flirted with the gentleman who married Ina Claire.

The cards are stacked against the hero this trip. When the picture opens there is Jack Thomas, happy as a lark, rich, and engaged to marry the girl he loves. Then—up pops the devil—and he's all entangled with bootleggers and molls, and traveling with alarming speed the road that has but one dark turning. . . . !

I think that the Gilbert fans are due to shed buckets of tears over John's misfortunes, as illustrated in "Gentleman's Fate." [He, of course, is the gentleman.]

This movie has considerable of a story and was directed by somebody who is familiar with what the polite uplifters speak of as "the rougher element." Suspense springs up here and there and the acting is consistently good throughout. Comedy is furnished by Marie Prevost as a hungry and good-natured "broad," and by George Cooper as the man she loves but who, alas, has a ball and chain who refuses to become extinct.

The late Louis Wolheim, with his ugly, lovable face and compelling personality, lent backbone to the production. Lelia Hyams and Anita Page might be described as the heart interest twins.

French Official Arrives for Study of Aids to the Deaf

New York, March 10.—[Special.]—Robert M. Morche, representing the French department of health and head of the Society of French War Deaf, arrived today on the French liner Paris to make a study of methods used here in overcoming deafness and the means employed in this country to prevent deafness. He is interested in schools which teach lip reading and also in mechanical devices developed in recent years to aid those who cannot hear naturally.

At the present time there are 17,000 persons in France who are deaf as a result of the war, Mr. Morche said. In all, 150,000 in France are afflicted with deafness.

Rotarians Hail Bull Fighting Brooklyn Boy

Chicago Women Admire Gold Laced Jacket.

BY KATHERINE KELLEY.

It was Ladies' day at the Chicago Rotary club luncheon yesterday. So the entertainment committee prepared something special in honor of the feminine guests. They invited Sidney Franklin of Brooklyn, Mexico, and Spain, to explain to the ladies the gentle art of bull fighting.

Mr. Franklin, to refresh your memory, is the Brooklyn lad who forsook a commercial art career after a Columbia university education to go down to Mexico to show the Latins that Gringos can get a bull's goat. He was so successful that he went over to Spain a year or so ago and received the plaudits of critical Seville at a triumphal debut. The Spanish had said an American couldn't be a toreador.

Most of the 400 women guests of Rotary at the Stevens hotel had heard of bull fights. None ever had seen a bull fighter. When this Franklin appeared they agreed they hardly expected to see one "with such a perfect figure" and "such lovely embroideries on his uniforms."

Matador Franklin had finished his recital of arena thrills, he had waved a couple of silken scarlet capes, flashed a trusty sword "tempered with real blood," and the women guests remained in their seats. But when he promenaded in a fifty pound jacket incrusted with gold embroidery, a fair percentage of the feminine contingent rushed to the platform. They pressed about the matador, who casually had thrown aside a thirty or forty pound cape of apricot silk, embroidered in a pansy and rose design.

"Wouldn't that be lovely to have on your piano, girls," exclaimed one middle aged woman, fingering a corner of the heavy material.

"Say," exclaimed another, "I used to rave about Valentino's figure, but this Franklin has a perfect figure; so slender, so supple."

"He's perfectly fascinating," whispered another. "Would I go to see him in action? Well, just ask me. Would I! Say, I'd go to Mexico just for a glimpse of him in the arena."

"I wonder if his mother ever has seen him fight," mused an elderly woman. "I wouldn't want to see a son of mine fight a bull. You know he said it made him seasick at first."

Mr. Franklin was on his way from Mexico to Spain. There he again will enter the arena.

Lent Day by Day

REDISCOVERING JESUS.

The Rev. Perry J. Rice,
Chicago Christian Missionary Society.

During the Lenten season our thoughts naturally center about Christ. It is a period designed to awaken in us new appreciations of His life and a new understanding of its meaning for our lives and for the world.

He lived a long time ago and under very different conditions from those of today. Many things have intervened to dim the picture but it is still clear enough to allure us and, like the Greeks of old, say, "We would see Jesus."

There is evidence that He is being rediscovered and that He will live again in our day and speak to us with the same grace and authority that characterized Him in Galilee and Judea. We are eager to hear His voice for we feel that He will have something to say that will not only comfort us but also illuminate our pathway.

Humanity is far from being happy today. We have found that things that have seemed to enrich us are of little value, except as they are controlled. We need His leadership on questions of personal and social ethics, and on problems the machine age has created.

Prayer.

O Master, give us listening ears that we may hear thy voice. Speak to us as thou didst speak to thy disciples long ago. Show us the way and help us walk in it that we may attain life for ourselves and help others find it.

BY CHARLES COLLINS.

WHEN I left the Adelphi theater last night, the artful villain had just confessed to five murders [or was it six?] and swallowed a Borgian poison which he carried, for the emergency, in an antique ring. I had drunk my fill of melodramatic slaughter and was in high spirits—so much so that I felt tempted to call this the end of a perfect play. On second thought, however, that statement seems somewhat extreme. It was merely the end of "The Ninth Guest," a decidedly ingenious frameup of criminal mystery.

The master mind who presides over the serialized slayings in this ominous opus has as many venomous grudges as a cat's alleged lives. He rounds up the objects of his hatred—five men and three women, all well-knowns of one kind or another—at a party in a penthouse, and then informs them by radio that they are to die one by one, unless they are foxier than he is. They cannot escape, and he will call his shots every time by sounding a gong.

"There are really nine guests at this unique party," he says, broadcasting with admirable diction, "and the ninth guest, ladies and gentlemen, is Death!"

A decidedly grewsome fellow. But who is he? Where is he? And what is his motive? He is in plain view of the audience most of the time, but clew hunting will not help you, and the odds are strongly against you if you try to make a smart guess. There are the eight guests, the weird looking servitor of the cocktails, and a mysterious corpse stored in a closet who might be merely shamming. Take your choice and try to pick the death dealing maniac. It's fun.

A pompous gentleman who had recently run for mayor of New York was the first to die. He monkeyed with a decanter and a needle carrying tetra-ethyl lead settled him. He looked like the late Mayor Dever, but he had a bad record and deserved to go.

Then a society matron, whom the voice of terror over the radio was about to accuse of managing a love bungalow, voluntarily gave up the ghost by swallowing prussic acid. A political boss vaguely resembling Clarence Darrow was shot by his own revolver in a scuffle; and his lady friend, who had fired the accidental shot, rushed to the door, which was charged with high voltage current, and perished amid a brilliant electrical display.

The university president who looks, and maybe sounds, like Nicholas Murray Butler will be the next to go, I told myself. He has been making trouble for every one all night. And so it came to pass. The master mind himself turned this trick, with a bullet fired from nowhere by a pistol that made no sound.

Then there were only three survivors—the high born girl who had become a movie star, the newspaper reporter who had loved her and quarreled with her for years, and the suave, well mannered professor of higher mathematics. Even then the riddle was hard to guess—and when the answer was given I didn't believe it.

As mystery plays go, "The Ninth Guest" is a good one. It refuses to follow the usual formula. It contains no shrieks, no ghastly hands creeping out from behind doors, no ogre faces peering through the window pane, no incredible hobgoblins. Its only relationship to the standard brands of horror show is to be found in the way its characters get together and bay at one another, nose to nose.

The acting, I regret to say, is not much better than second rate. But it will improve, no doubt, for the cast seems slightly raw in its assignments. Eleanor Hayden is attractive as the pretty girl of the proceedings, and Howard St. John is credible as the smooth professor.

I regard "The Ninth Guest" as the theatrical equivalent of the yarns by S. S. Van Dine. I found its story so engrossing that I departed without my galoshes, much needed for midnight mushing through the snowdrifts of Evanston.

Thirty Child Welfare Bills Are Presented

Follow Report of Group Governor Selected.

Springfield, Ill., March 10.—[Special.]—Thirty bills on child welfare were introduced in the senate this evening by Senator Florence Fifer Bohrer [Rep., Bloomington]. They are the results of two years' study by the committee of child welfare legislation, appointed by Gov. L. L. Emmerson, and of which Henry P. Chandler of Chicago is chairman.

Some of the means of prevention of juvenile delinquency recommended by the experts are a larger use of mothers' pensions, a better system of probation and parole and expansion of the department of public welfare.

A synopsis of the recommendations follows:

For dependent children—Enlarge the scope and increase the funds for mothers' aid—pensions; require investigation of applications for adoption of children and six months' residence of the child in the home of the adopting parents; provide for support of illegitimate children during dependency by their fathers after establishment of paternity; provide for more effective supervision of child-caring agencies; authorize department of public welfare to accept the guardianship of dependent children where the local authorities are unable to meet the need.

For delinquent children—Require appointment of one or more probation officers in every county; the state under certain conditions will reimburse the counties for one-half of the salaries paid; provide for commitment to the department of public welfare as guardian in lieu of commitment to correctional institutions; provide for juvenile parole as a function of the department of the public welfare.

For handicapped children—Create a commission to develop policies for their care; require physical and mental examination by the department of public welfare prior to commitment to any state institution; commits handicapped children to the department of public welfare rather than to specified institutions, with authority to study and pace for treatment.

County organization—Requires establishment of an advisory county board of public welfare in every county, to serve without pay, and the appointment of a paid executive, one-half the salary of the latter to be reimbursed by the state.

Health and education—Regulate the practice of mid-wives; regulate the medical practice and social procedure of maternity hospitals; extend the work of the department of health of promoting the health of children and mothers; secure better enforcement of child labor and school attendance laws; enforce the duty of school systems to provide suitable education for all school children within their jurisdiction; raise the maximum age for child labor from 14 to 16 and safeguard children in industry between the ages of 16 and 18; regulate employment of children in street trades; equip the department of public welfare to give constructive leadership to child welfare work in the local communities.

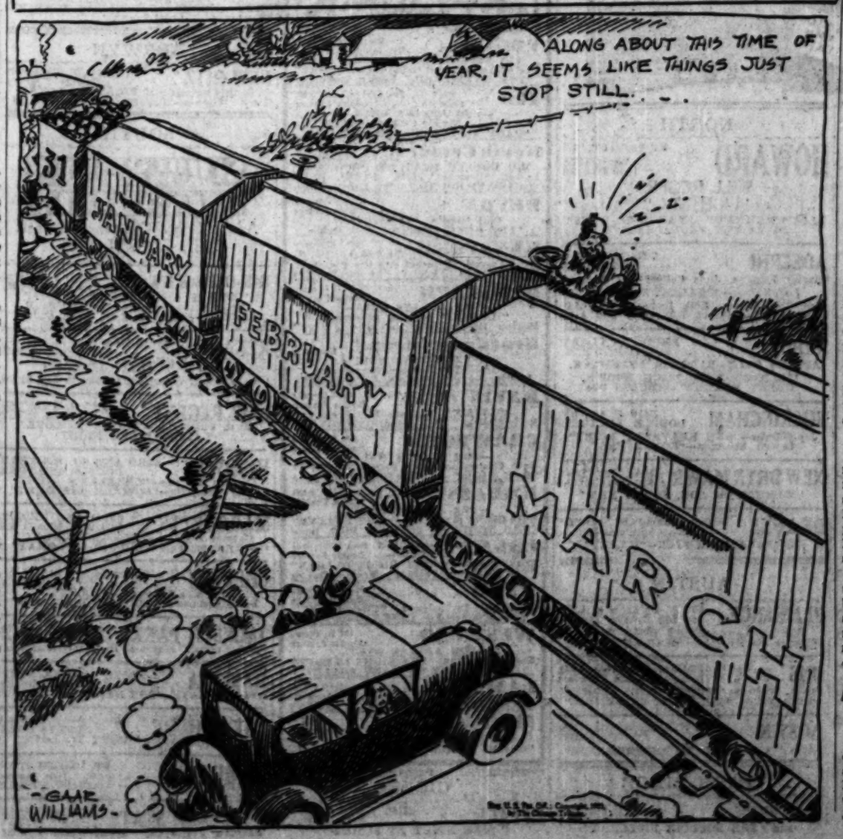
WOTTA LIFE! WOTTA LIFE!



"Lora's" Fiance Is Money Mad, and a Mother's Boy, Too

BY DORIS BLAKE.

"Lora" has been going five years with a man, 36. Has been engaged to him for three years. He lives with his mother and is the man of the house, at home. He and his mother buy everything together—stocks, bonds, etc. The home they bought and paid for she holds the deed to in her own name.

They're buying another house. The deed is again in her name. "It will be three years before the last house will be paid for," Lora writes, "which means, to me, a three year further delay of our marriage. It's his mother he takes out every Sunday, dropping in on me about eight.

"He earns an excellent salary, and I have tried to talk to him but he says he cannot be or do differently now. He is well liked, but is selfish—and money mad. I'd like to go to a nice dance, or to a good show, but he takes me only to a picture once in a while. Do you think I would be happy married to him, or had I better say good-by?

"I know while his mother lives I would be third in the picture. As it is I have a nice home and a good position."

Sometimes it isn't a bad idea to present in type the picture of a man and influencing surroundings and study him so, as a matrimonial prospect. From the above presentation I should say that an impartial jury would rule him out as happiness producing domestic material. But I suppose it finally depends on how much in love the girl really is.

A girl can be madly in love with a man, in spite of the fact that she can sit down and write out his faults and his failings. It isn't true that love is blind to everything but perfections. Some women in love will give vent to the most shocking recitals about the man. So much so that you are surprised later to find them cooing and billing over him in person.

Personally, the last thing I'd want to count on getting happiness from is a money mad, selfish man with a mother who has first place in everything. The combination seems just too much for any girl to tackle. And a total wait of eight years holds no sign of promise either.

On the other hand, who but the girl herself knows what life would be with the man completely out of the picture? I used to be much more ready with advice to tell 'em good-by, but life teaches you that's no outsider's right, for you never can tell how some of these impossible looking prospects turn out as husbands.

DORIS BLAKE ANSWERS

Girl Lacks Seriousness.

"Dear Miss Blake: The girl I love doesn't seem interested in me. It is because I am 22 and she is only 17? "CHARLIE."

You can't expect a girl of 17 to be serious with you or any other fellow, Charlie.

EMBARRASSING MOMENTS

Dispensing Sunshine.

While waiting in the parlor of a girls' dormitory one evening for my date to come down stairs, I noticed that the numerous coeds who were sitting lazily about appeared to be bored with life. I thought here is a chance to bring a little sunshine into this dismal place and at the same time show these fair maidens that as a performer of parlor tricks I have no equal.

I placed my hand on the back of a large overstuffed chair and making the remark that I could spin everything in the room but the piano, began whirling the chair about on one leg, knowing as I did so that the matron had made some remarks a few days previous relative to the way a gentleman treats furniture.

As the speed of the big chair increased I heard cries of astonishment which were as applause to my ears. This is a big evening for me, I said to myself, spinning the piece of furniture faster and mentally patting myself on the back. Suddenly the cries changed from a tone of surprise to one of warning and alarm, but, steeped in my own self-complacency, I heeded not. A sickening splintering sound when the leg of the chair snapped off brought me to my proper senses and as the chair crashed to the floor my conceit crashed with it.

The temperature seemed to rise about forty degrees and when the matron and my girl friend appeared a blind cosmetologist could have lifted my face in a dark room. Yes, I brought a little sunshine into that hall.

Fall of Roof at Onwentsia Halts the Ride

BY THALIA

All the riding classes that have been going on this winter at the new Onwentsia indoor ring are indefinitely discontinued until the roof is put back in place. Lake Forest hasn't had anything exciting in a long time as the accident on Sunday. The riders are all exhilarating themselves that afternoon during the night.

In the daytime there are always classes all the time, and had the accident occurred when any one of them were under the building there undoubtedly would have been fatalities and injuries. Work hasn't been started yet, but probably will take six or eight weeks to complete the repairs, and in the meantime while the numerous children's classes on the Monday afternoon jumping course, that the Fort Sheridan officers are instructing, and the various other groups that have been using the ring are out of luck.

Roof Was Work of Art, but Not Blizzardproof.

The roof was something exceptionally fine, you remember—a large dome—without beams or trusses, so that the spectators' view was unimpeded. The trouble seems to have been in Germany, whence came the plans, such heavy snowfalls as the one we had on Saturday and Sunday are not known, and the engineers did not plan the ceiling to withstand such a terrific weight.

Lake Forest and the other suburbs were emerging gradually yesterday from under the heavy snow blanket that engulfed them, and people were still having to walk to their respective villages because the motors were snowed in their garages.

One of the storm tales told is that the blizzard was of the Winnetka variety whose residence is on the lake shore. On Sunday morning their front door was completely buried and the dwellers had to wait until the neighbors noticed their plight and shoveled a passageway to let them out.

Duke with the aid of assistant Secretary of Commerce and Mrs. Joseph P. Tamont gave a dinner party in Washington one night last week for guests including ambassadors, generals, and so forth. . . . The Campbell Salisburys had a dinner party at the Belleview Country club at Palm Beach also last week. . . . Mrs. Frederic McLaughlin was among the guests of Mrs. William Randolph Hearst at dinner at the Patio Lolanthe before the annual costume ball of the Everglades club at Palm Beach. Miss Carolina Smith and her brother, Ralston Smith were participants in the treasure hunt and pirate party that made the climax of the season at Beach. . . . Miss Martha Lee, daughter of the T. George Lees, came on from Miss Dow's school at Briarcliff Manor to be present at the dinner given to announce the engagement of her sister, Miss Jane Lee, to William Howard Graham.

Work hasn't been started yet, but it probably will take six or eight weeks to complete the repairs, and meanwhile the numerous children's classes, and the Fort Sheridan officers were instructed, and the various other groups that have been using the arena are out of luck.

Roof Was Work of Art, but Not Blizzardproof.

The roof was something exceptional, too, you remember—a Lamella construction of trusses, so that the spectators' view was unimpaired. The trouble seems to have been that in Germany, whence came the roof design, such heavy snowfalls as the one we had on Saturday and Sunday are not known, and the engineers did not plan the ceiling to withstand such a terrific weight.

Lake Forest and the other north shore suburbs were emerging gradually yesterday from under the heavy white blanket that engulfed them, but people were still having to walk about their respective villages because the roads were snowed in their garages.

One of the storm tales told about the Edward Winnetka family, whose residence is on the lake front. On Sunday morning their front door was completely buried and the family had to wait until the neighbors noticed their plight and shoveled a passageway to let them out.

Ross returned yesterday from a stay in Florida, first as the guest of Mrs. W. Scott Linn and later with Mrs. Herbert Young . . . that the Frederic McLaughlins, Col. George T. Langhorne, Otto W. Mr. and Mrs. Howard Linn is in Miami Beach, as also are the Earle H. Reynolds and Mrs. Charles Glore.

Among the fashionable first nighters who gave puzzled attention to the opening of "The Adding Machine" last night at the Goodman were Mrs. Rockefeller McCormick, Thomas W. Hinde, whose daughter, Sara, appeared as "Mrs. Three"; the Walter Brewsters, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Bissell, Mrs. Jacob Baur, Karen Nielsen Stevenson, Mrs. Lewis Louer, Miss Clara Lake, Mrs. James Hamilton Lewis, and Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd A. Mr. Pope is a graduate of the University of Wisconsin, class of 1923. Miss Hansen and Mr. Pope are to be married this spring.

Child of Ballistics Expert Sees Doll Is Well Armed.

Commentary on the times or something—What would 9 year old Mary Goddard's Virginia gentlewomen forbears think of her now? Of course, her father is Col. Calvin Goddard, the ballistics expert, head of the Northwestern crime school, and that may account for the fact that one of her birthday gifts was a dear little—can you guess?—pearl handled revolver. The Goddards have been living at 1400 Lake Shore drive since Mrs. Goddard and the two girls came on from the east to join Col. Goddard last fall, and one day Mary was showing her dollhouse to a caller. The latter was somewhat startled to discover that one of the dolls, neatly tucked into a miniature bed, had a tiny pistol under her pillow.

UNITED CHARITIES ASK MORE FUNDS, CITING DEMANDS FROM NEEDY

Faced with insufficient funds to meet "the great continued need" among families who have been under their care during the last month, the United Charities of Chicago yesterday mailed an appeal to 25,000 Chicagoans.

Warren A. Lamson, president of the charities, in a statement declared that "Chicago faces a greater crisis in meeting the emergency due to unemployment at this time than at any time during the long period of unemployment."

"Since Nov. 1 many thousands of families who a year ago were in fairly comfortable circumstances have come to the United Charities in constantly increasing numbers," Mr. Lamson said, "and all indications are that we shall not reach the peak load before the latter part of March or early April."

Mr. Lamson quoted from the records of the charities, showing that in November there were 7,559 families; December, 13,667; January, 16,186; February, 17,000. In February, he said, the United Charities expended a total of $196,270 for relief alone, an increase of more than $125,000 over the amount for relief in February of last year. In January the relief expenditures were $145,035, a $100,000 increase over the previous January.

"The United Charities has only been able to give these large amounts for relief through generosity of its own contributors and the help of the Cook county emergency relief fund," Mr. Lamson continued. "Now these funds are falling short of meeting the great continued need."

Liszt's Noble Experiment Is Well Played

BY EDWARD MOORE.

MR. STOCK called on the Chicago Symphony orchestra to be its own soloist yesterday afternoon, and the orchestra responded brilliantly. In at least two of the four numbers on the program there was playing by individuals and ensembles that might well move a hearer to extravagant praise. One was Franz Liszt's "Faust" Symphony, the other Richard Strauss' tone poem, "Don Juan."

It is perhaps necessary to put one's self in the right state of mind in order properly to appreciate what Liszt did with his "three character pictures (after Goethe)" which is the subtitle of the symphony. One should become a little historically minded to remember that Liszt was a good bit of an experimenter and innovator in his musical effects, that what he evolved was not to be found in the work of his contemporaries or predecessors. Then if one can draw the curtain of forgetfulness on Goethe, to disregard any idea of whether Liszt's musical Faust and Margaret and Mephistopheles are the correct pictures of Goethe's literary Faust and Margaret and Mephistopheles, so much the better. Even Liszt had his aberrations of trying to translate philosophy into music.

If all that can be arranged in the mind, what results is some rather fine music, in spite of its length, sometimes stirring, occasionally touching, generally interesting. Philosophical musings always get in the way of music, anyway. The best thing to do is to let the music speak for itself. When it speaks as the experts of the Chicago Symphony orchestra spoke it yesterday it is highly eloquent.

"Don Juan" for years has rated as one of the great showpieces of this orchestra. It was all flame and color and emotion yesterday. The standards of performance set for it a long time ago are still flying high. The program began with the Haydn-Brahms Theme and Variations and ended with the Magic Fire scene from Wagner's "Die Walküre."

John Weicher, who was announced to play Mendelssohn's Concerto for violin in the orchestra's popular concert tomorrow evening, has been ill and will not be able to appear.

Ruth Walmsley gave a piano recital at Kimball hall last night. She is an earnest student who seems not to have digested Liszt's remarks on tempo rubato for her Chopin playing. The possessor of a pair of well trained hands, she presented quite a bit of unusual piano music, such as three choral preludes by Bach in the Busoni version, Beethoven's "Eroica" variations, in which he used the theme of the final movement of the "Eroica" symphony, and pieces by Hindemith, Scriabin, and Ravel.

The Children Need to Have a Motive to Achieve Neatness

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

"A Mothers' and Fathers' Litany" signed by Mrs. Bevans will be sent by her on receipt of a 2 cent stamp.

In requiring things of children we want to appeal to their intelligence, though this does not mean elaborate explanations on each and every occasion.

There are two motives we can arouse in children for orderliness. These are: First, when they're little, that by being orderly they are helping us. This idea that they are "helping mother," or "helping daddy" is both an incentive and a reward all in one.

Second, when they are older, especially as they reach the boisterousness of 12, or the dreaminess and occasional irresponsibility of the teens—we can make them see that it is only fair and their share of the life of the family to be orderly. They can easily be made to see that it is not right to expect one person to disperse the disorder caused by another. And remember that at 12 and 13 your praise and appreciation can keep right on working—not on every occasion but often enough to keep things happy.

Let us sum up now a few ways to encourage orderliness:

Have a place for everything.

Make orderliness easy by having receptacles, drawers, closets and hooks convenient to the children and low enough to be within their reach.

Don't expect too much. In fact, expect very little, but expect it with a consistent uniformity.

But on the other hand, don't expect perfection—that is, don't expect that they'll never slip up. If you do their chore for them occasionally, don't "rub it in."

Associate the formation of the habit with pleasantness—like praise, helping doing your share, etc. Don't scold and nag about it as though orderliness were a punishment.

If you expect certain things done at certain times, like having clothes put away before breakfast, or toys put away before supper, or dinner, allow plenty of time for it. Children can't hurry, and if you try to hurry them you'll get poor results.

Reasonableness — patience—friendliness accomplish infinitely more than severity, scolding and nagging in building up this habit of orderliness.

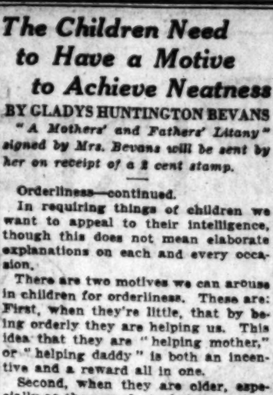
Quickest Way To Knock a Cold

Millions Say of This Proved Way



Take two tablets now.

You Feel Like a New Person Almost Before You Know It

If you want quick relief from a cold, go back to first principles and use something you know does the business—don't start "trying" a lot of fancy ideas or remedies. Even a "little" cold is too dangerous to take chances on.

Get Hill's Cascara Quinine. A scientific formula made to do ONE THING WELL: to knock a cold in a jiffy, not to cure a hundred different things.

Take two tablets now. Then follow directions on box. Drink lots of water, too—that's all. Soon those mean, aching pains in head and body begin to go; the cold breaks up; poisons leave your system. Almost before you know it, you feel like a new person.

If it doesn't do that, your money back. Get a box now. You'll be surprised at the speed with which it works. Costs only a few cents.

Kotex assures you of soft, lasting, sanitary protection

HOURS hiking out-of-doors; other hours at the theatre, at the opera, at an office desk! The problem of sanitary protection becomes more and more complicated as the modern woman extends her varied interests. For she refuses to recognize physical handicaps which once limited her opportunities. Kotex has made such handicaps a thing of the past.

Lateral absorption—a Kotex feature

In order that a sanitary pad fulfill its purpose satisfactorily, it must absorb, not only in one concentrated spot, but the full length of the surface. This Kotex does. The long, delicate fibers of which it is made carry moisture swiftly away from the center and away from the surface. This makes for delicate, lasting comfort.

No precautions need be taken to wear Kotex a special way. It serves with equal comfort, no matter which side it uppermost. There is no likelihood of embarrassment from wrong adjustment.

It is adjustable to suit individual needs. And it is treated to deodorize. Specify Kotex sanitary protection.

IN HOSPITALS...
1 The Kotex absorbent is the identical material used by surgeons in 85% of the country's leading hospitals.
2 Kotex is soft . . . Not merely an apparent softness, that soon packs into chafing hardness. But a delicate, lasting softness.
Regular Kotex—45c for 12
Kotex Super-Size—65c for 12

See the new Kotex Belt
Brings new ideals of sanitary comfort! Worn to fit by an entirely new patented process. Form yet light; will not curl; perfect-fitting. (U. S. Patent No. 1770741)

GOLDEN GLOVES DRAW RECORD INDOOR CROWD

THIRD PERIOD RALLY WINS FOR SHAMROCKS, 5-3

Score Three Times in Last Session.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

The Shamrocks, who have been skating somewhat these last few games, bloomed all over the Stadium ice last night, defeating those old troupers, the Kansas City Pla-Mors, 5 to 3, and thereby clinging to their slender opportunity to be among those present at the American Hockey league playoffs.

The Chicagoans played one of their best games of the season last night. They took a 2 to 0 lead midway through the second period, but the Pla-Mors immediately returned to lead 3 to 2 at the end of the period. Brilliant skating by Gordie Brydson and Peter MacKenzie, coupled with the offensive agility of young Mike Karakas, tied the score and produced two more goals, the latter pair being contributed by MacKenzie.

Both teams devoted the first ten minutes to a skating lesson entitled "how to play hockey." The forwards contributed artistic skating while the defense men seemed more adept than usual in taking the puck away from foes.

The goal keepers also afforded an unusual contrast, with Paddy Bryne, the most expensive guardian in the league, at one end, and Karakas, a 19 year old novice, at the other. Mike was particularly agile in warding off several Pla-Mor thrusts.

McFadyen Drives in Rebound.

The Burns-Riley-Wiseman scoring line contributed some stirring dashes up and down the rink, but they couldn't drive the puck past Bryne. It was McFadyen, Brydson and MacKenzie who score the first goal of the evening. Dennie skated the length of the rink with the puck, nudged it along to Brydson, and drove it in on the rebound off Brydson's shot against Bryne's skate. The time was 12:42.

The Shamrocks weren't long in increasing their lead after the second period began. It was the McFadyen-Brydson combination which received credit for the deed, but all of the Shamrocks except Karakas appeared to be involved in the scoring. After the puck had been smuggled past the Pla-Mors' goalie Jamieson and McLeod, Brydson hit the puck from McFadyen and passed away until Byrne was flat on his back. Not even his frantically waving arms could stop the shot. The time was 4:54.

Kansas City Gets 3 Goals.

The Pla-Mors then shoved two goals past Karakas and tied the score. First the speedy Mike Goodman darted through without assistance, feinted Mike out of position, and the puck rolled into the net. That required six minutes and 25 seconds. At 8:12 Campbell, with a lift from Jamieson, tied the score by again luring Mike from the net.

The Pla-Mors again embarrassed Karakas and took the lead in 17:47. Ranger skated back of the Chicago cage and suddenly shot the little rubber out to Dunfield, who fired it past Karakas without difficulty.

The Shamrocks left Byrne in a horizontal position at the end of the second period and spent the first nine minutes of the last session attempting to persuade him to assume it again. But Pete couldn't see the point and fought off the Chicago forwards all by himself.

Shamrocks Battle to Lead.

Taylor and Brydson collaborated for the Shamrocks' third and the tying goal. Taylor battled his way up for an angle shot, and Byrne left one side of the cage to stop it. Brydson was on top of the puck immediately to shove it into the cage in 10:04.

After Jamieson had almost scored a goal single handed the Shamrocks took heart and took a 4 to 3 lead in 11:37. Mackenzie took McFadyen's pass and shot it past Byrne.

With three minutes of play left, Mackenzie scored his second goal. The Pla-Mors' defense men had deserted their posts and Brydson passed to Taylor, who had only Byrne to beat in front.

AMERICAN LEAGUE.
Chicago, 5; Kansas City, 3.

MONTREAL, Que., March 10.—(AP)—Despite the absence of Howie Morenz, Les Canadiens tonight outplayed the Chicago Blackhawks, who hold second place in the American section of the National Hockey league, handing them a 2 to 1 defeat.

Canadien subs played a brilliant game, backed by the experienced direction of Aurel Joliat. The Red Shirts showed a good edge on the play and the masterly net minding of Chuck Gardiner in the Blackhawk net spoiled many goals for the flashing Frenchmen, who swarmed in from all angles. The Chicago second line with Tommy Cook, Arbour and Mush March proved more of a threat than the first string.

Lepine Opens Scoring.

Aurel Joliat took the puck off Bostrom's stick behind the Chicago net and passed out to Pete Lepine, who snapped a quick shot into the net. Chicago was two men short when the goal was scored, Graham and Couture resting in the box.

Lola Couture tied the score for Chicago early in the second period. He took a pass out from Romnes and banged it over Hainesworth, who was lying on the ice. Gottselig, who flipped a shot to Romnes behind the net, was credited with an assist. Chicago shifted lines and kept up the speed of their attack. Ripley and Tommy Cook, aided by Mush March, made things hot for Les Canadiens as Gagnon went to the bench for roughing.

Les Canadiens made a desperate try at recovering their one goal advantage. Burke held the defense alone and Joliat was the head of a four man attack. Twice the little wing stick handled his way through in spectacular style to pass to a teammate. Gardiner was too good for the red shirts and turned back shots from right under his nose.

Ragging Slows Game.

The hockey was not so fast in the early minutes of the third period. Ragging at center ice and heavy checking at the blue lines took the snap out of both Hawk and Canuck thrusts. Penalties brought time wasting and goalies had few shots from close range.

The goal that broke the tie and put Les Canadiens in the lead again was a lightning shot from Wasnie, who batted in Gardiner's clearance of Burke's shot. Marty Burke bore down left ice and drilled a shot at Gardiner. The Chicago goalie stepped out and cleared. The rebound slid to Wasnie's feet. He picked it up in stride and caught Gardiner still off balance.

Stadium to Be Big Tent for Clowns, Monkeys April 5

The Chicago Stadium, which in its two year span of life has housed almost every type of athlete from bicycle pedalers to pugilists, has extended its field of activities. The Stadium is going into the circus business and, startin; April 5, for two weeks, it will shelter under its roof all of the rare fauna that appertain to circuses.

SIDNEY STROTZ.

The particular circus which the Stadium will take under its wing is the Great European Olympia, billed as the greatest show on the continent, the home of most of the present day circus performers.

The transition from sports to the circus isn't, after all, as startling as it might seem at first glance. In fact, it seems quite appropriate that what the press agent with his love for alliteration chooses to call a "ponderous pachyderm" should move through his antics with stately tread on the same spot where Primo Carnera, with only slightly more grace, pranced about not so many months before.

Cyclist to Perform.

And where the bike racers pedaled around and around getting exactly nowhere in six days, Oscar Babcock, European cyclist, will perform the same feat in considerably less time. Oscar, just like the six day racers, will go around and around, with this exception: Whereas the racers' confine their activities to a horizontal plane, Oscar does his pedaling vertically, looping the loop. But the effect is the same; he ends, like the racers, just where he started.

Sidney N. Strotz, president of the Stadium corporation, decided to go into the circus business immediately after the John Ringling interests passed up the Stadium in favor of the Coliseum as the site for the Chicago performances of their numerous shows. With all of the American shows under one ownership, Strotz started a search for a circus of his own to fill the Stadium and landed on the Olympia. Because of its size, it will be impossible to produce the circus in one night stands, but it will go on the road just the same, playing only in cities having areas similar to the Stadium, where it is possible to play a stand of a week or more to cut down the expense of moving it nightly. The first section will arrive in America on April 1.

Garden Also Takes in Circus.

The Stadium's circus venture is the second stir that sports arenas have caused in the circus business recently. Madison Square Garden, the Stadium's New York prototype, a few months ago was the immediate cause of the absorption of the Sells-Floto circus by the Ringling interests. Although John Ringling, the circus magnate, was a large stockholder in the Garden corporation, Sells-Floto obtained a lease on the Garden, and when Mr. Ringling decided to put his trained animals through their customary New York antics he found himself shut out of his own circus ground.

Mr. Ringling's course was plain. Either he could take his circus elsewhere or buy Sells-Floto. He bought Sells-Floto, and having merged it with his other interests, he will produce his own circus at the Garden as usual.

Strotz expects to make the Olympia's visit an annual affair, with each tour starting after a two weeks' showing in the Stadium, where, every spring in the future, fighters will give way to professional clowns and monkeys will usurp the place of the bicycle riders.

Stagg, Griffith Tell Story of Iowa's Ouster from Big 10

Amos Alonzo Stagg, director of athletics at the University of Chicago, and Maj. John L. Griffith, athletic commissioner of the Western conference, told yesterday the reason for the Big Ten severance of athletic relations with the University of Iowa on May 25, 1929.

Operation of an alumni loan fund, granting of athletic year books concessions to athletes, existence of a merchant's work fund, and failure of the registrar to sign eligibility lists which are sent to the member institutions, were the cardinal charges upon which the University of Iowa was convicted, Stagg and Maj. Griffith testified.

Stagg and Griffith talked at a hearing held at the Sherman hotel by a special Iowa legislature investigating committee, which is inquiring into the administrative affairs of the state university.

Clear Dr. Belting.

Maj. Griffith cleared Dr. Paul Belting, former University of Iowa athletic director, who resigned shortly before the Hawkeyes were expelled from the Big Ten, of the charges of bringing on Iowa's troubles. Stagg also gave Belting a clean bill of health, declaring that Belting had inherited a "bad situation," when he was employed as director of athletics in 1924.

"Dr. Belting had my confidence, and it is my opinion that he had the confidence of the other conference athletic directors," Stagg said. He added that the athletic situation at Iowa was now healthy and sound, that he bore no ill feeling toward the Hawkeyes or any other institution in the Big Ten.

Says Officials Feared Alumni.

Both Stagg and Griffith said they believed one of the principal reasons why Iowa was made the object of action, rather than other schools in the Big Ten was that the administration knew of and permitted the alumni funds and feared that alumni interference had taken control of athletics at Iowa out of faculty hands. Maj. Griffith declared that the famous "Cobb-Marcer" letter, which served as one of the chief weapons of the Big Ten faculty committee in its disciplinary action against Iowa, was not furnished by former Director Belting.

The letter was from W. H. Cobb, auditor of the university, to Willis W. Mercer, an Iowa City merchant, and guardian of the alumni loan fund, in which the former said difficulty was being experienced in collecting $1,500 worth of notes. Cobb wrote that some of the boys, especially freshmen, had agreed to pay $10 a month, "but as soon as they talked to men like Mayes McClain, who had refused to pay any tuition or sign long time notes, and who was here with his hand out openly, we will have a very thin chance of getting a dime out of any of them."

Fund Unknown to Griffith.

The existence of the so-called "Belting fund," a sum of $1,500, which the university deposited in the First National bank of Iowa City, out of gate receipts, to enable athletes to make loans, was not known to Commissioner Griffith at the time athletic relations with Iowa were broken off.

It was during a meeting in Iowa City when President Jessup of the University of Iowa had appealed to Commissioner Griffith to "help us out" of this trouble that he was first informed of the Belting fund. Griffith said that President Jessup went to his office and returned two canceled checks that told the story of the fund.

"What do you think of that?" President Jessup asked.

Stagg, Griffith Agree.

The two had been talking of former Athletic Director Belting, and Griffith had just given assurance that the Western conference had no intention of fighting Belting's battles. Griffith told the investigators that he had gained the impression that Jessup was holding the loan fund up, as one of the reasons for Belting's dismissal, but Jessup did not state this directly, Griffith added.

Stagg concurred with Maj. Griffith that Iowa could not have been reinstated without the disqualification of the athletes who benefited through the Belting fund.

Maj. Griffith will be cross-examined today by Earl Wisdom, one of two men representing the Iowa attorney general.

WATCHING BOUTS ALTERS A MALE'S FIGHTING IDEAS

No Bluffing Goes with Golden Gloves Boys.

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 10.—A night at the Golden Gloves boxing shows is good medicine, especially in the earlier rounds when the more gangling types of kids are fighting, if only for the reason that it is likely to cure or temporarily relieve most males of the popular delusion that they are great born fist fighters themselves.

In the earlier rounds the lists are pretty well crowded with immature boys who have won a few defaults or one punch fights in the school yards or on the street corners and have done a little boxing in some boys' club connected with some church or lodge, such as the Moose or the K. of C. Emboldened by this experience, they decide to take in more territory, and presently they find themselves up in the rings in the presence of strangers fighting other young men whom they probably have not had the pleasure to meet socially.

Loneliest Place in the World.

Jack Dempsey, or somebody, has said that once the bell rings for a fight the ring is the loneliest place in the world. There is another guy in there and either you lick him or he licks you, and there is no chance to say, "Well now, you look like a nice, reasonable fellow, so why don't we just sit down and talk this thing out to a friendly adjustment without resorting to blows? Or why don't you sue me?"

By the time the tournament has reached the semi-final stage, the boxing is uniformly pretty good and the boys who lose their heads and run off into corners with their gloves clasped over their ears, have been turned back for one more year, anyway. But good boxers and punchers can't teach the deluded layman anything. On the contrary, they tend to confirm his delusions.

One sees large, fat customers or narrow wisps of customers sitting at the ringside, punching and weaving in transports of vicarious conquest as the master fighters do their work. When a hard punch lands, the tendency is to reflect, "Well, I certainly nailed him a pip that time," not "ouch!" That one damn near tore my head off."

Fighting Is Acquired Talent.

But in the first stages of the tournaments very often there will be a couple of boys in the ring who can stir the sedentary and absentee gladiator to no other thought than a rueful realization that, for Heaven's sake, he probably would look like that, if not more so, himself. It is not good for the vanity, but for the prudence and possibly for the health it is a good thing to be reminded every so often that the art of and knack of fist fighting are not the natural endowments of all American males, but an acquired talent like that of the ukelele-banjo.

Very often reputations are earned by bloodless conquests. I remember a young man of about twelve who had the reputation of being the toughest kid of his age in school, it being understood, of course, that young men of that age grade themselves for fighting purposes according to their years, not their weight. This young man hauled off and gave another young man an unprovoked push and a third youth who had just arrived at the school and was as yet an unknown quantity, said, "If you did that to me I would knock you down."

Championship Goes to Stranger.

"Well, I didn't do it to you, did I?" the first boy said, and though no blows were struck, the championship passed to the young stranger through a conquest of no less real than the hardest bloody nose fight in the history of the school. Primo Carnera's reputation, if any, was founded upon a series of victories scarcely more substantial, and the first time he met a fellow who knew enough about fighting to turn his thumbs out, instead of in, he was licked.

Undoubtedly, most males in this country have an instinct for fist fight-

Who's Who in the Final Dash for Ringdom's Biggest Prize

BY WILFRID SMITH.

The Golden Gloves trail comes to an end.

Tonight at the Stadium eight champions will be crowned. Twenty-three thousand will attend their coronations.

MAX MAKER.

Greater fame, perhaps, lies in the near future for Chicago's champions. New York will be met in Madison Square Garden. The French team invades the Stadium on May 12. But tonight the climax of the 1931 Golden Gloves campaign in the west carries an interest these meets, great as they will be, cannot equal.

Twelve Against Twenty.

Twelve Chicago boys are fighting tonight against 20 out of town invaders for boxing's highest awards. In other seasons Chicago has contributed the majority membership of the Golden Gloves intercity team. This year the boxing heroes of other states are making their strongest bid. Thus amateur boxing has developed in country and city in the span of only three years.

Who are these boys whose flying fists and desperate courage have brought them to the final tests? Thousands know them now. They have watched their conquests, seen them block and counter to outpoint their rivals and advance step by step toward complete victory.

From Rockford, Ill., comes Adam Smith, the slugging heavyweight, whose thudding punches have brought him to the threshold of a long sought Golden Gloves title.

Two from Milwaukee.

From nearby Gary, which long has contributed champions to Chicago's intercity squad, come Jack Kranz, a Golden Glove veteran; Johnny Long, and John Navicky.

Champions all, and winners in the Tournament of Champions.

And from Chicago.

George Keenan, Johnny Coulon's welterweight contender. And Scotty Sylvano, perfect workman, whose victories have been scored so easily many have not appreciated his real ability.

Leo Rodak, George Holden, Tony Muscarello, Johnny Phagan.

And the five likely lads from Kid Howard's Arcade gymnasium, favorites to win the team trophy—Freddie Caserio, Eddie Wade, middleweights; Dick Monty, 175 pounder, and Nick Scialaba and George Goodman bantamweights.

These are the boys thousands will watch tonight and other thousands will hear about as Quin Ryan relates their battles over W-G-N.

Eight will be champions. Eight others, defeated tonight, will earn places on the intercity squad where their valor will defend Chicago's 1930 victory over New York.

Thousands to Hear W-G-N Broadcast of Stadium Bouts

Thousands of boxing fans will be listening tonight to W-G-N, The Tribune station on the Drake hotel, when Quin Ryan broadcasts a blow by blow account of the semi-finals and finals of the Golden Gloves tournament in the Stadium.

W-G-N will come on the air for the fights at 8:45, right after "Clara, Lu 'n' Em" finish their nightly gabfest, their time being changed from 9:30 to 8:30.

DE PAUL WHIPS ROCKHURST, 14-13, IN A. A. U. MEET

Kansas City, Mo., March 10.—(AP)—De Paul university, Chicago, took a second round game from Rockhurst college of Kansas City, 14 to 13, tonight in the National A. A. U. basketball tournament. Displaying one of the smoothest passing combinations of the tournament, the Chicago team went out ahead early and led, 9 to 3, at the halfway mark.

Rockhurst spurted in the last period, but its rally fell a point short. The Kansas City team succeeded in breaking up the De Paul keep away game and started goalward just as the game ended. Score:

OPERATE ON KING TUT FOR APPENDICITIS

Rochester, Minn., March 10.—(AP)—Henry Tuttle of Minneapolis, known in the fight ring as King Tut, underwent an operation for appendicitis at Mayo clinic here today.

According to Dr. J. Pemberton, operating surgeon, Tut might have suffered a ruptured appendix within a short time had the operation been put off. As a result of the operation Leo Leavitt, one of Tut's managers, announced all bouts for which the fighter had signed will be cancelled. Tut will not resume active work for more than a month.

Among the scheduled bouts was one with Jackie Fields in Detroit March 12 and a fight with Young Corbett in Chicago March 28. Others to be cancelled include scheduled appearances in Milwaukee and St. Paul.

Distribute 8 Page Souvenir Program Free at Finals

The Tribune will distribute tonight without charge an eight page souvenir program of the Golden Gloves finals. Twenty-five thousand programs have been printed.

The program contains pictures of each of the 32 boxers who compete tonight for Golden Glove championships. The program will be distributed throughout the entire building.

GIANTS CLAIM THEY CAN'T GET RID OF TERRY

New York, March 10.—[Special.]—Bill Terry has been offered in vain to all the other National league teams by the New York Giants, Charles A. Stoneham, president of the club, disclosed today.

The report that the Giants had tried to sell their star first baseman has been in circulation for several days and the confirmation came when Mr. Stoneham was informed that Terry announced in Memphis today that he had reduced his terms for his services. The first baseman, who had refused an offer of $22,500 for the 1931 season, made it known that he was willing to take $15,000.

BY FRENCH LANE.

Start early for the Chicago Stadium if you want to enjoy the entire feast of The Tribune's Golden Gloves championship matches tonight.

Extra surface cars will be operating, extra trains will be running on the elevated lines, automobile traffic will be speeded up and every effort will be made to hurry along the arrival of the crowd. But putting a record indoor crowd of 23,000 into the world's largest indoor arena is no small job.

The task of getting the huge crowd home will be just as difficult, but all the facilities employed in assembling the thousands of Golden Gloves spectators will be put into use carrying them home.

100 on Traffic Detail.

Automobile parties driving from the south side will find Roosevelt road or 22d street advantageous routes from the outer drive. They should go west to Ashland and then north to Madison street.

Traffic from the southwestern part of the city can come down Ogden avenue, and the west side automobile parties have Warren avenue as a direct route to the scene of the bouts. For those motoring in from the north side Ogden avenue from Lincoln park to Washington boulevard provides a boulevard route.

Out of Town Fans.

Golden Gloves parties coming from Milwaukee, Kenosha, Waukegan, Racine and other points north of Chicago can change from the North Shore electric in the loop to Logan square or Humboldt park elevated trains, which will carry them within a block of the Stadium on Madison street. There will be three minute service on these branches of the elevated system.

Workmen were busy until a late hour last night removing the snow from the streets which surround the Stadium.

So if you start early you should be there when the opening gong sounds. And you can remain until the last Golden Glove is awarded and still get home in time to enjoy a good night's sleep.

DOG, CONDEMNED IN POUND, WINS 3 BLUE RIBBONS

St. Louis, Mo., March 10.—(AP)—Condemned to death two weeks ago for the crime of being homeless, hungry, and dirty, Patches, a greyhound, today won three blue ribbons in the Mississippi Valley Kennel club's show here.

When the dog arrived at the humane society's death chambers Gerald B. O'Reilly, head of the society, recalled that E. J. Burke, an advertising solicitor, was looking for a greyhound.

POLICE SUPPRESS GOLDEN GLOVES TICKET SCALPING

Police were detailed yesterday to suppress the activity of scalpers who were offering tickets to the Golden Gloves finals at the Stadium at prices far above their marked value. With the supply of tickets practically exhausted, scalpers began peddling in the loop. Police vigilance will be continued today and this evening at the Stadium.

Two thousand $1 tickets will be put on sale at the Stadium box offices this evening. This is expected to check illicit sales.

YANKS DEFEAT BRAVES, 6-5, ON SQUEEZE PLAY

Gehrig's Bunt Scores Jorgens in Eighth.

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 10.—(AP)—The old fashioned squeeze play gave the New York Yankees a 6 to 5 victory over the Boston Braves in the second of their spring series today.

Going into the last half of the eighth with the score tied, the Yanks loaded the bases and then caught the Braves napping as Lou Gehrig rolled a bunt down along the third base line, Arndt Jorgens romping home with what proved to be the winning run.

Joe Sewell, former Cleveland infielder, led the Yank attack with three singles, while Combs poled a home run and single, and Babe Ruth connected with a triple and single. Lefty Weinert started for the American leaguers and was followed by Roy Sherid and Ed Wells. Harry Seibold and old Tom Zachary divided the Braves' hurling duties. Score:

ATHLETICS WIN, 4 TO 2.

Fort Myers, Fla., March 10.—(AP)—The House of David fell before the world champion Philadelphia Athletics by the score of 4 to 2 here today in an exhibition baseball game in which most of Connie Mack's regulars and rookies took part.

Mack used three juveniles on the mound, Lou Krausse, Al Butcher, and Jimmy Beshong hurled three innings each. Beshong was tapped for two runs in the ninth. Before the game Mack announced that George Earnshaw, his world series pitching star, would continue his spring training at Hot Springs and would not appear in any of the Florida exhibition games.

CARDS PLEASE STREET.

Bradenton, Fla., March 10.—(AP)—Having beaten the world champion Athletics in two of a three game series, Manager Gabby Street is highly elated with the showing by his Cardinals so far.

The most gratifying exhibition, according to Street, was the showing of his regular pitchers. Flint Rhem, Sylvester Johnson, Al Grabowski, and Paul Derringer came through with flying colors.

St. Agnes Is Length Victor at St. John's

New York, March 10.—(AP)—St. Agnes won her first race as a three year old today, when she carried the old rose, black, and white silks of H. Roseacher to victory in the Hotel Andrew Jackson purse at St. John's park, midway between Jacksonville and St. Augustine, Fla.

The speedy daughter of Golden Broom ran a remarkable race to get up in time to beat out the Honeoye stable's Noahjoyce by a length. St. Agnes' time for the five and one-half furlongs was 1:09, a second short of the track records. She paid $3.40 for $2.

Noahjoyce Takes Lead.

It looked as if nothing could catch Noahjoyce, the second choice, after he dashed out into a five lengths lead, but St. Agnes nabbed Noahjoyce inside of the sixteenth pole and won going away. The Mayrose stable's occurrence was third.

Celtic Prince, a four year old son of Prince Pal from Peter O'Keefe's stable, won the six furlong feature at Jefferson Park. He was forced to the limit to defeat a high class field of claimers but managed to get up in time to nose out Bourbon Maid with Taddywawa, the heavily played favorite, third. Celtic Prince paid $12.40 for $2.

American Thunder Wins.

In a head finish, C. S. Stubbs' American Thunder, ridden by H. Clements, gained the decision over Mrs. Emil Denemark's Tishybo in the Vereda Nueva purse, a dash of six furlongs, at Oriental Park. American Thunder set all of the pace but just managed to last long enough to stave off Tishybo's rush with Pan finishing third.

Conservationist Pleads for Action on Boundary Park

BY BOB BECKER.

Although millions of outdoor fans in the Mississippi valley were assured last July of a great recreational wilderness area along the Minnesota-Ontario boundary through the passage of Shipstead-Newton-Nolan bill, the job of permanently saving the Superior National forest-Quetico region is far from being finished. This is the word which E. C. Oberholtzer, president of the Quetico Superior council, brought to Chicago a few days ago, when he talked with local conservationists regarding plans to continue the fight for the last wilderness playground in the middle west.

The Shipstead bill provided that lake levels, rapids, waterfalls, beaches, islands, and wooded shores of the American portion of the Superior-Quetico country be kept inviolate for the health and enjoyment of the American people.

It is proposed ultimately, if the Canadians join us, to establish as a peace memorial in the heart of the continent the Superior-Quetico lakeland sanctuary four times as large as Yellowstone and containing more than 3,000 lakes.

Mr. Oberholtzer last week said: "There is danger that we may fail to accomplish this through lack of staying power and finances. For the consummation of our program it is necessary to consolidate government ownership on the American side [the Superior National forest] and above all to develop public opinion in Ontario for the purpose of securing the final treaty with Canada. Until we secure it there will be no final protection for the area."

Thirty-one national organizations have indorsed this plan to preserve that wonderful lake, stream, and timber country up there on the boundary for all time, because there is nothing like it on the continent.

Two Chicago Teams to Play in Loyola Meet

Two Chicago league teams will play in the national Catholic interscholastic basketball tournament which opens at Loyola university next Wednesday. These will be the winner and the runner-up of the Catholic High School league, whose race will be decided before the end of this week.

St. Mels, winner of the north section title in the league, is already certain to play. A St. Mel's team captured the title in 1923. The other representative will be the winner of the play-off between De La Salle of Joliet and St. Ignatius, who finished in a tie for the south section title of the league. The Joliet tossers won the tournament in 1929 and 1930. De La Salle institute of Chicago, defending champion, has accepted the bid to compete.

Another out of town entry yesterday swelled the list to 25 and added another state to those represented in the tournament. The newcomer is Central Catholic High school of Portsmouth, O.

Johnson Gains Strength, but Still Is Seriously Ill

St. Louis, Mo., March 10.—(AP)—The condition of Ban Johnson continued unchanged here tonight, although the last two days have found him a little stronger and able to eat better than he did before. The former American league president still is critically ill.

CUBS PREPARE TO LEAVE CAMP FOR EXHIBITION TRIP

Regulars Battle Goofs in Final Island Game.

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Avalon, Cal., March 10.—One more day on Mr. Wrigley's magic isle and then our Cubs will break camp and sail away from here. Tomorrow afternoon there will be a game between the Regulars and Goofs to enable the natives to have a farewell glimpse at the Chicago athletes.

The squad will arrive in Los Angeles Thursday evening in time for dinner and on Friday the exhibition season will be on in earnest. The Cub-Angel game Friday will open a drive that will occupy the attention of the club through April 12, with only two scheduled off days, March 14 and April 6. These two days of rest will be paid for in full by the weary athletes, however, for they will play morning and afternoon games with Pittsburgh in San Francisco on March 22 and will have a similar chore against the San Francisco Seals on March 29.

More Drill for Goofs.

The Goofs' team will have considerable utility work to do before they resume their identity as a team after tomorrow's contest. The Goofs will get into activity as a separate organization Saturday and Sunday, when they will play the Hollywood club at San Diego.

For the benefit of the lady fans who want to send fudge and cake to their Cub heroes, and those gent fans who want to send some different photograph records to the boys, it is set down here that the Cubs have changed hotel arrangements since the official roster and training schedule was printed.

The team is to stay at the Biltmore, a fine hostelry, indeed, though it is said the house detectives have great difficulty in keeping the foyer clear of hot touch artists — well dressed panhandlers including such chaps as those who came out here to write theme songs and ran out of themes and money simultaneously.

Players Kindhearted Lot.

There is nothing that breaks a ballplayer's heart so much as being asked for two dollars by a distressed artist. Ballplayers are a kindhearted lot and there always is the menace that some day a hard luck story will be so touching that it will throw a ballplayer off balance and cause him to relinquish two dollars before he realizes what he is doing.

With the stay here so near the end several of the lesser lights on the Cub squad are wearing that haunted look so familiar around baseball outfits just before the breaking of camp each year.

AMATEUR SPORT LEADERS ATTEND TRIBUNE DINNER

One hundred men, prominent leaders and supporters of amateur athletics, were dinner guests of THE TRIBUNE Monday night at the Congress hotel. These men, members of the Tribune Athletic association, are largely responsible for the success of THE TRIBUNE'S amateur sports promotions. Many of them now are serving in the Golden Gloves tournament. Others officiate at the Silver Skates Derbies, which have been held for 15 years; the swimming meet and ski meet inaugurated this year.

Included in the "wrecking crew," as the organization is familiarly known, are representatives from park districts, municipal and board of education athletic groups, skating clubs and boxing officials.

Sox Regulars Beat Goofs, 7-5; Performances Good and Bad

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

San Antonio, Tex., March 10.—In the course of a seven round camp bout today between the White Sox regulars and a second team, Manager Donie Bush saw some things that were pleasing and some which were not so pleasing. One of the satisfactory items was that the main squad whipped the regulars, 7 to 5, but there was no reason for shouting about what some of the new phenoms, whether regular or second stringers, displayed in the way of hitting skill.

BILL CISSELL.

About the best individual performance of the struggle was the contribution of Vic Frasier, the nontalking right hander who a year ago held such fear of big cities that he walked out of a possible major league job. Starting with the regulars today, Frasier remained long enough to convince everybody that he is more than at every day pickup. He hung around for four innings, during which a fast ball thrown with a nonchalant delivery had the Goofs so daffy that none of them could produce a hit.

Pound Frasier's Successor.

When Frasier decided to put on his hat and go home for dinner, the Goofs began to get busy. They hopped all over his successor, Edward O'Shaughnessy, a Chicago semi-pro, and in the fifth inning scored five times. This equaled five runs which the regulars had unjustly scored off Tommy Thomas in the first two innings.

The five run tie, however, was of brief duration. In the regulars' portion of the fifth, Braxton, who followed Thomas, passed O'Shaugnessy and Cissell whacked the ball over the left field screen for the two runs that furnished the deciding margin.

Cissell also played a prominent rôle in the maneuvers that gave the regulars a five run jump on their opponents. Cissell opened the first team's first inning with a triple, but Willingham, the Texas league rookie in center, should have caught it. The run scored on an infield out. Then in the second, after hits by Appling and Kamm, a pass to Grube, a wild pitch by Thomas and a bouncing single by Frasier had counted three runs, Cissell hit another high one to center. Willingham lost it, so Frasier crossed the plate and Cissell kept going until he had done the same.

Mulleavy Plays Second Base.

Blondy Ryan, playing short, started the uprising by which the second stringers tied count in the fifth. He singled. Mulleavy, who played at second base, then looped a single over first base, whereupon O'Shaughnessy, who undoubtedly was handicapped by having to throw to a kid catcher, wild pitched. A pass to Tate filled the bases and Siegel's passed ball let Ryan score. The rest of the five runs were accounted for by Kerr's single, a double by Watwood and a one base blow by the portly Bob Fothergill.

Mel Simons, the lad who is destined to at least start the season in center field, perpetrated only one single. This was a line clout to right off Braxton in the fifth just after Cissell's homer had nudged across the two winning runs. In a previous time at bat against Braxton, he lined to Fothergill but the ball was hit hard. He faced Thomas once and grounded to Mulleavy at second. That was in the first inning when Mulleavy threw out three successive batters, one of them on a ball bounced directly over second base.

Holdouts Are Mum.

Nothing more has been heard from the two holdouts, Carl Reynolds and Moe Berg. Business Manager Harry Grabiner and the genial treasurer, Lou Comiskey, insist no move has been made to entice either fellow into camp. It is probable, however, that when the Sox go over to Austin next Tuesday, Manager Bush or somebody in authority will endeavor to talk to the young fly chaser and .359 hitter. Reynolds is working there with the university team.

The New York Giants and Sox will play the first night baseball game ever participated in by two major league teams at Houston March 21. Secretary Grabiner said that John McGraw, manager of the Giants, had consented to play the game at night.

Hurlers Have Sore Arms.

Some of the results of the two weekend freezes at Houston showed up today. Pat Caraway, the southpaw who is expected to be a regular performer this year, and Bob Lefty Weiland, who is destined for one more season on a minor league farm, responded to Doc Buckner's daily sick call. Both worked in the frigid breeze at Houston and both now have sore arms. However, the ailments are mild. Another casualty is Max Alexander, the south side butcher and camp mascot, who is suffering from indigestion as the result of over indulgence in candy bars.

Phillips Heavies Reach Finals; Rout Lindblom

Wendell Phillips High school went into the finals of the City league heavyweight basketball race yesterday. The 1930 champions, with Bob Frazier and Agis Bray in the leading rôles, defeated Lindblom, 29 to 20, at Tilden gym for their third semi-final victory.

The triumph enabled the titleholders to carry away the south and central sections championship and gave them the right to defend their title against the west and north divisions' representative. They have defeated Calumet, Bowen and Lindblom in semi-final battles.

Phillips led throughout the game, holding a 15 to 7 advantage at half time. Frazier scored ten points, while Bray contributed three baskets and two free throws. Jordan was Lindblom's outstanding performer, scoring nine points.

With Bill Haarlow collecting ten baskets and ten free throws, Bowen closed its season with a 47 to 16 victory over Calumet at White City. The victors led midway, 26 to 6.

Parker's lightweights went on to their second victory in the semi-finals, defeating Bowen, 29 to 19. Snyder starred for the winners, caging four baskets and four free throws. Lineups:

Night at Golden Gloves Bouts Proves We're Not All Fighters

ing, but without practice and development by experience, the instinct is of little use. In fact, it is likely to be a liability and a nuisance, because it causes a delusion of might, generally expressed by the phrase, "I will bust you one on the nose," followed by a set formula of insulting allusions to the other party's forbears, his habits, and his face.

Builds a False Confidence.

Very often this offensive wins a default by sheer intimidation, but it is best not to impose too much on the confidence begotten by a series of such conquests, because the next opponent may be somebody who has fought up to the semi-final or final round in the Golden Gloves or some other amateur tournament. He might start punching.

I can imagine nothing more embarrassing than to have called somebody a full repertoire of unkind names and threatened to bust him one on the nose and then to be unable to make good. There is some comfort in being on the other side. If the other party says, "I will bust you one on the nose," and does that very thing, it is easier to say, "Well, by golly, you did," than to have been author of the threat and be compelled to say, "I have changed my plans and will not bust you on the nose."

Full of Fight at Start.

I have noticed in the amateur fights among the novices that the average maximum fighting efficiency of trained kids in perfect health lasts about two minutes if they start off fast as they generally do. After that, for the remainder of the three rounds, barring the intervention of the referee or a decisive punch, the boys wobble around, open mouthed, with their hair in their eyes, making an occasional swing of despair.

It is very disquieting, by and large, for it conveys a notion that a gentleman of mature years and sedentary habits, with a pretty big daily quota of cigarets and a decent capacity for highballs, cocktails and beer, might not last as long as that and, moreover, having no cultivated skill, might throw his punch with even more pathetic awkwardness.

There's Good in Worst of Us.

After watching the young men fight many furious rounds in the Golden Gloves, I am aware of a sudden access of tolerance and reason. I see no reason to get sore over trifling arguments in traffic. There is some good in the worst of us, including the drivers of big trucks, and it seems uncivilized to jump down and start punching over an interpretation of the right of way. Possibly somebody loves the truck driver who would be distressed if he came home with a tooth missing. And, maybe if the thing were threshed out in the manner of calm, intelligent men, over a few seidels of beer, he would see the justice of my position and apologize or convince me of the justice of his and earn my apologies. A lot of Golden Gloves fighters drive trucks.

QUARTET OF CHAIN STORE FIRMS EXPANDS

Walgreen and Others Make New Leases.

BY AL CHASE.

Four chain store concerns figured in leases closed yesterday, concrete evidence that the big multiple unit organization have no intention of curtailing their expansion plans on account of the business situation. The quartet of firms comprises the Walgreen Co., Feltman & Curme, the Julia King Candy corporation and the Smiley Dress Shops.

The Walgreen company leased the corner store of the Music Box cafe building, at the northeast corner of Cottage Grove avenue and East 64th street, for a term of years for an undisclosed annual rental, plus a percentage of the receipts. Rosenberg & Lurie were the only brokers in the transaction. Walgreen now has eight drug stores on Cottage Grove. Two of them are close to yesterday's lease, one at the 63rd street corner and another at 61st.

Shoe Chain Expands.

Feltman & Curme, national chain shoe concern, with branches from coast to coast, have leased the store at 1550 West 63rd, 20x60, in the building at the northeast corner of Ashland. The space just leased adjoins a Walgreen drug store which is on the corner. According to Frank C. Wells & Co., brokers for all parties, the annual rental, it is estimated, may exceed $5,000 annually as the lease contains a percentage feature.

The Julia King Candy corporation has leased another store in the uptown district, having secured space at 1051 Lawrence avenue from the Kenmore-Lawrence Building corporation for a five year term. Sam Penn has leased the store at 1048 Lawrence from the same corporation and will open a laundry, cleaning and dyeing establishment. Arnold T. Linder & Co. were brokers in both deals.

The Smiley Dress Shops have added three additional stores to their chain, having leased, through Rosenberg & Lurie, the following: 441 East 47th street, 9038 Commercial avenue and 1020 Belmont avenue.

City of Montreal

4½% Sinking Fund Gold Bonds

To be dated April 1, 1931 — To mature {$2,500,000 April 1, 1951 / $8,570,000 April 1, 1971

Principal and semi-annual interest (April 1 and October 1) payable in United States gold coin at the agency of the Bank of Montreal in New York City, or in Canadian gold coin at the office of the City Treasurer in Montreal. Coupon bonds in denomination of $1,000, registerable as to principal only.

Montreal, founded in 1642, is the largest city and most important shipping center in Canada. It is the largest grain exporting port in the world and the third largest seaport on the North American continent. The population of the City has increased from 277,829 in 1901 to the present estimated population of 1,098,409, this tremendous growth being due to the City's favorable location as an ocean and lake port, its availability to low cost water power, its proximity to extensive forest and mineral areas and to the stable labor conditions throughout the Province of Quebec. The assessed valuation for taxation, 1930, is officially reported as $962,771,081, the total funded debt (including this issue) $202,731,428, sinking fund $18,940,943 and the net funded debt $183,790,485. Included in the total funded debt is indebtedness incurred for water works in the amount of $43,486,923 and ratepayers' share of local improvement indebtedness in the amount of $37,692,036. These Bonds are the direct and general obligations of the City of Montreal.

Last year net profit was $945,901, equal after preferred dividends to $3.76 per share on 211,730 no par common shares, excluding $86,935 losses incurred in connection with the closing of factories, etc. In 1929 net was $1,348,939, not including $291,555 of similar losses.

At the close of 1930 current assets were $5,311,767 and current liabilities were $635,001. This left a working capital of $4,676,766, against $4,466,637 a year before. During 1930 surplus was increased from $2,159,440 to $3,330,741.

In addition to the common there is outstanding $2,131,100 of first and second preferred, both $100 par, and a funded debt of $789,000.

The current dividend rate on the common is $3 per annum. Previous to March, 1930, the rate was $1.75.

OIL FIELDS ARE SWEPT BY NEW CUTS IN PRICES

Action Is Caused by Excess Output.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 10.—Another series of price cuts swept the petroleum industry today as crude oil purchasers readjusted their quotations to lower levels in response to continued overproduction.

Lower prices were put into effect in Texas, Louisiana, Arkansas, and in Pennsylvania, while additional purchasers met reductions previously announced in the Midcontinent and California fields.

The South Penn Oil company cut the price of Corning crude 25 cents a barrel to $2 cents.

In addition to meeting the reductions of Stanoline Crude Oil Purchasing company in crude oil prices in north Texas, Humble Oil and Refining company made reductions in prices in the Panhandle district, west Texas, and Lea county, New Mexico. Gulf Coast and Mirando crude oil prices are unchanged.

Posts New Prices.

Following reductions in the Midcontinent and Texas, Standard Oil Company of Louisiana posted new prices in Louisiana and Arkansas fields. The Texas company met Humble's reductions and established a price of 50 cents a barrel for Markham crude, a cut of 19 cents.

Humble cut prices 17 to 40 cents a barrel. A flat price of 40 cents a barrel has been posted for Winkler, Pecos, and Lea counties, which formerly were listed on a gravity basis. Crane, Upton, Crockett, Ector, Howard, and Glasscock counties, formerly on a gravity basis, now take a flat price of 35 cents a barrel, the reductions ranging from 15 to 39 cents a barrel.

The new price for Salt Flat and Darst Creek crudes is 60 cents, a reduction of 39 cents a barrel, while Petrolia crude is priced at 95 cents a barrel, a cut of 15 cents.

Meets Reductions.

The Carter Oil company, subsidiary of Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, met the reductions in crude oil prices posted by Stanoline Crude Oil Purchasing company in Oklahoma and Kansas.

The Standard Oil Company of California has met the reduction in posted crude oil prices, averaging about 50 cents a barrel, in principal California fields announced last week by the Union Oil Company of California.

The Magnolia Petroleum company cut its crude oil prices in Louisiana, Arkansas, the Panhandle of Texas, and west Texas to meet reductions announced by other companies. The

Radio Corp. Reports Net 1930 Income of $5,526,293

New York, March 10.—(AP)—Radio corporation of America today reported to the stockholders that net income last year was roughly one-third of 1929's and that Television, although doing nicely, would stay in the laboratory a while longer, so far as their company was concerned.

With all charges deducted, net income for 1930 was $5,526,293, against $15,892,562 in the previous year. After preferred dividend payments in 1930 there remained a surplus of $320,293 for the common stock, on which no dividends have been paid, equal to 2 cents a share on 13,160,750 shares. This compares with a margin of $10,336,852, or $1.59 a common share on 6,550,375 shares in 1929.

The corporation last May doubled its outstanding common, using the increase to repay General Electric and Westinghouse for their manufacturing rights when those companies turned over their set making activities to R. C. A.

Cites Research Need.

The report gives effect for the first time to the unification plans under which R. C. A. has become a diversified holding organization for numerous subsidiaries in the fields of radio communication and electrical entertainment.

Although television has been demonstrated satisfactorily on a laboratory basis in the last two years, the corporation believes further research and development must precede the manufacture and sale of sets on a commercial scale, and it plans to extend such tests.

The corporation, however, is ready to begin commercial production of home talking motion picture apparatus as quickly as the necessary services are sufficiently developed.

The reduction in earnings last year, particularly marked in the first half, was attributed to the decline in consumer purchasing power as a result of the depression, to the consequent readjustment of prices, and to the widespread liquidation of radio sets "forced upon a number of manufacturers by the need of disposing of substantial inventories."

The balance sheet shows total current assets of $70,434,673 as of Dec. 31 against current liabilities of $34,058,072. Total book assets amounted to $168,548,068. Inventories of all R. C. A. companies aggregated $28,283,713, a reduction of about $3,000,000.

North American Co. Reports.

The business of the North American company during 1930 maintained an "enviable equilibrium," F. L. Dame, president of the company, says in the annual report made public today. "No material interruption" of the company's growth occurred in that period.

Mr. Dame says that the company's policy of paying common stock dividends in common stock will be continued.

About 86 per cent of the company's consolidated net income from operations was derived from electric current. Consumption of electricity by large power consumers was 3.19 per cent less in 1930 than in 1929.

The balance of net income available for dividends, as previously disclosed in the preliminary report, amounted to $28,823,119, an increase of $16,295 over 1929. After deducting preferred dividends totaling $1,820,034 the net income was equivalent to $4.53 a common share on the average number of shares outstanding, compared with $5.03 a common share on a smaller number in 1929. Common dividends amounting to $5,947,487.25 were paid in 1930 by the issuance of 594,748 29-40 common shares, capitalized at $10 a share.

SMALL BULL MARKET CARRIES SILVER PRICE UP OVER 30 CENTS

The price at the opening showed a rise of ¾ cent to 29¾ cents an ounce, exactly 4 cents above the recent historical low. During the day the price continued to advance, and toward the close was quoted at 30½ cents bid, 30¾ cents asked.

Meanwhile copper was steady to slightly easier, with custom smelters offering the metal at 10¼ cents, one-quarter of a cent below the producers, who held at 10½ cents. Buying was small both on domestic and foreign account.

SINGER MFG. CO. DECLARES EXTRA $2.50 DIVIDEND

Directors of Mack Trucks, Inc., decided yesterday to reduce the quarterly disbursement on the stock to 75 cents a share, from $1 previously, thereby placing the issue on a $3 annual basis.

A statement by the board, which accompanied the announcement, predicted a substantial operating deficit for the first quarter of 1931, due to the small volume of business.

"There are very evident signs, however, from inquiries received, of a substantial improvement in orders, which should give materially better business as the year progresses," according to the statement.

Singer Manufacturing company directors declared an extra dividend of $2.50 in addition to the regular quarterly disbursement of $2.50. A similar extra was declared in the previous quarter.

A quarterly dividend of 30 cents a share was announced on the common stock of Thompson Products, compared with 60 cents previously.

Borg-Warner corporation's 1930 report issued last night shows net income for the year of $2,318,120, which was equivalent after preferred dividends to $1.66 a share on the outstanding common stock. The company dipped into surplus to the extent of $1,290,672 to pay dividends, which amounted to $3,608,792 on the common and preferred shares.

In 1929 the company reported net income of $7,682,590, or $6.02 a share, on the common stock. Earned surplus of the company at the end of 1930 was $2,428,682, against $2,632,467 at the beginning of the period. This reflected the deduction of the excess of dividends over earnings and a credit adjustment to surplus of $86,857. Capital and appraisal surplus at the close of the year was carried at $12,666,568, against $12,840,000 at the beginning of the year. Consolidated surplus at the end of 1930 was $15,095,250, as compared with $16,472,467 at the end of 1929.

The consolidated balance sheet as of Dec. 31 shows current assets of $15,193,658 and current liabilities of $2,629,643, as compared with $19,221,823 and $4,391,789, respectively, at the close of the preceding year. Reserve for depreciation on property and plants in 1930 was $7,544,945, against $6,358,052 in 1929. Investments carried at $1,186,536 included treasury stock at the cost price of $560,918.

John R. Thompson Co. Cuts Dividend Rate to $2 Yearly

The board of directors of the John R. Thompson company, owner of a chain of restaurants, yesterday placed the stock on a $2 annual basis instead of $3 by declaring a quarterly dividend of 50 cents, payable April 1 to stockholders of record March 23.

Approve Grigsby Combine and Refinancing Program

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Consolidation of the Grigsby-Grunow company and the Majestic Household Utilities corporation was ratified by stockholders of both concerns yesterday. Grigsby stockholders also approved the refinancing scheme which calls for the issuance of $5,000,000 in convertible bonds against the assets of the combined properties.

Immediately following the action of stockholders, B. J. Grigsby, president and chairman of the combined company, announced that manufacture of electrical refrigerators would be started at once. This will mean the adding of several thousand employes to the firm's present pay roll of 5,594 persons, Mr. Grigsby stated.

Provides Working Capital.

Operations of the Majestic corporation which was organized last spring as an affiliate of Grigsby-Grunow were discontinued several months ago because of a lack of working capital. It was stated that the approval of the refinancing program will provide the Grigsby company with the funds necessary to carry on these operations.

Stockholders of both companies approved the merger deal with only a few dissenting votes. The consolidation is effective as of today.

Shares of both the companies were strong on the Chicago Stock exchange in anticipation of the stockholders' action. Each issue sold up to 6. The merger will be effected through an exchange of stock on a share for share basis and the elimination of all intercompany accounts. As the parent company now holds 25 per cent of the outstanding stock of Majestic stock, only 375,000 shares will be issued to complete the exchange.

Majestic creditors have agreed to take $2,000,000 of the bond issue in lieu of cash for their obligations, stockholders were told. Mr. Grigsby and J. R. Cardwell, directors, will take $425,000 of the bonds in payment for loans of that amount which they have made to the company. This leaves approximately $2,000,000 to be subscribed to by stockholders. Actually, stockholders have prior rights to the whole bond subscription if they so desire.

Mixed Price Trends.

Mixed price trends prevailed generally on the Chicago market yesterday. Utility and motor accessory shares were generally moderately above Monday's prices, with irregularity the rule in other sections of the list. Issuance of a poor earnings report for 1930 by Unit corporation resulted in a break in the company's stock of 4 points to a new minimum price of 3.

The hearing which was to have been held yesterday on the bill pending before the Wisconsin legislature which would remove the exemption on Chicago exchange securities in that state was postponed until next month. No date was set for the hearing, but it was stated that it would be held early in April.

Senator Bernard Gettleman of Milwaukee will offer a bill Wednesday in the state senate which would provide for an interm committee to study the entire securities situation in the state as a substitute measure for the bill now pending, according to dispatches from Madison. It is understood that Chicago exchange officials have no objection to the Gettleman proposal.

SURFACE LINES EARN $778,623 AFTER EXPENSES

The Chicago surface lines for the fiscal year ended Jan. 31, 1931, yesterday reported divisible receipts of $778,623 after expenses, taxes, joint account expenses, 5 per cent interest on the purchase price, etc., against $4,772,710 in the last previous fiscal year. Gross totaled $56,737,090, against $62,717,868.

The report shows that at the end of the year 25 miles of rail extension and 57 miles of bus line extension were completed or in progress, and 75 trolley buses were in operation. In addition to the rail extensions, 29 miles of track was constructed or renewed, President Henry A. Blair revealed. Snow removal equipment of the system was improved by the expenditure of about $100,000.

BY FRED HARVEY.

New York, March 10.—Professionals from the rival trading camps engaged in a lot of fancy sparring in the course of today's five hour session on the New York Stock exchange, but no great havoc was wrought by either side. There were enough gains to counterbalance the losses in the final returns, the volume was stepped up a half million or so above yesterday's rather drab total and everybody went home happy.

The news, like the day's price movements, was mixed. However, its effect was somewhat offset by news of a resumption on a wide scale of new capital borrowing, firmer foreign exchange rates, a temporary turnabout in prices for some commodities and country-wide spending by borrowers of Uncle Sam's money under the new soldier bonus bill.

Trade Slows Up.

The report came out about noon. For a time both sides seemed to be uncertain as to just how much importance to give it as a market factor. The consequence was that trading, which had been fairly brisk in the forenoon, suddenly slowed up. The dullness lasted about an hour. Then the bulls, evidently having decided that there was nothing in the figures to worry about, resumed their bidding up activities in the assorted collection of issues they have selected as a medium for their demonstrations on the current movement and for a while the market presented the spectacle of a rather brisk advance. In the last hour, however, profit taking became pronounced and most of the gains so laboriously run up in the earlier trading were either reduced or wiped out.

Consolidated Gas, for instance, popular pacemaker in the utilities group, suffered a loss of more than half of the 5 point gain it showed before the

DIVERSIFICATION AND PROPER BALANCE... DO YOU HAVE THEM IN YOUR INVESTMENT ACCOUNT?

Suppose you have been extremely cautious in selecting the investments you now own... that you have confined yourself to bonds of high quality... that every security on your list is as sound and desirable today as the day you bought it.

You may be justified in congratulating yourself on the soundness of your investments, considered individually. But an important question still remains, one that you cannot afford to neglect.

Is your list of investments so diversified that you have maximum protection against future changes in any division of industry, in any geographical division of the United States or the world, or against the possibility of unfavorable conditions for reinvestment in any particular future period?

decrease ranged from 5 to 40 cents per barrel.

Make Recommendations.

Texarkana, Tex., March 10.—(AP)—An agreement with major oil companies to limit production and importation of crude petroleum was recommended today by Representatives to governors of seven states as the first step to be taken in restoring prosperity to the industry.

Representatives of Texas, Oklahoma, Louisiana, Kansas, California, Arkansas and Wyoming, meeting here yesterday on a call from Gov. William H. Murray of Oklahoma, made the recommendations as one of a number which might alleviate low prices, waste and "great distress" among oil men.

They proposed that if agreements between the states and producing companies failed to curtail imports, legislatures undertake to control imports within the states. At the same time they suggested that anti-trust laws not be applied.

Production Rises.

Tulsa, Okla., March 10.—(AP)—Oklahoma was the dominant factor in an increase of 52,519 barrels in the country's daily average production of crude oil last week, which totaled 2,155,630 barrels, says the Oil and Gas Journal.

Oklahoma production jumped 55,960 barrels to 800,910 barrels. Outside of east central Texas, which had a gain of 13,377 barrels with an output of 89,343 barrels, other midcontinent areas showed only small shifts. The total for the area was 1,171,534 barrels, an increase of 42,233 barrels.

Eastern production was 111,500 barrels, an increase of 2,250 barrels. The Rocky Mountain area was down 7,267 barrels at 91,346 barrels. California registered an increase of 1,508 barrels, with an output of 526,000 barrels.

Ford Motor Co. Produces 85,109 Cars in February

Detroit, Mich., March 10.—(AP)—The Ford Motor company today announced its world production for February totaled 85,109 cars and trucks, the highest monthly output since last September. The announcement said production would be further increased during the current month, "reflecting increased sales."

RUSSIA SELLS COTTON

Russian cotton is moving more freely and Liverpool reports the arrival of 60,000 bales of late with further shipments expected. This was the basis for much of the weakness and decline in cotton prices in that market yesterday with a break of 9 to 11 points and spot sales of 4,000 bales American.

Selling by the south was also a feature, while the support was mainly from shorts. Prices declined and closed at intermediate figures, with net losses on futures in Chicago of 10 to 12 points and in other markets of 10 to 13 points. Spots lost 10 points in New York to 10.75c, with New Orleans off 15 points to 10.50c. While Galveston was 10.75c and Houston 10.70c. Prices follow:

WORLD'S GRAIN MARKET NEWS

Sentiment in wheat and corn switched late yesterday, it being more friendly to the buying side of wheat on breaks and to selling of corn on bulges. Traders said that the corn market had a good bulge and the absence of outside and new local support which has been a feature on all upturns of late was lacking. The market is susceptible to increased pressure from local interests. Houses with eastern connections were conspicuous sellers of corn in the last hour, which made it more noticeable. The popular argument in wheat was that all bearish conditions have been discounted and the market is believed to be showing more resistance to bear pressure.

Southwestern and northwestern cash handlers have sold about 1,000,000 bu of wheat in the Chicago market within about a week. The grain is to go to store for delivery on March contracts. Part of the wheat from the northwest is No. 1 northern. The elevator situation is a most important factor here, but it was not taken up at the Board of Trade directors' meeting yesterday.

Board of Trade memberships are $9,000 bid and $11,500 asked. The last trade was at $8,800.

FARM RESERVES BY STATES

The government report on farm reserves of wheat and corn in leading states shows that with, few exceptions, supplies of wheat are in excess of last year. North Dakota and Montana being the only producers of consequence where there is less grain held than last year. Nebraska, Colorado and Texas have more corn on hand at the present time than last year while other leading states have considerably less, the reduction in Illinois and Iowa in the aggregate being 37,000,000 bu. Details follow, last three ciphers omitted:

U. S. STEEL CORP. BACKLOG SHOWS 167,157 TON DROP

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 10.—Unfilled orders of the United States Steel corporation decreased at the end of February by 167,157 to a total of 3,316,794, or about to the level at the end of December, the corporation reported today.

The decline in bookings was comparably larger than Wall street had expected, estimates having been for a drop of about 75,000 tons.

The new figures compare with a total of 4,132,351 tons at the end of January and with 4,479,743 on Feb. 28 of last year. Except for the rise in bookings in January, the February figures were higher than for any previous report since the end of July, 1930.

Beneficial Industrial Loan Corporation

6% Convertible Debentures

To be dated March 1, 1931 To mature March 1, 1946

Convertible, at any time until maturity or prior redemption, at principal amount into common stock of the company at the following rates per share of common stock: to and including March 1, 1936, at $20 per share; thereafter to and including March 1, 1941, at $25 per share; and thereafter to and including March 1, 1946, at $30 per share; subject to adjustment in event of recapitalization and in certain other events.

The indenture is to provide for a purchase fund, payable in monthly instalments, of $700,000 per annum to and including March 1, 1933, $350,000 per annum thereafter to and including March 1, 1936, and $210,000 per annum thereafter to and including March 1, 1941, to be applied to the purchase of debentures if obtainable at not exceeding 100% and interest, unexpended balances on each April 1 and October 1 reverting to the company; in event of the issuance, prior to March 1, 1941, of any of the $3,000,000 additional debentures authorized but not presently to be issued, monthly purchase fund payments after each such issuance are to be increased.

The following information has been summarized by Mr. Charles H. Watts, President of Beneficial Industrial Loan Corporation, from his letter dated March 4, 1931, copies of which may be obtained upon request, and is subject to the more complete information contained therein:

BUSINESS

Beneficial Industrial Loan Corporation, a holding company, the operating subsidiaries of which are engaged in the business of making small loans to individuals, is one of two companies which are predominant in the small loan field in the United States. The company owns or controls substantially all of the outstanding common stocks of a large number of companies engaged in this business, many of which have been operating under the present management since 1925; in some instances, loan offices now controlled have been in operation for more than 15 years. The company at present controls a chain of more than 300 loan offices.

Loans are made by the company's subsidiaries in 22 states under laws based on or similar to the general form of "Uniform Small Loan Law". This general form, drafted in 1916 by the Russell Sage Foundation and recommended by it, was designed to regulate the business of making small loans to individual borrowers; laws based on or similar to such general form have been enacted in 25 states. Under the usual provisions of such laws, loans may be made by licensed lenders in amounts not exceeding $300 each, interest is limited to specified maximum rates chargeable only upon unpaid balances, and operations are subject to supervision by the state.

The small loan business requires only a relatively small investment in fixed assets, resources consisting largely of constantly liquidating obligations; instalment notes receivable held by the company's subsidiaries usually have an average life of about nine months and, as at September 30, 1930, represented over 300,000 separate obligations, in amounts averaging about $120. Such instalment notes receivable, amounting as at January 1, 1926 to approximately $9,000,000, had increased to approximately $35,600,000 as at September 30, 1930. During the four years and nine months ended September 30, 1930, the amount of loans charged off as uncollectible represented less than 1% of total loans made.

PURPOSE OF ISSUE

The proceeds from this financing are to be used to reduce bank loans, most of which have been incurred since September 30, 1930 in connection with the expansion of the company's business, and to retire all other interest-bearing indebtedness now outstanding, except employees' thrift accounts, of the company and its subsidiaries.

CAPITALIZATION

The capitalization of Beneficial Industrial Loan Corporation, as at September 30, 1930, adjusted to give effect to this financing and transactions in connection therewith, including issuance of stock, is as follows:

	Authorized	Outstanding
6% Convertible Debentures, to mature 1946 (this issue)	$10,000,000	$7,000,000
Prior Preference Stock, without par value	500,000 shares	none
Preferred Stock, without par value	750,000 shares
Series A (entitled to cumulative dividends of $3.50 a share per annum)		205,877 shares
Common Stock, without par value	4,000,000 shares*	2,051,248 shares

*500,000 shares are to be initially reserved for conversion of the total authorized amount of debentures, and 210,000 shares against options, to be issued in connection with this financing, entitling the holders thereof to subscribe for such stock at $20 a share to and including March 1, 1936; there also are to be reserved 21,000 shares, and 90,000 shares against similar options, which shares and options may be sold with additional debentures.

EARNINGS

Consolidated net income of the company (including predecessors) and subsidiaries controlled as at September 30, 1930, for the period of one year and nine months ended on that date, after operating expenses, interest paid, actual minority dividends, and allowance for Federal income taxes of operating subsidiaries, have been certified by Messrs. Haskins & Sells as follows: 1929—$4,609,273; nine months ended September 30, 1930—$4,264,658.

Consolidated results of operations of the company (including predecessors) and subsidiaries controlled as at September 30, 1930, for the four years and nine months ended on that date, have been certified by Messrs. Haskins & Sells as follows:

	Operating income (represents largely interest on instalment notes receivable)	Operating expenses	Net operating income	Net income before interest, but after allowance for Federal income taxes of operating subsidiaries at 12%, and after minority interests based on cash interests as at September 30, 1930
1927	5,611,978	3,958,122	2,653,856	2,347,727
1928	8,558,420	4,409,471	4,148,949	3,800,383
1929	12,314,569	6,152,907	6,161,662	5,589,363
9 months ended September 30, 1930	10,072,576	4,702,516	5,370,060	4,884,493

NOTE: Operating expenses above include $173,757 for 1929 and $44,235 for the nine months ended September 30, 1930, representing administrative expenses of Beneficial Industrial Loan Corporation and its predecessors; administrative expenses in prior years were borne by companies which controlled the operating subsidiaries in such years and are not included above.

Net income before interest as above, for the four years and nine months ended September 30, 1930, averaged $3,809,993 per annum, or more than 5 times the total annual interest requirement of $720,761 on these $7,000,000 of debentures and, at present rates, on all bank loans and other interest-bearing indebtedness of the company and its subsidiaries, now outstanding and not to be retired out of the proceeds of this financing. Net income of $4,884,493 for the nine months ended September 30, 1930, was more than 8½ times the corresponding interest requirement for nine months.

After deducting from net income of $5,589,363 for 1929, as above, the total annual interest requirement described above, amortization of debenture discount, allowance for Federal income taxes of the company at 12%, and the annual dividend requirement on preferred stock of the company outstanding as at September 30, 1930, there remains $3,903,366, equivalent to $1.90 per share of common stock outstanding as above. After corresponding deductions from net income for the nine months ended September 30, 1930, there remains $3,563,495, equivalent to $1.73 per share of such common stock for the nine months; net income for the full year 1930 has not yet been determined, but the management expects such net income to be at substantially the same rate as in the first nine months of such year.

Quarterly cash dividends are being paid on the common stock at the rate of $1.50 a share per annum.

ASSETS

The consolidated balance sheet of the company and its subsidiaries, as at September 30, 1930, adjusted to give effect as at that date to this financing, as certified by Messrs. Haskins & Sells, shows net tangible assets, after deducting reserves, minority interests, and all liabilities except these debentures and employees' thrift accounts, of approximately $38,700,000.

Authorized $10,000,000; presently to be issued $7,000,000. Interest payable March 1 and September 1, without deduction for Federal income tax not exceeding 2% per annum. Principal and interest payable in United States gold coin at the principal office of Dillon, Read & Co., New York. The indenture is to contain provision for refund of the Pennsylvania and Connecticut personal property taxes not exceeding four mills per annum each, the California personal property tax not exceeding 3 mills per annum, the Maryland securities tax not exceeding four and one-half mills per annum, and the Massachusetts tax measured by income not exceeding 6% per annum. Coupon debentures in denomination of $1,000, registerable as to principal only. Redeemable, as a whole at any time, or in part by lot on any interest date, on thirty days' notice, to and including March 1, 1936, at 110% and interest, with the redemption price successively reduced 1% on each March 1 thereafter prior to maturity. Central Hanover Bank and Trust Company, New York, Trustee.

These debentures are listed on the Boston Stock Exchange and the company has agreed to make application in due course to list such debentures on the New York Stock Exchange.

We offer these $7,000,000 of debentures for delivery if, when and as issued and accepted by us, subject to approval of legal proceedings by counsel. It is expected that delivery will be made on or about March 24, 1931, in the form of temporary debentures, or interim receipts of Dillon, Read & Co.

Combined receipts at Chicago today: Cattle, 8,000; hogs, 17,000; sheep, 12,000.

Another sharp advance in hogs carried the top and general average prices to the highest point of the year. Light and underweights showed the full strength, while medium and weighty butchers slowed down and lost some of the early gains.

Outside demand continued brisk and paid $8.25 hogs at far eastern points encouraged some salesmen to hold medium and weighty butchers off the market on unsatisfactory bids. Most of the smaller houses remained out of the market.

Outside demand continued good, outsiders taking half of the day's receipts. However, with local packers bought 5,000 were still in the pens at the close. Five western markets except 32,000 hogs today, against 45,000 last Wednesday.

May Hogs Bid $9.00.

Light weight hogs for delivery during next May were bid $9.00 on the futures market yesterday, while offers were made at $9.50. April light were bid $8.00 and offered at $8.75, while September light were offered at $8.25 and bid $8.50. March light were offered at $8.75 and bid $8.00. On the "to arrive" market lightweights for today were bid $8.25, mediums $8.00, and heavy $7.75.

Cattle lost Monday's gains when available supplies increased and buyers were practically in control at the finish of yesterday's session. However, the top kinds still held above the $11.00 line, one shipment of prime 1,314 lb averages bringing $11.25, the highest paid for that weight in recent weeks.

Lambs Stronger Again.

Increases in sheep receipts yesterday were offset by the big decreases at other points, and, with eastern demand good, prices held firm again. Outsiders are buying 25@30 per cent of Chicago receipts lately, Monday's shipments at 10,819 being largest since last October.

Most slaughter lambs sold at $9.00@9.25, while several loads to shippers reached $9.35, the day's peak. Aged sheep and yearlings were scarce and unchanged. Feeding and shearing lambs were steady.

CORN WEAKNESS INFLUENCES DROP IN WHEAT PRICES

Incentives to Buy or Sell Are Lacking.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Lack in incentive to take either the buying or selling side of the wheat market in volume continues to be the dominating influence, and while the new crop deliveries fluctuate with moderate rapidity at times the net changes for the day are usually small and mainly the result of local operations.

New crop wheat futures advanced around ¼c in the early trading in sympathy with Liverpool and Winnipeg, but the market reacted 1c from the best figures later with corn and finished ¼c lower with July 63⅞@64c and September 63⅝@63¾c. Evening up operations furnished the bulk of the trade in the old crop months with the finish the same as on Monday, March being 79¼c, and May, 81⅛@81¾c.

Outside Interest Light.

Outside interest in wheat both here and in all of the leading world's markets is unusually small, and it takes but relatively little buying or selling to bring about sharp price changes at times regardless of the character of the news. Winnipeg finished ⅝c lower after a range of around 1c for the day and finished at net losses of ⅜@½c with the July at 61¼c. The weather map showed fair precipitation in parts of the prairie provinces.

Based on a comparison of weather conditions in the fall of 1930 with those of previous years the department of agriculture makes a tentative guess that under normal conditions a yield of around 17.5 bu per acre might be secured in the three Canadian provinces in 1931, or about an average return. On the basis of the acreage harvested in 1930 such a yield would give a crop of 420,000,000 bu, or about 40,000,000 bu in excess of the crop of the previous season.

Export Demand Slow.

With burdensome stocks of wheat in exporting countries foreigners show little disposition to buy ahead on a liberal scale, and total sales of Manitobas for the day were estimated at only 300,000 bu, while no business was claimed in hard winters. Liverpool was ⅛@⅛d higher for the day with the July at 65¾c. Buenos Aires closed ⅛@½c higher, the upturn being due entirely to an advance of 1¼c in the exchange rate. World's available supplies decreased 1,051,000 bu for the week and are 461,755,000 bu against 414,843,000 bu last year.

Corn Market Overbought.

The recent advance of around 3c in corn futures apparently resulted in a very weak technical position, and while the government report on farm reserves showing only 709,000,000 bu, or 278,000,000 bu less than a year ago, was regarded as bullish an early advance brought in profit taking and selling against offers, and later when local professionals started to sell they found support lacking. Prices dropped 1⅜@2c from the early high with final trades at net losses of ⅛@⅜c with March 61¾c, May, 64@64¼c; July, 66⅝@66½c, and September, 66⅛@66¾c.

There was some buying of corn at times on a statement by P. P. Griffin of J. S. Bache & Co. who called attention to the fact that consumption of corn from March 1 to the end of the crop season last year was 917,000,000 bu, or 208,000,000 bu in excess of the amount actually in farmers' hands at the present time. He looks for higher prices ultimately. Country offerings remain small. The spot basis showed little change.

Light Trade in Oats.

Oats futures held within a range of ¼@⅝c with locals inclined to the selling side toward the last in sympathy with the break in corn, while cash interests bought May. The finish was unchanged to ⅛c lower with March, 29⅜c; May, 31⅝c, and July, 32¼. Rye was dull and closed ¼c higher to ⅛c lower with March showing the most strength, finishing at 37⅜c, while May was 40¼c, and July, 41½c.

LARD LOSSES SMALL

Higher prices for hogs failed to have a striking influence on the lard trade for a time early yesterday as an easier feeling prevailed on selling credited to loners and packers. Later there was a rally then a break, but the finish was at net losses of only 2½c on May and September. The continent bought a fair quantity of lard early. Liverpool was 6d to 9d lower. Export clearances of lard were 1,988,000 lbs and bacon 690,000 lbs. Liquidation of a liberal sized holding of bellies in a market without supporting orders carried prices down 45 to 47½c with the close the lowest. Hog receipts were larger than a week ago and about the same as a year ago. Prices follow:
